Lloyd George Denies Split Between England and France

Declares Great Britain Ready To Make Fresh Sacrifices To Secure Peace and Independence of France—No Dissensions

PARIS, April 4.—In a statement to the Petit Parisien, Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain denies there are dissensions between France and England regarding guarantees for France against Germany. He declares that the understanding between the two governments is complete and that England is "ready to make fresh sacrifices if necessary to secure the peace and independence of France."

"I have seen the scourge of war twice loosed on France by Germany," the premier told the Petit Parisien. "We do not intend that there shall be a third time and should it be 50 years hence, France again will find England by her side with all her wealth and power for, mark well my words, the wild beast must be mastered."

"It is mastered at present, but if one day it raises its head ready to spring, it will find itself again faced by France and England, united in brotherhood."

ANNEXATION REAL PEACE DELAY

PARIS, April 3.—President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando continued their discussion at President Wilson's residence.

Italian Troopship With 2000 Officers And Men on Board, Sunk

PARIS, April 4.—The Italian transport Umbria, with 2000 officers and soldiers on board, bound from Venice to Tripoli, has struck a mine and sunk, according to advices from Bari, Italy. Several were killed and 100 injured.

The Umbria, 5020 tons gross, was built at Livorno, in 1902, and owned in Venice.

Pres. Wilson in Bed With Severe Cold

WASHINGTON, April 4.—President Wilson is confined to his bed in Paris, with a severe cold.

Near Admiral Grayson, the president's physician, cabled Secretary Tumulty today that the president caught cold yesterday and was unable to be about, although his condition was not regarded as serious.

NO COMPLETE PLANS FOR HOME WELCOME HERE

What is Lowell doing to welcome home her soldiers of the 26th Division who are at this moment approaching the shores of this country after a year and a half of gallant service in France? In fact, many of them have already arrived.

Some things have been done but it is generally believed that a lot more should be done. On all sides of Lowell committees have been formed, committees made up of the biggest, most and women of the communities, to prepare plans for the homecoming of the boys. They have placed before the public in their communities definite specific plans of action and the public knows just what part it is to play in the program.

In Lowell, it seems to be a different matter. Two organizations, the 101st Auxiliary and Battery F Auxiliary, have done splendid work to prepare for the homecoming of these two units. They started months ago and as they have gone along they have held all their cards on the table before the public so that today even the minutest details of their plans are public knowledge. But these auxiliaries are in reality taking care of only two companies of Lowell men—the battery and old Co. A, together with whatever men may be in the 101st Engineer Train or other units of that regiment.

But what about the boys of the old Sixth, the gallant outfit whose glory dates back to the Civil war? Cos. C, G and K of the 104th Regiment are Lowell units and were formerly the city's representation in the old Sixth Regiment. They have a larger number of Lowell men than any other regiment. But there is no auxiliary to look out for them.

Centerville is planning to honor her boys and this will include a number of the old Sixth men, of course. But outside of the two auxiliaries and the Centerville committee, what is Lowell doing to show her appreciation of her soldier sons?

One naturally turns to the municipal authorities for such information. To date it has been publicly announced that medals have been secured for every soldier, sailor or marine who went from Lowell to participate in the great war. That much has been taken care of and is commendable as far as it goes.

Also a welcome home banner has been erected in Merrimack street by the city government and this, too, is most appropriate.

But just at this point the line between the concrete and the vague seems to be drawn. Is there to be a parade here of the boys or is there to be a banquet or just what is the government going to do?

The municipal council two weeks ago voted to pay the transportation and other expenses of any Lowell man in the 26th Division who has already returned and wishes to take part in the review of the division in Boston now scheduled for April 25, or three weeks from today. But no other action was taken as to the part the city is to play in the local celebration. The ordinary citizen does not know when he is to see his soldier son parade here in Lowell nor does he know what further honors are to be paid him.

It waited with patience after the armistice was signed for news of the return of the Lowell units, the continued delays and disappointments did not break his spirit and now with the soldiers almost ready to step on American soil again he finds that his city council has told him little or nothing of what it intends to do.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson has stated that "a great deal of work has been done quietly." Many people, however, are of the opinion that the public should be "let in" on a proposition which involves them so intimately. Every other city and town in the state, practically, is refraining from hiding its light under a bushel, but, on the other hand, is proclaiming far and wide with justifiable pride what it intends to do for its soldiers and how its celebration is going to outstrip every other community in New England. A most commendable rivalry has been produced, but unfortunately Lowell, modest violet that she is, seems to be exempt.

This is flying fast and if Lowell is to do proper homage to her soldiers she will have to get busy at once, and the best results can be accomplished by letting everybody in on the project. No one man can be criticized for the delay. The entire blame rests on the city council and no one official should undertake to handle such a proposition alone. If plans are being made, why not out with them and show the public of just what nature and calibre they are. Let the city council discuss it in public meeting and have the city's organizations get interested in the plans.

There isn't a person in Lowell who is not abounding with enthusiasm for a fitting celebration right here in Lowell for the return of the boys and who is not willing to go the limit. But this feeling must be crystallized by an organization with power and authority and the one body which can fill the bill is the city council. If that body does not take action soon, it will be merely a question of half a dozen "Centerville" celebrations instead of one city-wide affair.

6000 Heroes of Famous 26th Division Including Many From Lowell Arrive at Boston

Transport Mt. Vernon With Vanguard of Y. D., Reaches Port—Crowds Line Waterfront—Welcoming Parties Go Down Harbor To Greet Returning Yanks—Mighty Reception This Afternoon

BOSTON, April 4.—The first 6000 of the home-coming Yankee Division arrived today on the transport Mount Vernon. The troopship dropped anchor in President Roads this morning.

Importance to the success of the allied arms.
5824 Y. D. Men on Board
The Mt. Vernon brought 73 sick men for whom ambulances were waiting at the pier. To be exact, there were 5824 officers and men of the 26th division on board out of a total of 28,000 expected. The rails were crowded with wildly demonstrative men who left no doubt that they were glad to be home as relatives and other friends were to welcome them.

Gen. Edwards Rushes to Boston
Major General Clarence R. Edwards, formerly commander of the 26th Division, was in Maine today, and was unable to reach Boston in time to greet Major General Harry C. Hale, the present commander, when the transport Mount Vernon came up the harbor. General Edwards notified headquarters of the Northeastern department that he was on his way from Bangor to Lewiston and that he would make his scheduled address at Lewiston this evening, leaving immediately thereafter for Boston. He expected to reach Boston at 4 a. m. and will go aboard the Mount Vernon at Commonwealth pier a few hours later.

Brigadier General John W. Ruckman, commanding the North Atlantic coast artillery district and Captain H. D. Chandler, General Edwards' personal aide, were delegated to represent the general today and went to the pier to extend the greetings of their superior and carry out any wishes of Major General Hale.

With this party were wounded "buddies" of the Engineers. The latter included several heroes who early in the game dropped their shovels and unsling their rifles to aid in the repulse of the German raid at Seicheprey and who shared in the offensive at Trigny-Epides.

Brig.-Gen. Cole on Hand
On another of the little fleet was Brig.-Gen. Charles H. Cole, commander of the 55th Infantry brigade, the headquarters detachment of which was aboard the Mount Vernon and of which brigade the 104th regiment was a notable part.

Some of the officers and men returning today were among the 112 who were individually awarded the French war cross. The regiment brought back also commendation from the French 16th division for its big push at Verdun, costly in casualties, but of much

Expert on Firearms Witness at the Billerica Murder Trial
Says Bullets Found in Murdered Man's Body Were Fired From Same Type Revolver as Produced by the Prosecution

Capt. William H. Proctor of Swampscott, state police officer, and a qualified expert on firearms, testified this morning at the trial of Francisco Fecl and Joseph Cordia, charged with the murder of Louis Fred Soula, that the slugs taken from the body of the dead man at the time of the autopsy, were fired from a 22 caliber Smith & Wesson cartridge, and that the appearance of these slugs, in his opinion, was consistent with the appearance of the barrel of a revolver on exhibit as evidence and said to have been found in a pocket of a coat in Lawrence, which the commonwealth claims belongs to Francisco Fecl.

Capt. Proctor was testifying when the noon recess was taken.

Other witnesses who appeared this morning were Chief of Police O'Brien and Officer Livingston of the Billerica department.

Counsel for Cordia say that he will go on the witness stand to testify in his own behalf, but counsel for Fecl have not decided whether or not to put their man on the stand.

All indications point to a long trial. If proceedings go along smoothly, the commonwealth believes it will have its evidence in by tomorrow noon, but feel it more probable that it will finish up on Monday. Counsel for the defendants say they have between 20 and 25 witnesses, and as several of these will by necessity need an interpreter, it is not believed that their case will be in before Thursday or Friday. That the trial will consume all of next week is not doubted.

The courtroom was nearly filled this morning when the session opened at 9.45 o'clock. William H. O'Brien, chief of police of Billerica, who was on the witness stand at the time of adjournment yesterday, was recalled this morning.

The district attorney showed the witness an envelope, said to contain bullets, and the latter identified them as those taken from the Savage automatic pistol which he found at the Pantli house.

"Did you find any other things at the Pantli house?" asked Mr. Tufts.

"Yes, sir; two knives."

The witness was shown a knife, which he identified as one of the two found. The other he characterized as a bread knife. On questioning by the district attorney, the witness said he also saw the oil can and empty whiskey bottle at the Cordia house.

Mr. Tufts showed him a shovel, and the witness said that it had been in his possession ever since Nov. 5, when he received it from Officer Dwyer of the Lowell police department.

"With reference to your further examination of the Cordia house, did you see any other articles there bearing the mark of the Boston & Maine railroad?"

"Not that I remember."

"When did you begin to look for the defendant, Francisco Fecl, and his brother, Luigi?"

"On the night of Nov. 5."

"Did you find them on that night?"

"No, sir."

"Did you find them the next day?"

"No, sir."

"What did you do on the next day, the seventh?"

"I found out their right names, as being Fecl, and then located Jumbo, or Francisco Fecl, in Haverhill, and arrested him there."

"What did you then do?"

"I took him to Lawrence."

"Where in Lawrence?"

"To the house of Fecl's sister."

"What did you find there?"

"I didn't find anything, but State Officer Smith found a coat with a revolver in a pocket."

Shown a sack coat by Mr. Tufts, the witness identified it as the coat found. He also identified the revolver. Both were marked as evidence exhibits.

"How many chambers were in this revolver?"

"Six."

"What was the condition of the revolver in regard to ammunition?"

"It was fully loaded."

On being shown the revolver, the witness stated that he had been in error when he said there were six chambers, as there were only five. He identified the revolver, however. He further said it had been recently oiled when found.

"Did you talk with Fecl that day?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you say?"

"When we questioned him as to his whereabouts, he said he had spent the entire day and night of Oct. 31 in Lawrence. When we asked him if he had been outside of Lawrence on that day, he said he had not. We asked him when he had last seen Joseph Cordia, and he said on Oct. 25."

Cross-Examination
The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Mack.

"Who were you looking for in Lawrence on the 5th?"

"A man named Naomi."

"And on the sixth?"

"A man named Naomi."

"When did you find out his name was Fecl?"

"On the seventh."

"Do you know whether or not the coat in question was found in Francisco Fecl's room, or in the room of his brother, Luigi?"

"No, sir, not from my own knowledge, but somebody told us it was Frank's room."

"Oh, somebody told you, who was it?"

"Do you want me to tell you?"

"Yes."

"Frank's wife told us it was Frank's room."

"Were you not looking for Luigi at that time, too?"

"We might have been."

"When you talked with Francisco Fecl, he told you in an open and frank way where he was on the 31st, didn't he?"

"He told me, but not in an open and frank way."

"Well, he told you of his whereabouts."

SAY REVOLUTION NEAR IN IRELAND

Capt. Redmond Blames Government During Debate in House of Commons

Carson Would Delay Question—Devlin Says Carson Indicts Government

LONDON, Thursday, April 3.—The house of commons debated the Irish question this evening, several members endeavoring to elicit some indication of the government's policy. Sir Edward Carson urged a postponement of the question until the end of the war and declared that at present he regarded the question of reconstruction in Ireland, with its questions of health, housing and similar matters, as far more important than "the raising of old controversies over home rule."

Joseph Devlin, a nationalist leader, said he thought Sir Edward's speech was "the most powerful indictment of British rule in Ireland." Captain William Archer Redmond of Waterford said:

"Ireland is almost on the verge of a revolution and the government is responsible. Let the government say frankly whether it intends to repeat the home rule set."

Sir James Ian MacPherson, making his maiden address as chief secretary for Ireland, replied to the criticism made by members of the house. After indicating that measures were projected to improve educational facilities and housing, he said:

"The political unrest in Ireland is unabated and outrages of the most cruel and unforgivable kind are occurring. That is why it is necessary to have military forces there to maintain order. Ireland is one of the most prosperous countries in the world, but she must be freed from the shackles of terrorism. The menace of Sinn Feinism, with its cruel and wanton oppression, is an enemy of constitutionalism and progress. There can be no self-determination on constitutional lines under Sinn Fein rules."

WOULD INCREASE IRISH REPUBLIC FUND

Preliminary plans to raise Lowell's quota of the sum which this country is to contribute to the Irish republic, as pledged at the recent convention in Philadelphia, were discussed last evening at a meeting of the United Irish Societies of the city in Hibernian hall.

James O'Sullivan presided and the attendance was unusually large, including a number of women. Lowell's nominal share of the sum to be raised is $1000 but the societies felt that ten times this amount should be secured. Mr. O'Sullivan told of the crucial stage of Ireland's career at the present time when the new republic was being tried out and emphasized the need of generous financial support.

The Catholic clergy of the city have given their full support to the proposed campaign. Precise plans for the waging of the drive are yet in embryo but it has been definitely decided that the formal introduction will be a big mass meeting in Association hall Sunday, April 13, at 8 o'clock. A list of able speakers of national reputation will be chosen to start off the drive with the proper "pop."

The Friends of Irish Freedom will meet next Sunday evening in Hibernian hall and the speaker of the occasion will be John F. Salmon, former K. of C. secretary, who will speak on his overseas experiences.

The park department is willing to relieve the labor situation to the extent of one man if he is willing to mount lofty arbors to cut off dead limbs and branches or rope them for later destruction.

None but a first class tree climber need apply as the work is admittedly dangerous and requires a man of experience to do it. LOCAL ENTERTAINERS AT CAMP DEVENS "The best ever" was the manner in which 502 doughboys commented on the entertainment which was given by a group of local song and dance artists who made the trip to the Jewish Welfare hut at Camp Devens last evening and put on a show under the auspices of the T.W.H.A. and the Jewish Welfare Board of this city.

Following the show informal dancing was in order, and the score or more young women in the party had little difficulty in capturing partners with whom to trip the light fantastic. It was a late hour when the tired but happy party returned to the City of Spindles.

Commissioner "Jimmie" Donnelly, who was one of the entertainers, never sang so many songs in one evening in his life. The more he sang the more they made him sing. And it can be truthfully said that his Scotch repertoire was completely exhausted when his audience finally allowed him a respite.

The Honey Boy quartet was also well received, as were the two Dion sisters, Alice and Bertha, who went "over the top" in several song numbers. Miss Dorothy Leach presided at the piano, and as usual, proved a most acceptable accompanist.

PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE Patrick J. Reynolds addressed the members of the civics class of the League of Catholic Women yesterday afternoon on "Parliamentary Practice." This was the first of a series of talks to be given by Mr. Reynolds as part of the course in civics planned by the civics committee of the league. The lecturer was perfectly at home with his subject. He told of the origin of parliamentary law, the necessity for it in assemblies and the various authorities on it. He also gave a preliminary lesson on the organization of assemblies and their course of procedure. In the open discussion at the close of the lecture Mr. Reynolds answered many questions pertaining to the subject. Next Thursday afternoon a second lecture on the same subject will be given.

Tree Climber Wanted

Was a Time When Squirrel Whiskey, so Called, Used To Produce 'Em

Is there a perfectly good tree climber in Lowell?

The park department is willing to relieve the labor situation to the extent of one man if he is willing to mount lofty arbors to cut off dead limbs and branches or rope them for later destruction.

None but a first class tree climber need apply as the work is admittedly dangerous and requires a man of experience to do it. Several men have been injured in the performance of the duties connected with the work and the department for that reason is desirous of getting an expert at the present time.

The wages paid are $1 a day for a day of eight hours. Applicants should apply at the office of the park department in city hall.

Lieut. Perry Thompson, son of Mayor and Mrs. Perry D. Thompson, left Lowell today to return to resume his duties at Camp Grant, Ill., after a 14-day leave in this city.

The "Gideons," an organization composed of traveling salesmen who are waging a campaign to have Bibles placed in every hotel room in the country, will be in Lowell Sunday, and will conduct a special evangelistic service at the Lawrence Street Primitive M. E. church in the evening.

The many friends of Miss Mariel Hodger, of Lowell, will be pleased to hear of her success in playing child parts in stock companies in surrounding cities. She was commended very highly while playing the role of Benny in the "Law of the Land" in Brockton and also in "Daddy Long Legs." Her next engagement is in New Bedford.

Mrs. John W. Cox, of 11 Mahoney's court, has received a telegram from her son, Private Joseph J. Cox, of Lowell's Battery F, arrived in New York April 2 from overseas.

Four Lowell men were forwarded to Boston by Chief Cary of the local recruiting station today. They were Henry Victor Mole, 185 Broadway, apprentice seaman; Abide Souter, 563 Middlesex street, apprentice seaman; George Pagnette, 321 Allen street, landsman for ship's cook and George A. Dubuque, 325 Worthen street, apprentice seaman.

Twenty applicants for chauffeurs' licenses were examined at city hall today by Inspectors Hubbard and Halley of the state highway commission.

Greek Protest to America LONDON, April 4.—The Metropolitan of Athens has sent to America a strong protest against what is considered to be a hostile attitude on the part of American missionaries in respect to the rights of Greece in northern Epirus and Asia Minor, says an Athens despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

LOCAL ENTERTAINERS AT CAMP DEVENS "The best ever" was the manner in which 502 doughboys commented on the entertainment which was given by a group of local song and dance artists who made the trip to the Jewish Welfare hut at Camp Devens last evening and put on a show under the auspices of the T.W.H.A. and the Jewish Welfare Board of this city.

Following the show informal dancing was in order, and the score or more young women in the party had little difficulty in capturing partners with whom to trip the light fantastic. It was a late hour when the tired but happy party returned to the City of Spindles.

Commissioner "Jimmie" Donnelly, who was one of the entertainers, never sang so many songs in one evening in his life. The more he sang the more they made him sing. And it can be truthfully said that his Scotch repertoire was completely exhausted when his audience finally allowed him a respite.

The Honey Boy quartet was also well received, as were the two Dion sisters, Alice and Bertha, who went "over the top" in several song numbers. Miss Dorothy Leach presided at the piano, and as usual, proved a most acceptable accompanist.

PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE Patrick J. Reynolds addressed the members of the civics class of the League of Catholic Women yesterday afternoon on "Parliamentary Practice." This was the first of a series of talks to be given by Mr. Reynolds as part of the course in civics planned by the civics committee of the league. The lecturer was perfectly at home with his subject. He told of the origin of parliamentary law, the necessity for it in assemblies and the various authorities on it. He also gave a preliminary lesson on the organization of assemblies and their course of procedure. In the open discussion at the close of the lecture Mr. Reynolds answered many questions pertaining to the subject. Next Thursday afternoon a second lecture on the same subject will be given.

CHANGE OF SENTIMENT IN MEXICO NOTED

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Private and official advices from Mexico City within the last few days are interpreted as indicating a sudden change in sentiment in the republic toward foreign investments in Mexico and that the coming session of congress will clear the atmosphere of much of the hostility shown since the adoption of the 1917 constitution. This apparent change of front is manifested in newspaper editorials and statements by members of the Mexican congress.

American oil interests in Mexico have not receded from the stand originally taken that their vested rights in Mexico must be recognized and that the anti-foreign and confiscatory features of the new constitution must not operate, ex-post facto, against them. The American, British and French governments have protested to the Mexican government against the operation of certain parts of the constitution which are regarded as confiscatory.

The recent visit of Rafael Nieto, acting minister of finance in the Mexican government to New York, where he consulted with international bankers regarding the prospect of a loan to Mexico and the invitation extended by President Carranza to Jose Limantour, who was finance minister under Diaz, are believed to have helped change the stand of the Mexican government.

Daily Health Talks
THE TROUBLES WOMEN HAVE

By L. MacLean, M.D.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is precisely what it was. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. Favorite Prescription is a distinct remedy for women and acts directly upon the organs that characterize the sex. It is not necessary to take a long course of treatment with this standard medicine. A weakly, sickly, backache, headache, nervous, dependent woman, with regular or irregular pains—with feminine disorders that come in youth or middle age—is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for, and to find it after a very few doses are taken. Why women should allow themselves to stay sick when a very little money spent for this remedy will probably make them well, is something no one can explain.

All women who suffer from feminine disorders are invited to write the Faculty of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential consultation and advice, no charge being made for this high professional service. This will enable every woman to benefit by the advice of the distinguished corps of physicians which Dr. Pierce has gathered about him in his celebrated Invalids' Hotel institution.

When constipation is present with feminine disorders, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken along with Favorite Prescription. Try them now!—Adv.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness
And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, who are growing old, hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmit is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear and the result. It gives a nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing humming, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—Adv.

New York beyond a promise of consideration of the request when Mexico showed she would accept proper treatment and protection to foreign investments. Limantour must have advised Carranza, officials believe, that it would be impossible to secure financial aid for Mexico so long as the government maintained its hostile attitude toward foreign investors.

A book entitled "Foreign Investments in Mexico" and written by Carlos Diaz Tufon, editor of El Imparcial, had an unprecedented popularity among the reading population of Mexico. He writes: "Mexico needs capital in a degree perhaps not experienced by any other young nation. Every industry demands it, agriculture no less than cattle raising, mining and the oil industry alike." The book then adds that foreigners are the only people who have the necessary capital or who are willing to risk it in hazardous investments.

Practically all the newspapers of Mexico City and many of the provincial papers are reported to be printing interviews and editorially commenting on the problem.

FOR AMERICANIZATION
EXTENSION WORK

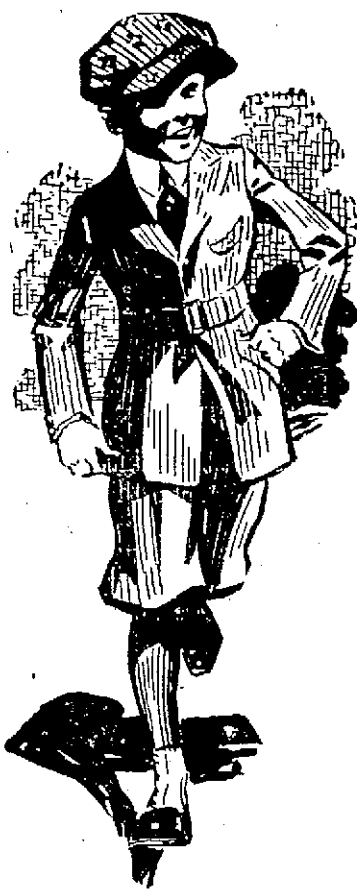

The first of an important series of Americanization extension work series was held yesterday afternoon in high school hall at 415, when Miss Rose O'Toole of Cambridge addressed an interested audience of school teachers and others engaged in Americanization work on "Phases of Instruction."

Miss O'Toole has done considerable work in the factories of Cambridge in the line of Americanization and is at present employed by the American Rubber Co. of that city. She described in detail her work among the immigrants there in the factory and so pressing did the need of her services become that she was forced to curtail them to some extent. She expressed the opinion that the best way to succeed in Americanization work is to convince the people with whom you are working that you are doing it for their own advancement and development—then the rest is easy.

The speaker considered the factory one of the best avenues of approach in this work and the evening schools another.

Get good clothes quality—it's the only way to save money

The war taught one lesson; that good quality is economy. People had to make their money do more; they found they couldn't afford poor quality; they couldn't take a chance; they bought good stuff because it saved. Don't forget that lesson; it still holds good—buy clothes of good quality; they cost less because they last longer. We back that up with a money-back guarantee.

COMMERCIAL HISTORY'S
BIG ROMANCE

BY RICHARD SPILLANE.

Back of the announcement from London that the British government is going into the oil business and has made a close alliance with the Royal Dutch Shell interests is one of the most remarkable romances of commercial history and one of the most important developments of recent times.

The London announcement simply means that the British have determined to control oil so far as it is possible for them to do so. In carrying out their plans, they will have the services of H. A. W. Deterding, the master spirit of the Royal Dutch Shell, the man who threatens to out-Rockefeller Rockefeller.

Incidentally, Lord Cowdray, who up to the present time has been the leading light in oil circles in the British empire, gets out. His holdings in the Mexican and other fields being taken over by the Royal Dutch Shell.

Deterding is a Dutchman, born in Amsterdam. As a youth, he went to Java. He was clerk in a bank there when an adventurer, who had some oil promotion project in Borneo, needed an assistant, hired him.

The promoter died and Deterding, while yet a youth, took over the management of the small property. Deterding is a genius. The Burma oil is not of high quality, but by the most skillful maneuvering Deterding managed to broaden the market for it.

He was without ships and entered into a combination with the Shell Transport Co. After some years, he managed to combine the two properties under the name of the Royal Dutch Shell.

He invaded the Chinese field, which at that time was monopolized by the Standard Oil. Before the Standard people appreciated what they were up against, he had built up a fair trade in the interior of that empire. They tried to drive him out, but did not succeed. He fought the Standard so vigorously that the Rockefeller people finally made peace on a basis of fifty-fifty in China. Deterding, confining his operations to the interior and the Standard limiting its trade to the coast.

Not content with this progress, Deterding broadened out. He acquired large interests in Russia and Persia and by a combination with the Rothschilds of Paris and the Samuel interests of London he acquired large properties in Rumania and other parts of Europe. Later he branched out so as to take in America.

He has concessions in Venezuela, various valuable properties in Mexico, and in the United States he is represented by the Roxanna Co., a $60,000,000 corporation, which has a pipe line from the Healdton fields in Oklahoma to St. Louis. At St. Louis, he has a monster refinery. At either end of the Panama Canal, he has oil stations. On the island of Curacao, he has what is said to be the biggest refinery in the world. He has oil stations at either end of the Suez canal.

In the splitting up of the Standard Oil, much of the initiative and aggressiveness of the great American corporation was destroyed. It is apparent from the action of the British in forming a combination with Deterding that in taking over the Cowdray interests they are preparing, so far as possible, to offset their difficulties in relation to coal by promoting their operations with oil to the fullest extent. What effect this will have on America remains to be seen. Oil is coming into larger and larger use in sea transportation. It may take a quarter of a century for oil to supplant coal but with every year oil becomes more and more a factor.

Unless there is some radical change in the situation, it is the confident prediction that Deterding will become a greater oil king within the next 10 or 15 years than Rockefeller was at the height of his power. There are likely to be very big developments in oil within the next few years, and America is deeply concerned in what happens.

Charles Evans of Salem has a little red ticket 55 years old, on which is printed: "Boston and Salem turnpike. Good for one passage over the turnpike between Lynn and Chelsea for a one-horse wagon, June 1, 1864." In the center of the face of the ticket is a picture of a horse and buggy with the price mark, "10 Cents" on either side. On the back of the ticket is the name "William S. Cleveland, Treasurer."

A CORDIAL INVITATION IS EXTENDED YOU

LOOKING FOR LOWELL'S LARGEST FAMILY

The Sun is trying to find the largest family in Lowell. This may include father, mother and children and grandchildren. There are cities that make considerable boast about large families and The Sun wants to ascertain if there is any city that has anything on Lowell in the large family line. The first reporter to start out in search of Lowell's largest family came back with a story of the descendants of the late George Beauparlant and while the story is an interesting one, it doesn't quite hit the mark because of the fact that all members of the family are not living here. The Sun's aim is to discover the largest family in Lowell, but in order not to discourage the reporter who at least made a try at it, we will publish his story and at the same time we want our readers to know that we invite communications having to do with large families.

The story brought in by the reporter in question starts off with the information that a son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Gedeon Beauparlant formerly of this city and now of Berlin, N. H. This has a "big Lowell family" story connection inasmuch as the grandfather of the new arrival, George Beauparlant, who died in this city March 18, 1911, was the father of 18 children. He also boasted 91 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren, making a grand total of 128.

Mr. George Beauparlant lived in Lowell for 62 years. He was one of the early French settlers of this city, coming to Lowell even before St. Joseph's church was purchased for a Catholic church. He was born at St. Gabriel, Que., and at the age of 16 married and during the life of his wife was blessed with seven children. At the age of 27 he lost his wife and a year later he was united in marriage to Miss Olive Godin, who gave birth to 11 children. She is still living and is now making her home in Canada.

Mr. Beauparlant was of the old Canadian stock and died at the ripe old age of 73. He was proud of his large family and his hobby was to be with the young children. Every five years or so he would invite all his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren to a family dinner at his home and at the last reunion there were 75 seated around the festive board.

Mr. Beauparlant never believed in race suicide and according to present indications his sons and daughters as well as grandchildren are of the same opinion as was the father and grandfather, for one of the daughters counts no less than 17 children in her family. She is Mrs. J. B. Guilbault of this city who has 17 children all living. Next comes Mrs. Alexis Wagner and Mrs. Adelard Isabelle, both of this city, who have each 14 children. Mrs. Joseph Barbin, who is now making her home in Berlin, N. H., is the mother of ten children, while Mrs. Alexis Isabelle of Shawinigan Falls, Que., gave birth to eight children. Gedeon Beauparlant of Berlin, N. H., is the father of seven children, while Mrs. Alfred Marcouillier of Manchester, N. H., is the proud mother of five. Telesphore Beauparlant, a local business man, has seven children. Mrs. Arthur Duchesneau of Grand Mere, Que., has three; Francis Beauparlant of this city has three and Henri Beauparlant of Shawinigan Falls, Que., also has three. Besides the above mentioned ed there are 16 grandchildren in the Beauparlant family, eleven of whom are living in this city.

Mrs. Guilbault, the leader of the family who, although still in the prime of life, is the mother of 17 children and a grandmother, is enjoying the best of health. She says in her opinion it is just as easy to bring up a family of 17 as it is to take care of four or five. "Of course, there is much more responsibility," she says, "but a mother who is interested in her home and children can enjoy life in a very enjoyable manner with such a surrounding."

"How about the high cost of living?" she was asked.

"Well, of course, that is a very important item, but I never gave it a thought. We always supplied our children with three good square meals every day and always kept them well clothed. On top of that we sent them all to the parochial schools, which meant an additional expense and a big one at that but, nevertheless, we pulled through. Now we did it, I don't know. A few of our children are now working and helping the father to support the other members of the family and, of course, we are a little better off than we were a few years ago. My father was fond of children and there was nothing that pleased him so much as when some one congratulated him on his large family, and we all feel the same way."

TO SOLICIT FUNDS FOR CELEBRATION

A committee for soliciting funds for the celebration which Centralville is to give her returning soldiers and sailors will begin activities next Monday when it will inaugurate a drive to secure public subscriptions for the affair.

The solicitors have been assigned districts and each contributor will be given a receipt and this method is intended to avoid fraudulent collecting. The list of contributors will be accessible to the public so that there will be no chance for dishonest methods.

The central committee is working hard on plans for the celebration and Mayor Thompson has given his personal sanction to the matter.

The first woman trader in Wall street is Mrs. Helen K. Holmes, who as Helen Kinney became a broker's telephone switchboard operator eight years ago.

A MESSAGE TO $40 AND $50 CLOTHING WEARERS

Right under your nose at Nos. 31-35 Merrimack Square lie golden opportunity, rich reward, ample satisfaction and custom tailoring contentment.

I am a Liberal Education to the Man Who Has Ignored Price Lure

I am the surprise of his life to the man who wants good clothing but who has a limit beyond which he will not go in his sane and sober senses—even for clothing.

LISTEN TO ME—When I tell the people that the high-priced clothiers and tailors of this city cannot show you goods the equal of my stock, I am not lying—I am not bluffing—I am not hysterical. They haven't them and they know they haven't them.

You want good clothing but you object to the $35.00 to $60.00 charges. You want relief from what you consider an imposition of the times.

MAKE YOUR RELIEF—Come to me. Have MR. ANDREW BARBERA, foreman of my back shop, construct your garment on the premises. Have MR. JOHN SMITH, one of Lowell's best coat makers, personally try-on your coat in the fitting. Have ED. ATWOOD tape, drape and design your coat and vest. Have TOM DALEY, for 10 years the trousers specialist for a Haverhill $50.00 tailor, cut your panting. Have any of my salesmen, Johnnie—Walter—Eddy—Jim or Tommy assist you in selecting the goods.

And I Guarantee the Relief You Seek

An eternal chasm divides the woollens I give you from the woollens used in ordinary clothing. Blue books, pedigrees, genealogy, do they appeal to you. I have them. I give them to you when I sell you Wanskuk, Perseverance, French River, Standish, Blackinton, Paragon, Hockanum, and the other celebrated weaves.

My store is an oasis in the desert these days of inferior goods—these days of ruinous prices. Look me over.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HIGHLAND CLUB

A splendid social event in itself, the annual meeting of the Highland club last evening at the clubhouse in Princeton street, also was productive of satisfying reports of the past and happy predictions for the future. The principal speaker of the evening was Lieut. Vittorio Orlandini of the Italian army.

and at the present time attached to the Italian embassy in Washington. Mayor Perry D. Thompson and James P. Ramsay, probation officer of the superior court, also spoke.

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock in the banquet hall, with fully 200 members and guests at the tables. It was a jolly gathering, typical of when "good fellows get together," and all enjoyed the excellent meal. Mayor Thompson spoke first, being introduced by Dr. H. B. Davis. The mayor expressed sincere pleasure in being present and wished the club the best of success. Mr. Ramsay briefly told of several phases of his court work, and was interesting as usual.

The business meeting was not long, but the reports given were entirely satisfactory and re-assuring. The following officers were elected: President, Charles E. Cooke; vice president, John W. Anderson; secretary-treasurer, Virgil G. Barnard; directors, Dr. H. E. Davis, Roger W. Gage, George H. Spillane, Warren O. Winsor, George W. Mansur, Roy F. Lovejoy, Fred G. Leary.

Lieut. Orlandini spoke for an hour, giving a graphic recital of Italy's part in the war—her internal questions and her active participation on the firing line with five and one-half millions of fighters. He said that this huge army was recruited from an eligible population of males totalling only about nine million.

In speaking of the Dalmatian question, the speaker said that Italy would be perfectly satisfied with one-third of Dalmatia and would surrender the other two-thirds to the Jugo-Slavs, although more than half the population is Italian. He said that the few Slavs who will come under Italian control will receive all justice and consideration, and in return, Italy asks only that for her subjects who will fall under the Jugo-Slav regime. Speaking of the Italians in this country, Lieut. Orlandini said that they were loyal to the core to the United States, not only supporting the Liberty loans with all available resources, but also being in our armies to the total of 300,000 men.

He characterized the Italian fighting man as "clean and honorable." About the privations of the civil population, he said the bread available was only 20 per cent. flour, the meat ration was only 12 ounces per person per month, that there was no fish except at outrageous prices, that coal sold for $200 a ton and that milk was more than 25 cents a quart. His talk gave an interesting insight into the conditions under which Italy made war, and the hardships she endured without grumbling or whining. The speaker was enthusiastically applauded at the close and was forced to acknowledge the ovation time after time.

UPRISING IN FRANKFORT

Spartan Riots Occurred
of French Army

CORLENZ, Thursday, April 3.—The Spartan uprising in Frankfort, to which German government troops have been ordered, occurred virtually within sight of soldiers of the Tenth French army who occupy western suburbs, but were powerless to act, owing to the fact that Frankfort proper is just over the Mainz bridgehead lines. So far as known here, no French troops have entered Frankfort, although requests were made that they should do so.

According to American medical officers who have been in Frankfort recently to buy surgical instruments, there has been much gaiety in the city since the armistice was signed. All the afternoon and far into the night, the cafes have been filled with people who became wealthy because of the war. There has apparently been plenty of food, but prices have been high.

Many all night balls have been held and newspapers have devoted much space to descriptions of "riotous living." Ministers have preached in an endeavor to stem the tide of gaiety which began last November and increased among the wealthy as time went on. The American surgeons visited Frankfort with the permission of General Mangin, commander of the French forces in the district and entered the city in an automobile which carried the white flag.

BOY SCOUTS' WORK ON EXHIBITION

A most interesting exhibit of Boy Scout work is being displayed in the Central street window of the Chalfoux company and many favorable comments are heard.

All sorts of examples of just what an efficient woodsman, carpenter, and all around Jack of all trades the Lowell Boy Scouts have become are exhibited. Perhaps the most interesting of all is a miniature model of a 60-foot suspension bridge which was constructed entirely by the boys of Troop 17. A signal tower, modeled after one built by Troop 11 makes another interesting feature. The heliograph, with which the boys can signal for miles to each other by means of a mirror and shutter apparatus, is also well worth viewing.

Is the Lowell scout at a loss if he is caught alone in the woods at night? Not so you could notice it. All he needs to do is glance upward at the stars and by picking his course from the stars he will soon be headed in the direction he wishes to go.

How the boys prepare a meal in the woods is also shown. Your scout is an expert at fire making, and could almost give the Indians themselves a few good pointers in this very necessary accomplishment of all good woodsmen.

Taken all together the exhibit, which is made in connection with the Boy Scouts' campaign for funds which opened this week.

ELIOT CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT
On Wednesday night a supper was given by the ladies of Eliot church. Following this a group of the Girl Scouts gave a short play entitled "How the Story Grew." The parts were taken by Dorothy Whitten, Claire Macaulay, Helen Daly, Mildred Foster, Ernestine Laidlaw, Eleanor Smith, Hazel Hoare, and Mary Dexter. The play was a funny demonstration of the growth of gossip, the parts were well taken and appreciation was shown by the large audience present.

The Boy Scouts gave a play entitled "Wanted—A Confidential Clerk." The boys kept their audience in fine humor, taking their parts in an excellent manner. The characters were: Raymond Babigan as Jonathan Dobs, the merchant, Walter Jeyes as the Irish comedian servant, Carl Laidlaw as Horatio Lushington, George Fiekel as Dick Smart, Herbert Colby as Charles Valentine, the dunder, and Alfred Bedell as the one who got the job.

What "Slow" Accounts Mean

"SLOW" ACCOUNTS mean something more than the mere matter of delay in receiving payment of bills.

THEY MEAN DUPLICATION OF EFFORT, the maintenance of records and additional office work that would be unnecessary if such accounts were paid within the reasonable specified time.

BUT MOST OF ALL they mean that effort which might be devoted to necessary tasks essential to the comfort, convenience and efficiency that you derive from your telephone service, is wasted on what should be unnecessary tasks.

HUNS APPEAL TO PRES. WILSON

Warn Against Disregard of Principle to Which He Pledged Himself

Claim These Pledges Induced
Germany To Lay Down
Her Arms

BERLIN, Thursday, April 3. (By the Associated Press.)—Leading ethical, philosophical and religious societies of Germany have addressed an appeal to President Wilson, giving warning against a disregard of principles to which he has pledged himself, and which, they claim, induced Germany to lay down her arms. The appeal declares that the Germans are driven to desperation they would rather become Bolsheviks than slaves. It charges the Czechs and Poles with anticipating the conclusions of the peace conference and violating the Wilsonian principles. It says the allies are "not only condoning the acts of the Czechs and Poles, but are supporting these nations."

It is maintained the allies provoked anarchy conditions in Germany by refusing to relax the blockade.

In discussing the possibility of a revival of militarism the appeal says:

"Only one thing could again weld the Germans of every state into a whole—the continuation of the policy of hate and annihilation that has been pursued by the allies."

President Wilson is warned that the United States "with its great private fortunes and billion dollar trusts" is a "fertile field for communism" and it is suggested that wealthy Americans "had better support the League of Nations."

ENTERTAINMENT AT GRACE CHURCH

The Ladies' Alliance of the Grace Universalist church gave a supper and entertainment in the vestry of the church last evening, and both the supper and the sketch were thoroughly appreciated. Mrs. John W. Stott was in charge of the supper, assisted by Mrs. Charles Clement, and the dining-room was in charge of Mrs. Charles N. Woodward.

"Twelve Old Maids" was the title of the sketch, and the generous amount of comedy which the participants injected into the lines made it a most enjoyable performance. The following people took part in the production: Mrs. F. W. Farnham, Miss Leslie Pullen, Mrs. C. H. Wing, Mrs. Arthur Dion, Mrs. John A. Weinbeck, Mrs. Lillian Hard-Hill, Mrs. E. H. McIntire, Miss Dorothy Leeds, Mrs. H. E. Benton, Mrs. Cora Wilson, Miss Martha Abbott, Mrs. S. C. Petersen, Mrs. W. G. Spence, Mrs. F. L. Sage.

ILLEGAL DISTILLERY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 4.—Marked increase in illicit distilling in the Appalachian mountain territory was reported here yesterday by members of the Mountain School Workers' organization. They attributed the increase to prohibition.

The demand for whiskey had driven the price up to $18 and $20 a gallon, it was stated.

Chest Colds and Sore Throats

Quick relief comes overnight when you apply Mustarine—the original improvement on the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Mustarine contains true mustard. It cannot blister and there are no disagreeable fumes to irritate the nose and eyes.

It's good for so many ailments, removing congestion and reducing inflammations and swellings so quickly that no home can afford to do without it. One small box proves it. Always comes in yellow box. Be sure to ask for Reg's Mustarine.

No Medicine-Chest Without Its Family Laxative

From the baby to the grandparents a good laxative is the necessary medicine in the little ills. It wards off serious sickness and saves doctor's bills. Many a cold has been prevented from running into grippe and pneumonia by its timely use.

Many a racking headache has been quickly dispelled by it. And it is a laxative rather than a drastic cathartic or purgative that should be in every family medicine-chest, for a laxative can be used at all ages.

Thousands of good American families have for more than a quarter century used a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a laxative- tonic that acts on the bowels and stomach. Infants take it with perfect safety, and it is equally effective for grownups.

Grandparents are now seeing their children give it to their babies. It is excellent for all the family in constipation no matter how chronic, indigestion, wind colic, biliousness, headaches, dyspepsia and similar ills.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

Rheumatism

Disappeared

Says Woman

This Maine Resident Endured Great
Agony Until She Tried
This Blood Builder

There are many people today who are suffering from rheumatism who could gain complete restoration to health and freedom from pain by building up the blood.

There are many methods of treating rheumatism, but most of them are directed at the symptoms and aim chiefly to soothe the pain. Such remedies are temporary in their effect. A treatment that builds up the blood gives strength to all parts of the body and enables the system to expel the poisons of the disease.

A good example of the successful treatment of a case of rheumatism is that of Mrs. Julia Nason, of No. 3 Porter street, Biddeford, Me.

"I had suffered from rheumatism for the past ten years," says Mrs. Nason, "and nothing seemed to give me any relief. As the attacks continued they became more severe and I was very nervous, especially at night. My limbs pained me constantly and swelled and my feet were numb."

"A newspaper announcement led me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I was surprised to find that I had improved wonderfully after the first box. I slept better nights and seemed to be less nervous. I continued the treatment until the pains and numbness disappeared as well as the swelling. I shall always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for cases of rheumatism caused by poor blood."

The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are for this reason an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after-effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of useful information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, fifty cents per box; six boxes for $2.50.—Adv.

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM BILL AMENDED

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 4.—The $1,000,000 memorial auditorium bill was amended in the house yesterday, on motion of Representative Victor Francis Jewett of Lowell, by the insertion of a provision that all acts of the commission must have the approval of a majority of its members.

Section nine of the bill as reported by the committee provides that the commission may "act in any matter in which it has jurisdiction by a majority vote at any meeting at which at least three members are present and of which all members have had reasonable notice or at which, at the time of acting, all the members are present."

Representative Jewett pointed out to the house that under this phraseology, it would be possible for three members of the commission to meet, being a quorum, and that two members, a majority of three, could pass any vote they saw fit, binding the entire commission. He moved to insert after the word "vote" the words "of the commission," thus effectually providing that no action may be taken which is not supported by at least three members of the commission.

There was no opposition and the amendment was adopted on a voice vote, after which the bill was given a final reading.

VERDICT OF $413,390

Award For Damages Arising
Out of Black Tom Island
Explosion

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 4.—A verdict for $413,390 for damages arising out of the Black Tom Island explosion in July, 1916, was given by the supreme court today in favor of B. R. Howell & Co., sugar refiners, against the Lehigh Valley railroad. The firm lost sugar stored in Lehigh warehouse.

LAND FOR CEMETERIES

The cemetery commissioners have a right, under the law, to purchase additional land for the Edison or West-lawn cemeteries, in the opinion of the city's financial authorities. The land is a necessity, and there is said to be unquestionably enough money, which has accumulated from perpetual care funds and the sale of lots, to meet this expense. Messrs. Franklin S. Peavey and William Hawes, of the cemetery commission, have looked over the proposed purchases, which consist of land adjacent to the Edison and the West-lawn cemeteries, and it is expected that the commission, as a whole, accompanied by Mayor Thompson, will view the land again in the next few days.

TWO WOMAN SUFFRAGE AMENDMENTS BEATEN

PARIS, Thursday, April 3.—The chamber of deputies today voted down two woman suffrage amendments to the electoral reform bill.

The first was presented by Henry Rouleaux-Dugage and provided that members of the chamber of deputies should be elected without distinction of sex.

President Paul Deschanel ruled that a motion by Maurice Raynaud, former minister of the colonies, asking for a discussion tomorrow of the report of Henry Franklin-Bouillon on the dis- armament of Germany was out of order. M. Raynaud then withdrew his motion.

HARD WORKING WOMAN

Knows From Experience that Nothing Equals Vinol to Create Strength

Holmdel, N. J.—"I live on a farm and am a hard working woman and for weak, rundown, overworked conditions have found nothing that will create an appetite, build me up and make me strong equal to Vinol." Mrs. Thomas Ellis.

The reason we recommend Vinol for such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy and all of its ingredients are printed on each package which will prove that it is safe and valuable remedy to create strength for weak, rundown, overworked men, women and children. of six. This was stricken out of the bill on the ground that there was insufficient time for discussion, the vote being 303 to 187.

The second amendment submitted by Louis Andreux provided for the transmission of the right to vote to the next relatives of heads of families without distinction of sex. It was pointed out that it would insure family representation and was needed because many heads of families had been killed during the war. It was defeated by 333 to 124.

President Paul Deschanel ruled that a motion by Maurice Raynaud, former minister of the colonies, asking for a discussion tomorrow of the report of Henry Franklin-Bouillon on the dis- armament of Germany was out of order. M. Raynaud then withdrew his motion.

MR. COTE DILL

The many friends of Philippe G. Cote, head of the rug and drapery department of the A. C. Pollard Co., will be grieved to learn that he is confined to his home, 314 Hildreth street, suffering from a dislocated shoulder and bruises about the body as a result of a fall down a flight of stairs at his home. The accident occurred a couple of days ago.

At the Wilmington, Del., business show "the largest chair in the world" was exhibited. It came from Cleveland—a swivel, office, mahogany affair, 12 feet high and weighing 1700 pounds. The seat was seven feet square.

about without hesitation, didn't he?"

"No sir, not without hesitation."

"Well, did he hesitate any more than any man would who cannot talk good English? That is, it was only natural hesitancy?"

"No sir, it was not."

"Do you mean to tell the jury that this man, Francisco Feci, can speak and understand English well?"

"Well, he can understand me and I can understand him."

The witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Donahue, counsel for Cordia.

"You have known Joe Cordia quite a long while, haven't you, Mr. O'Brien?"

"Yes, sir, for quite a while."

"And you always knew him as a pleasant little fellow, always smiling, didn't you?"

"Yes, he was always happy, so it seemed."

District Attorney Tufts interrupted Mr. Donahue and asked him to speak a little louder. The latter apologized, saying, "I'm not as young as I used to be, but I'll warm up in a little while."

Mr. Donahue questioned the witness as to the footprints, said to have been found near the grave, and also the distance between the tracks.

"Were those footprints farther apart than a usual stride?"

"Yes, sir."

"How much difference was there?"

"I measured them by my own natural stride."

"How long is your ordinary step, Mr. O'Brien?"

"I never measured it, but I should say about 30 inches."

"Thirty inches. Yes; well how much farther apart were those tracks than your stride?"

"About a foot and a half, I should say."

"A foot and a half? Let's see, that makes about 45 inches. Do you want the jury to believe that there was that much difference?"

"Yes, maybe a little less, or a little more."

"When you were told by Cordia that the people you were looking for were named Nasini, and that one of them was known as Jumbo, you knew who was meant, didn't you?"

"I didn't know the name."

"But you knew who was meant, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"When the Savage automatic revolver was found at the Fantini house in Wamesit and shown to Cordia, he said it was his, didn't he?"

"I don't know."

"Wasn't you there?"

"No, sir."

"Were you present when the revolver was taken out of the desk at the Fantini house?"

"Yes."

"Was the desk locked?"

"Yes, I think it was."

"Who opened the desk?"

"A girl known as Margaret Gray, I think."

"At that time, when the knife also was found, was anything said regarding how long they had been in the desk?"

"I don't know; I didn't."

"Did anyone in your presence?"

"I don't know."

"Your attention was called to the fact that larcenies of junk were going on at the B. & M. car shops, is that not so, Mr. O'Brien?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were there ever any guards placed at the junk hole?"

"Yes, sir, one night."

"Where were the guards located around the junk hole?"

"We left them right at the hole."

"About what time?"

"I should say about dusk."

"You were looking for another man, were you not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who was this man?"

"Luigi Feci."

"At whose direction were you looking for him?"

"At the direction of the district attorney."

torney."

"Why were you looking for him?"

"In connection with the crime."

"What crime?"

"The murder of Fred Soulia."

"Why didn't you arrest him?"

"I didn't meet him."

"But you were looking for him?"

"Yes."

"And you have looked for him since then?"

"Yes, sir."

"And have never found him?"

"No, sir."

"Mr. O'Brien, did you ever see Joe Cordia smoke a cigarette?"

"Why, yes; I think so."

"Think carefully; have you ever seen him smoking a cigarette?"

"I think so; I've seen him smoke a cigar."

"I didn't ask you that. I asked you if you ever have seen him smoke a cigarette."

"No, I don't think I ever did."

"And you receive authority to tell Cordia's plea after his arrest?"

"Yes."

"And he gave you the keys to his house?"

"Yes, sir."

The court took a recess at 11:15 o'clock.

Took Short Recess

After a recess of 20 minutes, Chief O'Brien was recalled and was re-examined briefly by Mr. Tufts. The witness also was again questioned by Mr. Mack.

Referring to the coat which is said to have been taken from the home of Feci's sister in Lawrence, Mr. Mack asked him if he knew whether or not a piece of paper, supposed to be a land deed and made out in the name of Luigi Feci, had been taken from a pocket of the coat. The witness replied that he did not.

Mr. Donahue, again examining, said: "Would you be surprised to learn that Cordia's automobile was being repaired during the week of October 31?"

"I would," replied Mr. O'Brien.

Questioned by Mr. Tufts, the witness said that Cordia had said in his presence that on October 31 he had driven Tom Brown from the car shops to North Billerica postoffice, and afterwards drove to Lowell.

Henry D. Livingston

Henry D. Livingston, of the Billerica police was the next witness called. He was questioned regarding the footprints, said to have been found near the grave, and further said that one of the sets of prints seemed to have "And of a man running."

"You are familiar with the appearance of the footprints of a man walking, are you not, Mr. Livingston?"

"I am."

"And of a man running?"

"Yes, sir."

"And which were those?"

"Of a man running."

Another Revolver

"While investigating at the Cordia house, did you find any sort of firearms?"

"I did."

"What, please?"

"A revolver."

The witness produced the weapon, an Iver Johnson, calibre 38.

"Did you find anything else?"

"Yes, some ammunition."

The witness then showed some shells of 32 and 38 calibre, which he said he found in a trunk in one of the rooms of the house.

"On Sunday, Nov. 10, when Dr. McGrath visited the Cordia house, were you present at the grave when he examined it?"

"I was."

"Do you remember any signs of cut roots?"

"I do."

"How long have you known Cordia?"

"Five or six years."

"I don't suppose you know whether or not he smoked cigarettes?"

"No, I do not."

Mr. Livingston was cross-examined by Mr. Mack regarding his previous knowledge of footprints and the difference between a man walking and running as shown in the footprints.

Cross-examined by Mr. Donahue, the witness testified that he believed the distance between the footprints was about 35 or 40 feet.

"Did you find any imprints of smaller shoes near the grave?"

"No, sir; I didn't."

"How far from the grave did you see such an imprint?"

"About 100 feet."

Mr. Donahue also questioned him regarding the latter's investigations at the Cordia house.

Captain Proctor

Captain William H. Proctor, a state police officer living in Swampscott, was the next witness. He was examined by Assistant District Attorney Fiedler. Shown the slugs, said to have been taken from the body of the dead man, Soulia, the witness said they were of 32-calibre, fired from a Smith & Wesson cartridge, centre fire.

The witness was then shown the revolver on exhibit, said to have been found at Lawrence in a pocket of a coat, said to belong to Francisco Feci.

"Can such a revolver fire the kind of cartridges you speak of?" asked Mr. Fiedler.

"Yes, sir."

"Have you any opinion as to what revolver fired those slugs?"

"I have formed the opinion that these slugs came from an H. & R. revolver."

"What do the letters H. & R. stand for?"

"Harrington & Richardson."

"Is this revolver a Harrington & Richardson?"

"Yes, sir."

"Does your opinion take you any farther?"

"I am of the opinion that the appearance of these slugs are consistent with the appearance of the barrel of this revolver."

"Did you examine the revolver, Capt. Proctor?"

"I did."

"What did you find?"

"I found that the last time this revolver was fired, it was shot three times."

"How do you arrive at that conclusion?"

"Because three of the chambers are cleaner than the other two."

The court suspended at this time until 2 o'clock.

HOME-COMING PARADE

Instructions as to Who Can Participate in Parade Now Being Arranged

1. On behalf of the people of New England, the committee of the governor of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, the legislative committee, the committee of the mayor of the city of Boston, and General Edwards extend a cordial invitation to the following soldiers and ex-soldiers of the 26th Division to attend and march in the parade of the 26th Division to take place in Boston sometime between April 26 and May 6, 1919, provided they can equip themselves with uniforms.

(a) All wounded officers and enlisted men who are still in the army and who now belong or have belonged to the 26th Division.

(b) All officers and enlisted men not wounded who belong now to the 26th Division but are detached therefrom.

(c) All honorably discharged officers and enlisted men of the 26th Division.

2. This invitation is extended only to those men who belonged to the 26th Division after its entry into the service of the United States and is not extended to those who belonged to the national guard companies but left them before its entry into the federal service. While it is desired to extend this invitation to these men, it would make the parade entirely too long and is therefore impracticable.

3. Men who cannot provide themselves with uniforms cannot march in the parade.

4. All of the above mentioned men who desire to take part in the parade are requested to address letters at once to:

The Adjutant,
Northeastern Department,
Boston, Mass.
26th Div. Parade

Each letter to give the following information:

(1) Full name.
(2) Street, town, and state address.
(3) The company and regiment to which the writer belongs, or did belong, and the time he served in the 26th Division.
(4) His rank while in that organization.
(5) State whether or not he served overseas with division. If so, how long?
(6) State whether still in service or discharged.
(7) State whether or not he is wounded.
(8) If wounded, state whether or not he is able to march on foot in the parade.
(9) State whether or not he can pay his railroad fare to Boston and return.
(10) State whether he prefers to be housed with the K. of C., the Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, War Camp Community Service, or Jewish Welfare Board.

5. The New England division of the American Red Cross will pay for the transportation of all wounded officers and enlisted men still in the army and in New England from their stations to Boston and return. The Red Cross will meet all wounded, whether in service or discharged, at the railroad stations, conduct them in automobiles to the places where they are to stay while in Boston, and return them to the railroad stations in automobiles on the departure.

6. All officers and enlisted men who have been honorably discharged from the army who belonged to the 26th Division, including the wounded who have been discharged, and all officers and enlisted men who still belong to the 26th Division but are on detached service will be required to provide their own transportation to and from Boston, if they can do so.

7. All states in New England have been asked to inform General Edwards at once if they will pay for the transportation to and from Boston of such of these two classes of men as cannot pay for their own transportation. This information has not yet been received. If any state in New England informs the Northeastern Department headquarters that it cannot furnish transportation for discharged soldiers, the men from that state who desire to take part in the parade will be so informed and they will have to provide

Stomach Troubles
Are Due to Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

This distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and make it bland and harmless, a responsible, efficient corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisulphate of magnesia, which can be obtained from any drugstore in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisulphate of Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose. Licorice, Bitter, Peppermint, and other leading drugs, etc.—Adv.

their own transportation.

8. The War Camp Community Service, the Knights of Columbus, the Y.M.C.A., the Salvation Army, and the Jewish Welfare Board, working in cooperation with the headquarters of the Northeastern Department, will provide food and sleeping quarters for all these individuals.

9. As soon as each man's letter is received at the headquarters of the Northeastern Department, a reply will be sent him informing him of the following:

(a) Where and how to get his transportation in case he does not provide it himself.

(b) What date to arrive in Boston.

(c) The address of the place he is to sleep while in Boston.

(d) What date he will return home.

(e) When each man receives his reply from the Northeastern Department headquarters, he should immediately write a second letter to the department adjutant acknowledging receipt of the letter from headquarters and should inform the same headquarters of the date and hour of his arrival in Boston and at what railroad station, wharf, etc., he will arrive.

(f) An information bureau will be established at each railroad station in Boston.

(g) As the time is short and it is imperative that the authorities know at once how many men to provide beds and food for, every man is requested to write the department adjutant at once.

(h) The expense of transporting these men will be great; therefore it is absolutely necessary that every discharged man and unwounded man still in the service provide his own transportation, if he can do so.

(i) At present there is no means of paying the transportation of wounded men still in the service who are not now in New England, discharged men including wounded men, to New England, and all men still of the 26th Division but not now stationed in New England, who desire to take part in the parade.

(j) If these men who cannot pay their own transportation will write their headquarters giving the information above asked for, and in addition give the state of New England from which they came, or if not from New England the regiment with which they served, stating that they will pay their own transportation, their letters will be sent to the state from which they came or from whom the regiment came, requesting that state to furnish transportation to and from Boston and to notify the soldier himself of the action taken.

(k) In addition, if there is an auxiliary association of the regiment or battalion, the soldier might write and ask such association if it can furnish the transportation.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH
CLUB ENTERTAINS

"Some entertainers" was the verdict of the large audience which journeyed to the First Universalist church and witnessed a patriotic minstrel show last evening given by the "Heroes" club of the church. Last a wrong impression be made it should be said that this organization is composed entirely of the fairer sex, and the brand of entertainment which they offered well merited the enthusiastic reception accorded.

The program, which was under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Dunlap Brown, included a well balanced and varied series of musical numbers, interspersed with witty "exchanges of opinion" by the four ends. A chorus of 15 voices added materially to the success of the event. Former Lieut. Michael Brennan acted as interloper.

and filled the position most acceptably. A feature of the show was the Red Cross costumes of the young ladies, and the large American flag in the background of the stage gave a pleasing military aspect to the ensemble as a whole.

The concert program was as follows:
Opening chorus, entire company.
"Beautiful Ohio," Flora and Gladys Long; song, "Dear Old Dad of Mine," Grace Dingle; song, "Mississippi," Dorothy Dickinson; song, "Flora Long; song, "Mickey," Josephine Harmon; song, "Till We Meet Again," Dorothy Dickinson; song and dance, "Over There," a chorus of six girls, the Misses Frances Plafsted, Gladys Long, Abbie Whitney, Viola de Louvain and Clara Price; violin solo, Master Thomas McNeill; song, "Hallelujah," the end girls; song, "How You Get to Keep 'Em Down on the Farm," the Misses Gladys and Flora Long; song, "Garden of My Dreams," Miss Flora Long, Miss Harriet Mansur was accompanist of the evening and was assisted by Thomas McNeill on the violin. The chorus members and principals were: The Misses Clara Price, Alvira Tushstrom, Hilda Gard Dahlstrom, Marjorie Douglas, Viola de Louvain, Irene Dickinson, Mary McNeill, Lena Gookin, Florence Brennan, Alice Campbell, Anna Larsen, Anna Quinn, Connie Rogers, Florence Barrett, Dorothy Dickinson, Edna Adams, Catherine Clapp and Rosie Howard.

RECEPTION TO BOYS OF THE 101ST REGIMENT

Members of the 101st Auxiliary met last evening at the war work headquarters and made plans for receiving the boys of that regiment when they arrive in Boston and also upon their arrival at Camp Devens.

Present plans call for the arrival of the 101st tomorrow afternoon, and the following delegation will be present on the official reception boat: Mrs. Michael Ready, Mrs. George Marshall and Mrs. George Underwood. On another reception boat, that of the 101st Associates, will be Mrs. Elizabeth Spillane, Mrs. William Hoy, Mrs. Denis Bransell, Mrs. Mary Burns, Mrs. Peter Flanagan and James O'Sullivan. Mrs. William H. Merritt, chairman of the auxiliary, will be at Commonwealth pier with the mothers of the division, and will distribute apples to the homecoming heroes.

By next Tuesday afternoon it is expected that the 101st will be at Camp Devens ready to receive visitors, and further plans for the part which the auxiliary is to play in this will be made known later. As matters stand at present, there will be a representation of the auxiliary at the camp to give out apple pies to the men, and a urgent appeal is sent out to the general public to supply these pies. They may be left at the war work headquarters, 119 Merrimack street, all day Monday or up to noon Tuesday.

It was also planned to hold a white party next Tuesday evening in the rooms of the Knights of Columbus. All members of the auxiliary as well as their friends are invited to be present.

Mrs. Merritt presided at last evening's meeting, and James O'Sullivan, sponsor of the auxiliary, spoke at length on the splendid work of the organization and also paid a glowing tribute to the boys of Co. M.

BRISBANE, Australia, April 4—(via Montreal)—The plant of a labor newspaper here which praised the raising of a red flag by Russian demonstrators, has been attacked by angry crowds and its windows smashed. Russian shops have been damaged. All Brisbane hotels have been closed until further notice.

Returned soldiers and others have passed strongly worded resolutions demanding the deportation of Bolshevik Russians and sympathizers, including two labor members of parliament. They also urge that the state government change its attitude towards men the revolutionaries characterize as traitors and that the commonwealth government abandon its "tolerant attitude." Otherwise, they declare, the returned soldiers will take drastic action.

SEC. BAKER REPLIES

Let People Decide Between What War Dept. Did and What Chamberlain Said

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Commenting on what he termed "the very intemperate speech" of Senator Chamberlain, retiring chairman of the senate military committee, delivered at Natchez, Miss., in connection with the Ansell-Crowder court-martial controversy, Secretary Baker said yesterday that in three years as secretary of war he could not recall a single instance in which he had received a helpful suggestion from Senator Chamberlain or one which seemed intended to be helpful.

"I am perfectly willing," the secretary added, "to let the people of the country decide between what the war department has done in three years and what Senator Chamberlain has said in three years."

Ansell's Letter Published
Discussion of the controversy involving Lieut. Col. Samuel T. Ansell, formerly acting judge advocate general, and Judge Advocate General Crowder, and their respective views of the necessity for revising the army's system of justice was revived yesterday by Senator Chamberlain's speech and by the publication in a New York newspaper of the letter of Col. Ansell to Secretary Baker, which the secretary recently refused to make public on the ground that it would not be helpful.

As to the appearance of the letter, Mr. Baker said that the "welter of abuse, accusation and violent language about personal differences between officers can only be properly inquired into through the regularly established agencies of the army."

"The important part of this matter," Mr. Baker continued, "is the question of military justice. Upon that subject the committee of the American Bar association and various other groups are at work. I am very anxious to see the local evening newspaper in the paper that reaches the home when the whole family is there to read it. The sun fills this field in Lowell."

have every defect of the system discovered and corrected."

Gen. Crowder Attacked
Senator Chamberlain recently demanded that the Ansell letter be given the same publicity as had been given one from Gen. Crowder to Sec. Baker, thereby reinforcing, it now develops, an urgent request made in the letter itself.

Publication of the letter shows that Col. Ansell, replying to statements by Gen. Crowder, bluntly asserted that responsibility for any mal-administration in the office of the judge advocate general must be located first upon the secretary of war. He charged that Gen. Crowder first agreed with him in regard to the powers of his office, but after being taken to task by Sec. Baker said, "Ansell, I had to go back on you. I am sorry, but it was necessary to do it to save my official reputation."

Col. Ansell, reviewing the whole controversy and attacking the statement of Gen. Crowder as a "dexterous effort to divert public attention from the system of injustice which he defends," virtually made the charge recently made by Senator Chamberlain, that Secretary Baker and Gen. Crowder were not acting in good faith when they sent to congress some time ago, a bill to revise courts-martial procedure.

Calls System Unjust
He said the secretary had refused to accept his opinion that power already existed for reviewing sentences and correcting injustices and that the bill sent to congress was not a bona fide proposal to correct existing evils.

Of the present system, the letter said:

"I say the system does not do justice. It does injustice—gross, terrible, spirit-crushing injustice. Evidence of it is on every hand to those who will but see. The records of this office reek with it. The organization of the emergency board now sitting daily and daily recommending clemency in a hundred cases is a confession of it. Clemency, however, can never efface the injustice done. In my judgment the army will never hold the place it ought to hold in the faith and affection of our people until the machinery for doing military justice be humanized."

NO NEW RED ATTACKS ON RUSSIAN FRONTS

ARCHANGEL, Wednesday, April 2.—At allied headquarters this afternoon it was reported that the situation was unchanged on all fronts. The enemy has made no new attacks since being severely repulsed yesterday but the artillery on both sides continues active in the Odzorskala sector.

After the Bolsheviks had held a position for several hours astride the road between Bolshaya Ozera and Odzorskala on Sunday afternoon they were driven out and it is reported by trenchmen heavy. One shell from a Russian battery exploded in the midst of a party of Bolsheviks, killing 15 men. The allied machine gunners also caused many casualties.

It was while the enemy held this road and was raiding the allies' lines to the rear over a little used trail, through the woods that Bryan R. Royal of Bloomfield, N. J., a V.M.C.A. secretary, and several soldiers, including two Americans, were taken prisoners. According to a Bolshevik prisoner brought into Archangel today, the American and British prisoners taken in this sector, were removed to a village south of Bolshaya Ozera and were well treated.

The American casualties during the past two weeks of fighting about Bolshaya Ozera include one officer and five men killed and seven wounded. Nine others are reported missing.

Queen Victoria Better

MADRID, Thursday, April 3.—The condition of Queen Victoria, who underwent a slight operation yesterday, is satisfactory, according to announcement. The operation became necessary after an indisposition of two months.

$220,000 Offer For Fight a Joke

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 4.—It developed today that the offer of $220,000 for the Willard-Dempsey fight made in a telegram to New York yesterday, was signed "Great Falls Athletic Association" and that it was sent to a local telegraph office by a stranger. As there is no such organization in the city, local sport followers regard the matter as a joke.

TO RELEASE MEMBERS OF NAVAL RESERVE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Because of the failure of congress to enact the naval appropriation bill with its provision for an increased naval personnel, practically all members of the naval reserve force on active duty must be released immediately upon the declaration of peace.

In making the announcement today the navy department said that because of this fact and of the great need of officers due both to the continuing activities of the navy and the shortage of regular officers, it would be inadvisable generally to accept the resignations of reserve officers.

Many of these officers have asked to be permitted to return to civil life, but attention is called by the department to the fact that they are under obligation to perform active duty with the navy for a period of not later than six months after the termination of the war. Resignations will be accepted, however, as additional officers are appointed in the temporary permanent naval force.

DISCUSS MEANS OF ERADICATING DISEASE AT INTER-ALLIED RED CROSS CONFERENCE

CANNES, France, Thursday, April 3.—At today's session of the first inter-allied Red Cross conference there was a discussion of extra-governmental means of eradicating disease. The view was supported that there is need for Red Cross societies to assist governmental agencies. Dr. Wyckliffe Rose of the Rockefeller Foundation was one of the speakers.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A regular meeting of James A. Garfield Women's Relief corps was held last night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. One application for membership was received and plans were made for the attendance of the officers of the corps at the department convention to be held in Boston April 8 and 9. It was also voted to invite the members of Post 120 at luncheon Memorial day. In the afternoon whist was played and in the early evening supper was served.

Elgin Lodge

Routine business was transacted and interesting reports of their visit to the New Hampshire grand lodge were made by Past Wardens Mrs. H. A. Burrows and Mrs. D. A. Chase at the regular meeting of Elgin lodge, 166, N.E. O.P., which was held last evening. The attendance was large.

Socialist Club

The regular meeting of the American branch of the Lowell Socialist club was held last evening. Two new members were initiated and an interesting debate on social conditions took place. The next meeting will be held April 10 at 8 p. m.

MILLS RUNNING FULL CAPACITY

PITTSFIELD, April 4.—Pittsfield textile mills, employing 2000 hands, are running at capacity for the first time since the armistice was signed. The Berkshire Woolen company is to put on a night force next week. The Pontonue Woolen company has already a night force. Managers say prospects are excellent for business for the remainder of the year.

TRADES & LABOR COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

A feature of last evening's meeting of the Trades and Labor council was the election of officers for the ensuing six months, the result being as follows: Francis A. Warnock, president; John R. Curtin, vice president; Charles E. Anderson, secretary; Frank N. Stimpson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Annie Reagan, financial secretary; treasurer; Timothy O'Rourke and Mrs. Rachel Campbell, trustees; Michael Kinane, sergeant-at-arms. The following committee was appointed to bring in a list of standing committees for the year: Fred Mosley, Henry O'Donnell, Timothy O'Rourke, Parker H. Murphy and John Casey.

Resolutions were passed advocating mass meetings all over the country in behalf of Thomas Mooney, labor leader, who is now serving a life sentence in California for alleged implication in a bomb plot which resulted in the death of 10 persons. Complete pardon or release is being asked for Mooney. A communication was received from the Central Labor union of Dayton, O. relative to advertisements now appearing in newspapers offering work there.

The communication stated the ad-vortisement system was a scheme to flood the labor market there and advocated that any person going in quest of work to Dayton should take a supply of money with him or he would be the object for a state institution in a short time. Following the passage of the set of resolutions of the Mooney case it was announced that Norman H. Tallentire of San Francisco would be at labor headquarters in Central street Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock to address committees named to hear him, and any person wishing to do so is invited to attend. It was stated the speaker would review the Mooney case from start to finish and would give the inside happenings what is claimed to have resulted the unfair trial.

Painters' Union
The members of the Painters' union held their regular meeting last evening with President Robert Moore in the chair. Routine business was transacted and it was announced that the charter would remain open during the month of April, which means that the painters of this city who are not unionized can become members of the organization at half price.

LIEUT. GINIVAN PAYS SHORT VISIT HERE

Lieut. Robert Ginivan, Co. H, 353d Infantry, formerly of Co. M of the old Ninth, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ginivan of 217 Salem street, who has won the Croix de Guerre and been cited for exceptional bravery, has been visiting recently at his home and left today for Camp Merritt to rejoin his unit. He expects his discharge in the near future.

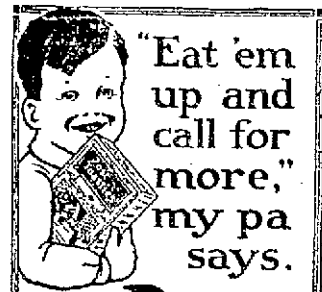

Lieut. Ginivan is an old Massachusetts militia man, having served with Co. G of the old Sixth regiment before joining Co. M and also served at the Mexican border with the old Ninth regiment. Upon going overseas he was transferred to his present unit. He took part in what is known as "Major Hickey's raid" and also in the second battle of the Marne and was cited for exceptional bravery in both engagements. As a result of his work he was promoted to lieutenant and later awarded the Croix de Guerre.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Note—Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come later.

THE STRAND

"Hero Week" is getting a big bit with the patrons. If you haven't attended one of the performances of the week, be sure and avail yourself of the remaining opportunities today or tomorrow. The soldier boys who "went over the top" for you are immensely entertaining in song and story.

"Eat 'em up and call for more," my pa says.

Gladys Brockwell in "The Forbidden Room" is easily one of the best interpretations in which this star has ever appeared. It fits her admirably, being filled with highly dramatic situations and clever characterizations. "Oh, Johnny" is a great story, with all of the dash and vigor desired, presents Louis Bessison, the most recent star of the screen, in his first picture production. It's a story of western daring meeting eastern scheming and the best man wins. You will like the story and the star as well.

The remainder of the program has many good features, including the latest song hits by Annette Lavelle, a comedy, and the Universal Weekly. It's unquestionably one of the biggest and best bills of its kind ever offered at a local audience.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"When He Came Back," the wonderfully gripping story of a young soldier's return from France, the most recent stage offering by Vincent Lawrence, is winning genuine favor. This week at the Lowell Opera House, The Emerson All Star Players never appeared in a play that seemed to suit their talent as does this presentation. Julian Noy and Miss Salisbury are scoring heavily and the supporting cast is excellent. Next week "Mary's Ankles" is coming with a good love story, will be given, and this also promises to share with the best presentation of the stock season. Order your tickets early and avoid disappointment. Tel. 261 and have your name placed on the subscription list.

H. P. KETPUS THEATRE

Two funny blackface men are Le-Maire & Hayes, who are at the H. P. Keith Theatre, this week, giving their extraordinarily laughable skit based upon the characters of negro sailors. They never get anywhere as sailors, but their words and loudness in the minds of all who take in the shows. A real sailor had in "Sailor" Kelly, whose repertoire of songs is both up-to-date and wonderfully popular. The "sailor" did a wonderful recruiting stunt during the war, and it is easy to guess why he was so effective. Juliette Childs, the singing comedienne, is an attractive young woman, whose songs are popular and filled with zest. Wood and Wyde, in a musical comedy satire, are effective because their work is so classy. Other acts on the bill are: Naxon & Norris, instrumentalists; Ben and Hazel Mann, in vaudeville; Chuck Brothers, team poling performers; and the Kineograms.

SOME AFTER JULY FIRST DRINKS

Several new beverages, which are making a bid for public favor after the dry season opens, July 1, have already appeared. Here are some of them: The "Carpet ricker," "Sleeping punch," "Potato fizz" and the "Coma cocktail." Although these are so

Did you lose that job through a poor skin

There's many a person whose chances in life are limited simply because of a skin that is blotchy and un-presentable. Pimples, rough, red, ugly skins—skins that chap and burn easily—are usually most successfully treated with Resinol Ointment.

The first use of Resinol Soap with Resinol Ointment usually produces the best results where facial blemishes are concerned, and is equally successful in treating other skin affections on limbs and body.

Resinol

called total abstinence drinks, investigation will show that they have a Missouri mule sidetracked for klick.

To begin with, take the case of the "Carpet ricker." This potion is concocted of Jamaica ginger and snuff. It is called a "Carpet ricker" because the imbiber of this mixup hits the carpet before he has time to lift a chair. No chaser can catch this drink. It works too fast. It has more around knockouts than Jack Dempsey.

Next we have what is known as the "Sleeping punch." This has a kick like two Missouri mules. It is constructed of cold tea and other. It looks like whiskey and acts like it, only it does not waste any time on the wind-up. It produces immediate collapse. It knocks them stiffer than a second-hand loaf of bread. A brass band could not wake up the man who has this mixture under his belt. His ears have gone to sleep with the rest of him. It's a killer.

There is next the "Potato fizz." This flings an awful walloper also. It has to stand for some time. Potatoes have alcohol aboard, and they are sliced up and thrown in the "pige." The molasses coaxes the alcohol out of the potatoes and then the soup waits by and ambushes some customer. Three minutes after he takes on this gravy the laker measures off his altitude horizontally. He's through. He can't stand up any better than a fish and he hasn't any more pep than a dish-rag.

The "Coma cocktail" works quickly, too. It is said to be a simple affair, a glass of warm water and some quinine tablets. It floors them quicker than a black jack.

These and some equally deadly compounds have been tried in isolated cases. With the price of whiskey where it is, the penniless drunks will try most anything once. They will even try these suicide combinations. These cocktails are also crocktails.

A peculiar thing about these drinks is that they are not included in the list of intoxicants. They do not, as a rule, contain intoxicants, strictly speaking. But do they work—oh, boy!

JAPAN LEADER TALKS

Tells Why Japan Insists on Keeping Pacific Isles Occupied During War

Written for The Sun
BY K. K. KAWAKAMI
Foremost Japanese publicist in America and author of the following standard books on the Orient: "American-Japanese Relations," "Asia at the Door," and "Japan in World Politics."

"The Japanese have a great pride in their achievements in the Pacific, and feel that they should be permitted to extend their culture and civilization to the two groups of islands which are inhabited by undeveloped peoples."

This is an official view expressed by a member of the Japanese peace mission, in explaining Japan's interest in the South Pacific islands, the Marshall, Caroline and Ladrones groups, formerly German possessions, occupied by Japan during the war.

Fear Bottling Up
It does not represent the popular sentiment. The plain people of Japan do not base their clamor for the Pacific islands upon such pretentious and abstract arguments.

They do not beat around the bush, like diplomats, but plainly assert that they want to keep those islands because they need them more badly than any other nation.

This Japanese clamor proceeds from the instinctive fear of the Japanese that they will be eventually smothered to death if they are permanently bottled up in their own small archipelago.

It is like a drowning man clinging to anything that may come within his reach. He does not stop to think whether the thing he is going to clutch will keep him afloat. To understand this point of view, we must know something of Japan's population question.

Population Is Key
During the past 50 years the Japanese population has been increasing at the rate of 100,000 per year. Whereas there were 32,000,000 Japanese 50 years ago, there are today 55,000,000. As Japan's total area is about 145,755 square miles, the density is about 355 per square mile. If we leave out of consideration Hokkaido, the north island, the density increases to 451.

True, Belgium, Holland and Great Britain are more densely populated than Japan. Belgium, with its 3530 inhabitants to the square mile, is the most thickly populated. Holland, with 471 population per square mile, and England, 570, come next, followed by Japan's 555. Italy's 316, and Germany's 310. China has only 70 people to the square mile.

But the European countries, which are more congested than Japan, have the advantage of unrestricted emigration as well as of the vast colonies they have acquired. The Japanese, on the other hand, have no colonies, and are by agreement among western powers, forbidden to emigrate.

England's colonies have a total area of 12,624,453 square miles, having only 21 people to the square mile. From those colonies the Japanese and other Asiatics are strictly excluded.

Belgium has colonies totaling 1,000,000 square miles. Holland's colonies are even greater in area than those of Belgium. Even Germany had, before the war, more than a million square miles of colonies.

The Potash Supply
Japan also may be said to have colonies in Korea and Formosa, measuring some 55,000 square miles, but these colonies are already thickly populated.

THE PAPERS CLOSE TO MASSES

Never were people so close to their newspapers as they are today. Never were the masses, great and small, given such splendid service.

There are more than 100 papers in this city. The representation of government, industry, commerce, agriculture, and the people is complete. There is no paper that is not a part of the life of the community. There is no paper that is not a part of the life of the community.

BOLSHEVİK PROBLEMS

With nearly all Europe east of the Rhine passing under the shadow of Bolshevism and the certainty that war-weary, half-sympathetic and economic unrest in the remainder of the continent make military suppression impossible, the world sees at last that the old civilization, with all its institutions, is threatened with destruction.

Consequently a mad clamor rises to the peace council for immediate remedial action. The suggested remedies are as fantastic as the disease.

One proposes a ring of buffer states about the infected area. But the peoples of the proposed states are already wavering in allegiance to the old order.

Military circles once urged the formation of an "iron ring" of bayonets and bayonets to be maintained until Bolshevism should subside. Revolts in the ring itself ended the discussion of this proposal.

A third plan is the reverse of the second. Hoover and others proposed to "feed the beasts" until growling stopped. But even the vast wealth of America is inadequate to feed to social satisfaction the hundreds of millions now in revolt. Still it is apparently to be tried as a consolation.

Yet bread, bayonets and barrier nations may be equally futile to hold back Bolshevism. It demands prophylactics, not quarantines. It must be fought here, not in Russia. It must be backfired against, not begotten out.

Bolshevism is a desperate appeal to a new tyranny. It is an explosive outbreak of the forces of misdirected social progress. It must be met by using and directing these forces along right lines, not by confining and repressing them.

When old nations crumble and new ones are being born, when millions are dying and social caste is disappearing, when property values fluctuate and flicker out by billions, the nations affected are fluid and must be molded into higher forms or they will dissolve in chaos.

If justice or right had any part in the catastrophe, there would be ground for hope. But trampling underfoot all that has ever been accepted as necessary for the maintenance of organized society, this craze of the proletariat against everybody in authority and everybody supposed to have attained a competence by their frugality, knows no law but that of rapine, plunder and assassination.

The problem of fighting Bolshevism is the problem of using its forces in reconstruction, but its leaders are jealous and ambitious. They refuse to make common cause with any other nation that does not recognize their attitude as just and their principles as a new form of liberty.

Hence the power that defeats Bolshevism is the one that will preserve the world and rebuild it. It is a power that will preserve the world and rebuild it. It is a power that will preserve the world and rebuild it. It is a power that will preserve the world and rebuild it.

Under present conditions it is difficult, if not impossible, to do that. But there is ground for hope that after the work of the peace conference is completed, there may be a possibility of turning the forces of Bolshevism into legitimate channels that will work for the uplift of the people instead of the destruction of civilization.

LIVING MONUMENTS

The Boston Globe in an editorial strongly endorses the terms of soldiers' memorial provided for in the proposed Lowell auditorium which we expect will be authorized by the legislature within the next week or two. The Globe wants Boston to adopt the Lowell idea which is apparent from the following:

There has come, in recent years, a beautiful and touching change in the form of our beloved dead. "Not marble, nor the gilded monuments of princes," not some ostentatious and lifeless public ornament which can only be admired from the outside, but some method for keeping lighted in the lives of the living the faith and ideals to which the life that has ended was dedicated.

Panel hall is a priceless possession of historic celebrity, but as a meeting place it was designed only for an 18th century town. The inadequacy of Mechanics hall and of Symphony hall was shown in the case of President Wilson's speech and the Lodge-Lowell debate. To overcome this drawback the Globe suggests a great auditorium big enough to meet any emergency. On this point the Globe says:

"The site, the design or the combination of designs for such a memorial can be left to the shaping of events. But it now seems beyond argument that the most fitting form of such a memorial is universally felt to be a great community meeting place around which the cultural and intellectual life of the city could cluster and grow."

It appears, therefore, that the men who planned the Lowell auditorium as the most fitting form of memorial to our soldiers and sailors have shown good judgment and a foresight that has been too rare in dealing with such matters in the past.

FRANCE NOT BETRAYED

Frank H. Simonds, the well known war correspondent, is regarded as usually reliable in his opinions, but in a despatch to a Boston paper of yesterday, he seems to blunder in claiming that France has been betrayed because the Saar valley is not ceded to her outright. She is to hold the territory until Germany has paid her indemnities.

If this valley were given outright to France, the fact would stand forever after as a source of strife between France and Germany. Mr. Simonds also claims that the failure to give Poland the territory by which she would have free access to the sea will destroy her.

dence. He points out a similar situation in regard to the Jugo-Slav nation.

We cannot agree with Mr. Simonds' reasoning on these points. On the contrary, the action of the peace conference which he criticizes, seems to us to be calculated to prevent trouble in the future, so far as that is possible. He claims that after the war Germany, if united with Russia, will have an opportunity to resume her plan for a united Europe.

If the League of Nations which Mr. Simonds claims to be now a dead issue, be established, there will be no danger of the united Europe movement nor of any other serious trouble from Germany. The provision for disarmament and the prevention of war will take care of German ambition as well as that of Russia.

It appears that the peace conference is carrying out as best it may, the principle of self-determination. Poland will have communication with the sea through Danzig, but she will not own the territory. So the Jugo-Slavs will reach the sea through the port of Fiume, although the port will be ceded to Italy.

The task before the peace conference is a most difficult one and many of the problems must be settled by compromise. The conference, however, is keeping, as nearly as it can, to the principle of self-determination and in keeping racial groups under the government to which they are ethnologically attached.

The League of Nations, therefore is not dead, but becomes stronger than ever by the arrangement under which Germany will not be driven into Bolshevism. The world would not tolerate any injustice to France after all the sacrifices she has made during the war not only in the loss of one million and a half of her people, but in having her beautiful country ravaged and many of its most thriving cities and towns laid in ruins. France can never be fully compensated for her losses, but we refuse to believe that her claims at the peace conference will not be fairly met. The conference, in trying to establish a peace that will be permanent, cannot afford to slight the just claims of France.

TO BAR ANARCHISTS

The state legislature is likely to enact a drastic law for the suppression of anything bordering upon anarchy or Bolshevism.

The several states of this nation have a duty to perform in this respect, but acting separately they never can accomplish the object in view without the full co-operation and assistance of the federal government which will doubtless be forthcoming. The state can only punish offenders for violation of its laws. It cannot deport them nor can it legally drive them out into another state to which they will be equally obnoxious.

It will be incumbent upon the national government to adopt greater restrictions upon the admission of immigrants. The time has arrived when it is necessary to ascertain the character of the people we allow to enter our ports. It is also necessary to find out for what purpose they come here, whether they intend to make their homes here or merely to go about the country as public agitators, advocating the overthrow of our republican form of government in order that Bolshevism may take its place.

The responsibility for so many dangerous characters being admitted to this country rests entirely with the federal authorities. We understand that some steps in this direction are soon to be taken after the assembling of congress and they cannot be taken any too soon. It will be a very difficult task to separate the good from the bad or to determine beforehand whether the intending immigrant carries in his breast the wild principles of the Russian Bolshevik or the irrepressible anarchy, so common in some countries of Europe.

BOND SHARKS

It is now coming to light that certain speculators are engaging in the business of swindling unsuspecting holders of Liberty bonds by inducing them to purchase worthless stocks of bogus corporations by offering them an amount of stock much in excess of the par value of the bonds.

The bond holders are advised in such cases not to take the word of any stock selling agent, but to insist upon a financial statement of the proposition and the resources of the company whose stock is being sold. After receiving such a statement, the owner of the bond can submit it to a bank or other financial agent or expert for advice. In this way, the dishonesty

It appears that many of the people who hold the Liberty bonds do not appreciate the fact that in a short time these bonds will be equal to their face value in gold, although at present they are slightly below par.

New York city is experiencing what her police department calls the "unattended motor car nuisance." Motorists leave their cars parked too long near the curbing of the city's busy streets. But the ingenious police department has invented a plan it thinks will put an end to the abuse. Within a short time persons owning motor cars will return to their car to find that some police officer, in pursuance of his duty, has been along and chained a wheel of the car to one of the springs. The padlock will bear the address of the police station to which the motorist will have to go to get an officer and the right key so as to make his car available again. Among other things we thought of when we read this, was the crimp it promises to put in New York's well known industry of stealing automobiles.

Reason for the Exodus

A new reason why boys leave the farm is printed in the News Letter of the University of North Carolina.

"Thinkers of pulp, platform, press," sings the bard, "are wallowing in deep distress," seeking to know the hidden cause of the migration. Is it longing for a taste of faster life? Not at all, replies the farmer boy:

I left my dad, his farm, his plow, Because my calf became his cow. I left my dad, 'twas wrong, of course, Because my calf became his horse.

And so with lamb, pig and even garden truck, which "was his to sell, but mine to die."

Attention was first called to the bleaching effect of air and light on writing ink as used in modern times by the fact that signatures on certain certificates had become illegible through the fading of the ink. A Real Iron Tonic

Like Pepton May Be Just What You Need This Spring

Probably nine people out of ten have lost or are losing their grip on health in these trying months of awful epidemics, exposure to damp, changeable weather, and association with sick people in overheated homes. Depleted blood, loss of the red corpuscles, shattered nerves, loss of appetite, dull, dozy feelings in the head, irritability, all loudly call for the real tonic, strength and nourishment that Pepton will give you. It is a wonderful corrective of anemic tendency, paleness, languor, nerve exhaustion. Pepton restores the red corpuscles to the blood and gives a natural vigor and snap that keeps up courage, makes you cheery and helpful to your family and friends, and contributes wonderfully to the health of all. Remember this one thing—Pepton is a real iron tonic, true—Pepton is a real iron tonic.

BOYLE BEATS THOMAS

Lowell Boxer Completely Outclassed Quaker at C.A.A.—Other Bouts

Phiney Boyle of Lowell completely outclassed and decisively defeated Charlie (Kid) Thomas of Philadelphia in the main bout at the Crescent rink on Wednesday night. Boyle piled up a big lead, having the advantage in all but one round—the first—and the decision of Referee Flaherty in his favor was the only one possible.

The Lowell boy was physically fit for Thomas and he had to be for the Philadelphia packer a stiff wallop. Boyle knew this before he entered the ring, and he was careful to prevent the "Kick from landing. Boyle had his man well "boxed" and he boxed sidestepped, jumped and swung like a champion. He hit Thomas with everything but the water bucket, submitting the Quaker to a terrific bombardment all the way. Thomas with his dangerous wallop, gamely stood there and assimilated Boyle's blows, but was ever ready to slip over a laymaker if given half a chance. Many times did he swing in an attempt to stop Boyle, but the Lowell flash was always on the alert and ducked or blocked the swoop producing blow.

Thomas had a weight advantage on Boyle, and several times he used his additional poundage to advantage. When Boyle would tie him up, he would attempt to wrestle in order to get away and escape a Boyle fusillade. But just as soon as he would shake off the local lad, Boyle would emulate the kangaroo and jump in and let go a series of blows that would rock his opponent. Thomas' face proved a regular target for Boyle and after the bout it showed the effects of the terrible pepper administered.

Never, however, did Thomas back away, but on the contrary he always came back for more; he got it in good measure and the bout progressed and he remained right there taking "em like the polo cage receives the drives from "Red Hart. Boys could not help but admire his gameness.

Rarely has Boyle given a better exhibition. He appeared like a shadow before the bewildered Quaker, and his speed, aggressiveness, hitting and sidestepping would do credit to the title holder. He showed wonderful improvement over his last performance here and a continuance of faithful training and careful boxing, is bound to send him up the ladder. Boyle's many friends were elated over his splendid work and applauded him to the echo as he left the ring. Thomas, too, received a good hand as he crawled fire with the fans. Big Woods of Manchester won from Tom Moore of Providence in the semi-final of eight rounds. It was a fine bout, with Woods earning the guard. Cal Diamond won from Ray Shuster in four rounds in the first preliminary, and Jim Crilly put Young Molloy of Lowell away in the second round of their six-round number.

LONDOS AND LEMLE ALL SET FOR BOUT

With articles signed and forfeits posted, Carl Lemle, the "perfect man," and Jim Londos, the famous Canton, Ohio, Greek, are all set for their wrestling bout to be staged at the Crescent rink on Wednesday night. Londos agreed when here before to meet any man in the country and left a good sized check to guarantee his good faith and to insure his appearance. Many of the leading grapplers in the country were sought to tackle Londos, but it was not until Lemle sent on a date accompanied by a check that a capable opponent was secured. Lemle is a giant, yet he is a fast and clever mat artist. He has met many of the good ones and has always given satisfaction. He weighs about 200 pounds, and has had great experience at the game. He feels confident that he will be able to pin the Greek's shoulders to the mat. The men have agreed to wrestle to a finish, pin falls only to count, with the struggle held barred.

YOKEL LOSSES TITLE

BOSTON, April 4.—Boston wrestling fans saw the most sensational battle of the year, last night, and Mike Yokel the world's middleweight champion, got the surprise of his career, up at the Grand Opera House when he was defeated for his title by Waino Ketola, the Finn. It was a whirlwind scrap all the way between two masters.

Ketola opened the match by tossing Yokel in two minutes and 49 seconds, with a double armlock, after they had been called to the scratch. It was about the quickest fall ever scored over a man of class in this city and came with a suddenness that made the audience and vanquished gape. Yokel won the second fall after a desperate fight of 52 minutes, 15 seconds, but was again toppled in the third in 16 minutes, 18 seconds with a head chancery and body scissors, losing the match and his title.

The new champion was challenged by John Kilonis and the men accepted, the men to mix on the mat here next Thursday night.

TONIGHT'S GAMES

Providence at New Bedford.

POLO NOTES

The rival Lawrence team, not Worcester, as previously announced, will play Lowell at the Crescent rink tonight.

With the season nearing its completion, many requests are being received for novel games after the race is decided. Some propose an inequality series between the winners and the runners-up. Others argue that we should do as they did out west. That is, to tender the permanent winners a benefit. Others propose that two out-of-town teams meet on the local rink. This would be an innovation and many of the followers of the game aver that it would make a big hit. All the suggestions are being considered by the league officials.

Salem is right at Lowell's heels and the Harkins crew must keep traveling at the great pace it has maintained for the past month to be out in front when the bell rings.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Erie A.C. has reorganized for the coming season, and will play its first game next Saturday with the Holy Cross as opponents. The game will be played on the North common at 2 p. m. for two quarter balls. Players are requested to report for practice at 1 p. m. The Erie A.C. would like to challenge any 12 or 14 year old team in the city. For games please write to Manager Edward Harrington, 218

WATER DEPARTMENT ACTIVITIES

Employees of the water department are engaged in dropping down the pipes of the department in Baldwin street five feet lower than the usual depth to provide accommodations for the new railroad facilities which the Boston & Maine railroad is constructing in Middlesex Village. The work will be paid for by the railroad. Work is also progressing rapidly on the installation of new wells on the boulevard. Three new wells have been sunk and the old Cook wells are being used only three or four days a week.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

"If I hadn't given her a clout, she would have fired another station at me," was the defense of one Daniel J. Murphy, when he was called before Judge Fisher in police court today on a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Winifred Ridal.

According to Murphy's story, Mrs. Ridal had dropped in at his house the other day and started an argument. He got sick of talking with her, and ordered her from the house. She refused to go, and he attempted to put her out. This did not meet with the woman's approval and she gave vent to her feelings by picking up one of three flatirons from the stove and throwing it at him. Although her aim was poor, Murphy decided not to take any chances on what her next attempt might accomplish in the way of injuries to his upper story, and brought the affair to an abrupt termination by giving her "a clout in the face."

He was ordered to pay a fine of $20 after being found guilty by the court. "If you were a single man I would impose a jail sentence," said the court. "Well Your Honor," replied defendant, "if I hadn't done it the other flatiron would have come." "That's all," said His Honor. And so the case of Murphy and the flatiron was closed.

Creased Guilty
Mary E. Austin and James C. Burns pleaded guilty to a statutory offense, and the man was ordered to pay a fine of $50. The woman was sentenced to two months in jail.

Other Cases
The usual gathering of youthful offenders were present in the juvenile session, and in some cases were placed on probation after restitution had been made. Several other cases were continued for a week.

DETAILS OF SCENES LEADING UP TO THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

TOKIO, March 11 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Details from Korea of the scenes leading up to the proclamation of independence, issued March 1, have reached here. The feature of the demonstrations everywhere is said to be the desire and intent of the Koreans to use only peaceful means in obtaining their independence.

Two members of the Young Men's Christian association staff at Seoul, both Americans, were taken from the street in front of their building to a room inside and subjected to a personal search because they were suspected of having been handed a copy of the proclamation by a Korean on the street. The search was unwarranted and the men were released.

An Associated Press correspondent at Seoul, writing under date of March 6, gave an account received from a witness of what took place in P'yongyang, the second city of importance in Korea. Saturday, March 1, was designated by the Koreans for memorial services to honor the former emperor.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat, flushes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat, flushes, nervousness, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

turning to the Russian embassy at Washington after an extended special investigation throughout Siberia.

Ye Tai-Wan, whose funeral was set for March 2, Koreans had desired the rite to be according to their national customs, but it was announced by authorities the Shinto rites would be observed. This was said to have angered many.

Several Christian pastors and church officers were present at the services. After an address, Pastor Kim Sun Du, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, asked the audience to remain after the memorial exercises which were to be concluded with benediction. Then Chung Il-Sun, a helper in the Fifth church, took the platform and said he had an important communication to read. He said it was the happiest and proudest day of his life and that though he died tomorrow, he would not but read this.

He proceeded to read what was virtually a declaration of political independence for the Korean people. After he finished, another man took the floor and explained just what the people were expected to do, saying that nothing of an unlawful nature, or resistance to authority was to be permitted in the least, but that the people were to follow the instructions given, and make no resistance to the authorities nor attack the Japanese people or officials.

In all the cases of arrest and alleged assault by Japanese civilians as well as soldiers and police, this witness said, no instance of resistance by a Korean was reported. Many young girls who joined the parade at Seoul were dragged out, tied up and beaten in public across the shoulders with police swords. Brutal treatment of prisoners and often of innocent bystanders by police and Japanese roughs is said to have added bitterness to the situation.

"DEAN OF POILUS," AGED 80, MUSTERED OUT

PARIS, Thursday, March 27.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—After serving four years and a half in dugouts and billets as a sapper in an engineer regiment, Lieut. Surnage, 80 years old, was mustered out of service a few weeks ago. In 1914 he volunteered for the duration of the war and during the conflict earned the sobriquet of "the dean of the poilus."

After being accepted in the army, he served in a training camp learning the manual of the rifle and bayonet. When he had sufficiently advanced, he was immediately sent to the front and during the war, passed most of the time near Souchez, where shells fell with constant regularity.

He is in fine health and tuned to continue the campaign, should occasion demand it.

"Monsieur Clemenceau is not, as stated by Mr. Lloyd George, 'the grand young man of France'," says L. Liberté. "This title belongs incontestably to Lieutenant Surnage. Our premier can grant it to him; there is indeed, enough of most glorious honor for him."

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Horton returned to the witness stand as yesterday's afternoon session began. Practically every available seat for spectators was taken. Mr. Donahue resumed his cross-examination.

"You said you noticed some marks of foot prints near the grave, did you not, Mr. Horton?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you measure them?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Now, as to the distance between these footprints, did you measure it?"

"No, sir."

"Was the distance between the prints much more than your ordinary stride?"

"Yes, I should say so, perhaps about 45 inches in all."

"Did you notice particularly any footprints made by small, pointed shoes?"

"Yes, sir, I did."

"Where did they point to?"

"Toward a little path."

Mr. Sawyer then took up the cross-examination.

"You said that the junk owned by the Boston & Maine railroad is sometimes sold, did you not, Mr. Horton?"

"Yes."

"It is not beyond reason is it, to imagine that this brass might have been sold in the usual manner?"

"To my personal knowledge, no."

George E. Byron

George E. Byron of Cambridge, general storekeeper for the Boston & Maine railroad, was the next witness.

"Have you any knowledge of any business of junk from cars at the B. & M. car shops?"

"I know of it in one instance, from a car going from Billerica to Concord, N. H., but it was not successfully traced."

Mr. Byron also told of going to the junk hole with Mr. Brown, Mr. Horton and Mr. Pringle. In speaking of the automobile tracks found near the hole, the witness said that there were signs as if somebody had tried to obliterate the tracks. He was not sure as to the distance between the junk hole and the tracks.

"Did you walk around the vicinity somewhat?"

"Yes, we walked around some looking for more holes."

"Oh, you were looking for more holes? Well, you walked up and down quite a little, didn't you?"

"Yes, quite a little."

"You wear rather small shoes, don't you?"

"Well, they are No. 6."

"No. 6! Would you mind showing your foot to the jury? Thank you."

"How many men were with you when you went looking for other holes?"

"Three—Brown, Horton and Pringle."

"How large were some of the pieces of junk you saw in the junk hole?"

"I think the largest pieces might have weighed 40 or 50 pounds."

"Did you see any marks on the ground which might have been caused by a man dropping such a large piece of junk?"

"Not that I remember."

The witness was re-examined by Mr. Tufts. Referring to the map, he asked the witness to show the jury where the further search for other holes led him, and if the search had taken the party anywhere near the spot on the map which it is alleged marks the location of the grave.

"Nowhere near that spot," replied the witness.

Picking up a shoe, which is on exhibit as evidence, Mr. Tufts asked Mr. Byron if the latter had ever worn a sharp pointed shoe, or one similar to the one being shown. The witness said he had not.

Harry C. Pringle

Harry C. Pringle, connected with the reclamation department of the B. & M. shops, was the next witness. He told of going to the vicinity of the blood clot and finding a pair of glasses there which he gave to Officer O'Brien. He said that he noticed no indications of a struggle, but did notice signs of something having been dragged.

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Mack and Mr. Donahue, concerning his trips to the junk hole and grave.

George E. Newcomb

George E. Newcomb of Medford, another employee of the Boston & Maine railroad, was the next witness. He testified to being a member of the searching party which found the pool of blood and Soulia's hat buried in a pile, and afterwards was at the grave when the body of Soulia was found.

The witness also stated that he noticed some footprints, about the grave but not acutely enough to tell whether or not they were made by a man running.

Mr. Newcomb also testified to visiting the Cordia house, and what he found there. He also testified that he found a Zira cigarette box a few feet from the grave, another box about six feet from the junk hole, and several similar boxes at the Cordia house.

"Mr. Newcomb, were you present at the Lowell police station after Cordia was arrested when I asked him where he was on the night of October 31?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did he say?"

"He said that he quit work at 4:10 o'clock and drove his supervisor, Thomas Brown to the postoffice. After that he said he went to Lowell and went to a fruit store and afterwards to a saloon where he bought a half pint of whiskey. He then said he went to a house in Wamesit where his children were and that he and the man of the house drank the whiskey."

"Did he say he slept there that night?"

"Yes, sir, he said he went to bed there at half past eight."

"Do you remember what Cordia said when I asked him if he had recently had any dealings with a junkman?"

"Yes, sir; he said he had not."

"Do you recall what he said when I asked him if he knew a man called Jumbo, or his brother?"

"He called them by the name of Marino, I think, and referred to one of them as 'big da snub'."

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Donahue.

"At any time that you have seen Cordia, have you ever seen him smoking either a pipe or a cigarette?"

Mr. Donahue, asked Mr. Donahue,

"I have no recollection of it."

"Can you tell the jury whether you did or did not?"

"No, I can't."

"Mr. Newcomb, what is your connection with the Boston & Maine?"

"I am a detective."

"How long have you been a detective?"

"Eleven years."

"How much investigation of the footprints near the grave did you make?"

"I didn't investigate them at all."

"What were you doing?"

"I was looking for some implement with which the crime might have been committed."

"While you were at the grave, how much time elapsed?"

"I should say about an hour and a half."

"What were you doing during that time?"

"Digging in the grave some of the time."

"About how long?"

"I should say half an hour."

"While you were not digging, were you sitting down?"

"No."

"I suppose you moved around the place somewhat, didn't you?"

"No, we stayed right there."

"Who was with you?"

"Mr. Horton."

"And you didn't move or walk around any?"

"No, sir; we stayed right there."

"That is a small clump of pine trees, is it not?"

"Yes, I think so."

"And you want the jury to believe that you did not go beyond the realm of the trees during this hour and a half?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Donahue also questioned the witness regarding Cordia's arrest and the interview at the Lowell police station.

"Was Cordia told at that time that he was under arrest on the charge of murder?" asked Mr. Donahue.

"He was told that he was under arrest for some crime and could talk or not as he wished."

"Have you heard of anybody who heard any shots in North Billerica on the night of Oct. 31, or any outcries?"

"Well, I investigated one case of people who lived near Soulia's house who, it was said, had heard an outcry at about 7 p. m."

"While at the police station at the time Cordia was arrested, did you hear him called a 'liar'?"

"No, sir."

Interpreter Called

Joseph Castilioni of Somerville was the next witness.

"Were you at the Cambridge jail on Nov. 2, last, in the capacity of an interpreter when I talked with Francisco Peeli?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you truthfully interpret from English to Italian and from Italian to English all that was said?"

"I did."

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Mack.

Chief of Police O'Brien

William S. O'Brien, chief of the Billerica police, was the next witness called. He told of finding the body of Soulia in the grave, and the finding of the pall and hat, said to have been Soulia's. He also said that he saw footprints near the grave, some pointing in the direction of Cordia's house and some toward Peeli's. He said he put some sticks around the large footprints, but did not see any shoes fitted into them.

The witness stated that he arrested Cordia and was present when he was questioned by the district attorney. He further told of the story told Mr. Tufts by Cordia, as to the latter's whereabouts on the night of Oct. 31, taken back to the jail.

and it was practically identical with that told by previous witnesses.

Chief O'Brien was on the stand when the court adjourned at 5:15 o'clock.

Fully 300 people were outside the courthouse, in Gorham street, when the afternoon session ended, and waited until the prisoners came out to be taken back to the jail.

GOOD TIME AT LAKEVIEW AVENUE SCHOOL

At the Lakeview Avenue school Wednesday evening, the members of the two Americanization classes, their teachers and the regular teachers of the school met for what proved to be an evening of rare pleasure. Over seventy people, including guests of the pupils as well as of the teachers, mingled in games, sang together popular and patriotic songs and in other ways enjoyed themselves to their heart's content.

The evening's entertainment opened with the singing of America by the entire assembly. Then a little girl in a pretty Polish costume recited "Rochymysie," in her native tongue and in English lines descriptive of her homeland. This little girl is the daughter of Mrs. Kamas, to whom much of the success of the classes is due.

Miss Kirkman, a charming little Armenian child, expressed in Armenian her affection for the land of her father and later surprised her hearers by singing in a perfectly true voice, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

In "The Flower of Liberty" Stanislaw Jankowski displayed a fine knowledge of the English language, her enunciation being almost perfect. Master Edward Szumanski, a young violinist of much promise, was next heard in a number of Polish and English songs and Mary Kapala and Amelia Banaas gave pleasure in their recitation of "The Civic Creed." Miss Olga Truskyewicz led the singing of the adults in the newer Polish songs as well as in the older songs dear to the hearts of her people. Teddy Koneko was color bearer during the singing of the patriotic songs.

During a brief intermission refreshments were served; then games were in order and enjoyed until the lateness of the hour brought the meeting to a close with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Till We Meet Again."

Among the guests who entertained were Misses Mary O'Neil and Miss Flynn, Mrs. Rose Coughlin, Miss Katherine Monahan, Misses Gertrude Beardon and Marion Brady, Margaret Griffin, Margaret and Helen Loftus, Rose Heath, Mary Carey, Winnie Hart, and a number of other singers. Misses Marie O'Donnell, Angela O'Brien and Irene Lawler accompanied much of the singing on violin and piano.

SCOUTS TO SIGNAL FROM SUN BUILDING

If you see some Boy Scouts waving like mad from the top of The Sun building about 4.30 tomorrow afternoon, don't think that the Bosnians are coming or the war is on again. The semaphore corps of the scouts are going to signal a message to another group, who will be waiting for it from a perch on the top of the Five Cent Savings bank.

The four scout districts of the city are to be represented in a relay race from Rogers park to the Concord bridge tomorrow afternoon and each boy carries a sealed message. The first boy to get his message through to the signal corps who will be waiting for it at the bridge will "shoot it" through to the boys on the roof of The Sun building. From there it will go via the semaphore system to another group on the bank, and from there to the Wier building. The boys at this point will signal it to the walk in front of city hall, and the first boy to get the message through will be acclaimed the winner.

became acquainted with the young lady he announced he was to marry, and in the year that they have been acquainted, their friendship has developed into a love affair.

Included in the letter sent by Private Desrochers to his mother, was a paragraph written by his intended in which she said she had to take that way of becoming acquainted with the parents of her future husband. It was stated that Private Desrochers hoped he could start for America with his war bride in a couple of months.

In the message sent to the parents of her American soldier, the French girl said that although wounded and at times in much distress, everything possible had been done to help Private Desrochers and he was receiving the best of care and comfort. She concluded by saying she was longing for the day when she and her American could start for America as husband and wife and begin their new life here. She sent her kindest regards to Mr. and Mrs. Desrochers. The latter expressed great satisfaction that their son is to evidently bring home a war bride and they say she will be given a warm and loving welcome.

If this marriage takes place and Mademoiselle Chaumell becomes Madam Desrochers, it will mark the coming to Lowell of the third war bride. One of the other two brides was an English girl and the second war bride was a French girl.

Independence For Filipinos

Baker with the statement that his experience in the islands had convinced him that the obstacles to independence that appeared to exist a few years ago had been cleared away.

Chairman Quezon Talks

Manuel B. Quezon, chairman of the Philippine mission, today presented to Secretary Baker the question of independence for the Filipinos. The secretary formally received the entire mission, numbering about 40 members representing all elements of Philippine life. Quezon, president of the Philippine senate and formerly resident commissioner of the islands in Washington, acted as spokesman.

He said that there was now a stable government in the Philippines, managed and supported by the people themselves and that it could be maintained if independence should be granted. He declared that this was an opportune time for presenting the claims because of the principles for which the United States entered the world war. "For the liberty, the self-government and the undisturbed development of all peoples."

brought to the United States a message of good will, gratitude and respect from all the inhabitants of the islands. Mr. Quezon stated he had been sent by his people formally to submit to this government the urgent question of their independence "in the confident hope it shall merit a just, righteous and final settlement."

"Independence is the great national ideal of the Filipino country," he asserted, "and we believe this is the proper time to present the question, looking to a favorable and decisive action, because of the declared and uniform policy of America to withdraw her sovereignty over the Philippines and to recognize our independence as soon as a stable government has been established. There now is a stable government and the fulfillment of the solemn promise we owe to ourselves, to us and to humanity at large."

The speaker paid a tribute to the United States for the manner in which the affairs of the islands had been administered during the period of American occupation, which, through the cooperation of Americans and Filipinos, he said, had brought "prosperity and progress unprecedented."

"You have truly treated us as no nation ever before has treated another under its sway," he declared, "and yet you—and none better than you—will understand why, even under such conditions, our people will have craved independence, that they, too, may be sovereign masters of their own destiny."

Mr. Baker was given a document sent by the Philippine legislature in which were set forth the facts on which the Filipinos based their appeal for independence.

DRASTIC REGULATIONS FOR JITNEYS

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 4.—

Drastic regulations of jitneys is provided for in an order issued by the public service commission today. The order revokes all local regulations heretofore issued, and substitutes those now promulgated by the commission.

Under the terms of the jitney law, it will be necessary for the local authorities in each city or town where regulations have been adopted to revoke such regulations, and to adopt those required by the commission. In case of their failure to do so, it is the opinion of the commission that no jitneys may be operated, legally, in such cities and towns, and it is to be presumed that the commission would take the necessary steps to prevent their operation.

Briefly summarized, the regulations adopted by the commission are as follows:

Jitney operators must obtain for the local authorities of each city and town in which they are to operate a special license for each vehicle to be fitted, stating the highways over which jitneys are to be operated, the fixed terminal and the regular route of operation; also a schedule showing the time of arrival and departure from and at all terminal, and the time of departure from important immediate points; and a schedule of fares to be charged; and

Each operator must have, in addition to the chauffeur's license issued by the state highway commission, a special license from the local authorities, and no license may be granted until the authorities are satisfied that the applicant is at least 21 years of age, that he is capable of operating the particular car which he is to drive, that he is thoroughly familiar with traffic rules, regulations and laws. A badge is to be issued to each person licensed, and this must be worn conspicuously when driving.

On each vehicle there must be a legibly printed sign, stating the terminal of the route, the fare to be charged, and the license number of the jitney.

A bond of $2000 must be deposited for each jitney having a seating capacity of five persons or less, and for each additional passenger in excess of five the bond must include an additional $500. In the case of jitneys operating in more than one city or town, however, only one bond is to be required.

The license issued to each driver is to indicate the approved seating capacity of his vehicle, and no vehicle is to be permitted to carry more than that approved capacity, except that a child less than seven years old may be carried in the lap of a passenger on any seat except that beside the driver. No person is to be permitted to stand or ride on the running-board of any car, or at any other place than in the seats.

It is also stipulated that each jitney shall be operated between the terminal and over the route designated for a period of not less than 12 hours out of every 24 hours, allowing a reasonable time not exceeding two hours for meals, and with intervals of not more than one hour between successive trips in the same direction where the distance between terminal is five miles or less. Another requirement that each jitney shall be driven to the terminus of the route before being turned around.

Neither more nor less than the stipulated fare may be charged, and no person may be refused transportation unless all seats are filled, or the prospective patron is in an intoxicated condition or conducting himself in a boisterous or disorderly manner, or in using profane language. No jitney may be operated at night unless sufficient light is provided adequately to light the whole of the interior, and each jitney must be equipped with one horn, speedometer, fire extinguisher and at least one extra serviceable tire.

No driver is permitted to make change or to take on or discharge passengers while the jitney is in motion, or to have a lighted pipe, cigar or cigarette in his possession while the machine is occupied, nor may he drink any intoxicating beverage or use morphine, cocaine, opium or harmful drug of any kind, or be under the influence thereof, while operating the vehicle.

Big Real Estate Deal

three- and four-story respectively, located at 177 to 183 Dutton street and 225 to 233 Market street, as well as a three-story wooden structure at 181 Worthen street. The land area is 500 square feet and the entire property is assessed for about $10,000.

The property was purchased by the First Trinitarian church in 1904 from the Gates estate, which had owned it for a great many years. About a year ago the First Trinitarian church and the First Congregational church amalgamated and since that time services have been conducted in the First Congregational church in Merrimack street. A few weeks ago the Trinitarian church building in Dutton street was taken over by the First War Camp Community service and work on improvements in the interior and exterior of the building was immediately started. It is the intention of the War Camp Community service to make the building a typical community center for this city and accordingly about $12,000 will be expended on the improvements.

The building will be equipped with an assembly hall, reading rooms, recreation rooms, dormitories, shower baths, etc. A new roof will be put on and the large stained glass windows will be removed and replaced by modern plain glass windows. It is believed the building will be ready for occupancy in a couple of months.

Shortly after the church building was taken over by the War Camp Community service the remainder of the church property was placed on the market. Messrs. Guyette and Potter being appointed sales agents. The deal was put through with Mr. Martin a few days ago, but the final papers were not signed until today.

The three-story brick building in Dutton street has a store on the street floor, while the other stories are being occupied as a manufacturing plant by the T. C. Entwistle Co. The building adjoining, which is a four-story brick structure also has a large store on the street floor, the other three floors being utilized by the Entwistle Co. The wooden building in Worthen street contains a store on the street floor, the other floors being used for storage purposes. Mr. Martin has not yet stated what his plans are, but it is believed he is planning considerable alterations and improvements to the three buildings.

DEATHS

BAXTER. Andrew Baxter, a former resident of Lowell, died Monday March 31, at his home in Moscow, Idaho. Mr. Baxter was born in Lowell and received his early education in the public schools of this city. He left Lowell about 10 years ago and located finally at Moscow where he conducted a large and prosperous farm up to the time of his death. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife Josephine (Conner) Baxter, also formerly of Lowell, five sons and one daughter, all of Moscow, Idaho; two sisters, Mrs. Arthur C. Pearson and Mrs. William Baxter of Brookline, Mass.; a brother-in-law, Mr. Philip E. Ely and several nieces and nephews of this city. He was a brother of ex-Congressman Patrick J. Baxter of old ward 3. Mr. Baxter visited Lowell about eight years ago and renewed acquaintances with many of his old friends.

BULLETINLeague of Nations

April 4, 1919.
Discussions too readily follow wrong lines; wires get crossed with the result that the sparks fly and heat develops.

What we all want is a true opinion on the fundamentals for a League of Nations and one of those, in fact, the first and all important one, is an agreement under which all will unite.

The spirit so far shown by the nations organizing through their representatives points to a readiness and earnest desire to sing differences and special interests for the sake of accomplishing this first and all important step.

Nothing should be allowed to jeopardize the unanimity. The League of Nations must include all. If the amendments to the Covenant and Constitution can be accepted without disrupting or preventing the participation of all and for all, then so much the better. We can all suggest amendments and fair criticism will help, but beware of interference that might breed irreconcilable discord and separate the nations of the world again.

The foundation is the main thing, and the U.S.A. can be and should be one of the corner stones. If that is the key stone, the League of Nations is the logical outcome of the war. Without it we shall have rumormongers and the peoples will have to carry insufferable burdens.

Lloyd George Denies Split Between England and France

Declares Great Britain Ready To Make Fresh Sacrifices To Secure Peace and Independence of France—No Dissensions

PARIS, April 4.—In a statement to the Petit Parisien, Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain denies there are dissensions between France and England regarding guarantees for France against Germany. He declares that the understanding between the two governments is complete and that England is "ready to make fresh sacrifices if necessary to secure the peace and independence of France."

"I have seen the scourge of war twice looted on France by Germany," the premier told the Petit Parisien. "We do not intend that there shall be a third time and should it be 50 years hence, France again will find England by her side with all her wealth and power for, mark well my words, the will must be mastered."

"It is mastered at present, but if one day it raises its head ready to spring, it will find itself again faced by France and England, united in brotherhood."

The interview was sought, says a Havas agency summary of it, because of the rumor recently in circulation that Great Britain would oppose in the peace conference the French demands for guarantees.

"We wish France to know that it is the will of the British people that France should have complete security for the future," the premier declared. "Even if it were 50 years hence, he added, England would be ready at that time again to make sacrifices for the French if Germany should let loose the scourge of war on France for the third time."

Pres. Wilson in Bed With Severe Cold

WASHINGTON, April 4.—President Wilson is confined to his bed in Paris, with a severe cold.

Rear Admiral Grayson, the president's physician, cabled Secretary Tumulty today that the president caught cold yesterday and was unable to be about, although his condition was not regarded as serious.

White House officials recalled today that the president always had thrown off the coldest colds quickly. They were confident that his active work at the peace conference would not be interrupted for more than a day or two.

House Represents Wilson

PARIS, April 4.—Although President Wilson was confined to his room today with a cold, the Council of Four met in the Paris White House as usual. It is understood that necessary matters will be referred to the sick room, or that the conferees will consult the president personally if occasion arises.

Col. House took the president's place at the meeting of the Council of Four today.

NO COMPLETE PLANS FOR FUCH PRESENTS ALLIED DEMAND

What is Lowell doing to welcome home her soldiers of the 26th Division who are at this moment approaching the shores of this country after a year and a half of gallant service in France? In fact, many of them have already arrived.

Some things have been done but it is generally believed that a lot more should be done. On all sides of Lowell committees have been formed, committees made up of the biggest men and women of the communities, to prepare plans for the homecoming of the boys. They have placed before the public in their communities definite specific plans of action, and the public knows just what part it is to play in the program.

In Lowell, it seems to be a different matter. Two organizations, the 101st Auxiliary and Battery F Auxiliary, have done splendid work to prepare for the homecoming of these two units. They started months ago and as they have gone along they have laid all their cards on the table before the public so that today even the minutest details of their plans are public knowledge. But these auxiliaries are in reality taking care of only two companies of Lowell men—the battery and old Co. M, together with whatever men may be in the 101st Engineer Train or

Mighty Welcome for 6000 Heroes of Y. D. Who Arrived at Boston Today

Transport Mt. Vernon With Vanguard of Y. D., Reaches Port—Crowds Line Waterfront—Welcoming Parties Go Down Harbor To Greet Returning Yanks

BOSTON, April 4.—The first 6000 of the home-coming Yankee Division arrived today on the transport Mount Vernon. The troopship dropped anchor in President Roads this morning.

Gen. Hale on Board
The contingent was made up of Division Headquarters, Major General Harry C. Hale commanding; the 104th Regiment of Infantry; the 101st Engineers, except Company C which is on the America, military police and the 101st Engineer Train.

Governors Show Welcome
A fleet of welcoming vessels met the troopship as she broke through the mist and drew within calling distance as the steamer slowed down. All the New England states were represented by delegates on the steamer Monitor.

"I welcome you to Massachusetts," Governor Coolidge shouted through a megaphone. "Rhode Island is glad you are here," cried Governor Blackman. "New Hampshire is proud of you. My home," was the message from Gov. Bartlett, while representatives of Gov. Miliken assured Maine men that "the Pine Tree State glories in your deeds and welcomes you back." Governor Holcomb of Connecticut wired his greetings with regrets that he could not welcome the men in person.

Mayors Also Greet Heroes

Mayor Adams of Springfield, the headquarters of the 104th Infantry; former Mayor James L. Logan of Worcester, and other delegates from home towns, added to the welcoming chorus.

The initial reception was wholly a harbor affair and limited to the craft that surrounded the Mount Vernon while she waited for the high tide to permit her to come up to the pier at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Women Cheer 101st Engineers

Aboard the steamer Mayflower were mothers, wives and sweethearts of the men of the 101st Engineers, which organization was built up from Boston's former crack First Corps Cadets. With this party were wounded "buddies" of the Engineers. The latter included several heroes who early in the game dropped their shovels and unsling their rifles to aid in the repulse of the German raid at Seicheprey and who shared in the offensive at Trugny-Epides.

Brig-Gen. Cole on Hand

On another of the little fleet was Brig-Gen. Charles H. Cole, commander of the 52d Infantry brigade, the headquarters detachment of which was aboard the Mount Vernon and of which brigade the 104th regiment was a notable part.

The 104th which went to France as a hasty merger of the old Second Massachusetts Infantry of western Massachusetts and parts of the Sixth and Eighth Massachusetts regiments, returned with its colors decorated with the Croix de Guerre, earned by meritorious conduct at Bois Rouge in the Toul sector, April 10-13, 1918.

In Big Push at Verdun

Some of the officers and men returning today were among the 112 who were individually awarded the French war cross. The regiment brought back also commendation from the French 15th division for its big push at Verdun, costly in casualties, but of much importance to the success of the allied arms.

524 Y. D. Men on Board

The Mt. Vernon brought 73 sick men for whom ambulances were waiting at the pier. To be exact, there were 524 officers and men of the 26th division on board out of a total of 28,000 expected. The rails were crowded with wildly demonstrative men who left no doubt that they were glad to be home.

as relatives and other friends were to welcome them.

Gen. Edwards Rushes to Boston

Major General Clarence R. Edwards, formerly commander of the 26th Division, was in Maine today, and was unable to reach Boston in time to greet Major General Harry C. Hale, the present commander, when the transport Mount Vernon came up the harbor. General Edwards notified headquarters of the Northeastern department that he was on his way from Bangor to Lewiston and that he would make his scheduled address at Lewiston this evening, leaving immediately thereafter for Boston. He expected to reach Boston at 4 a. m. and will go aboard the Mount Vernon at Commonwealth pier a few hours later.

Brigadier General John W. Ruckman, commanding the North Atlantic coast artillery district and Captain H. D. Chandler, General Edwards' personal aide, were delegated to represent the general today and went to the pier to extend the greetings of their superior and carry out any wishes of Major General Hale.

Crowds Line Waterfront

Crowds began to move toward the waterfront for an early view of the transport. It had been announced that no one would be allowed on the pier except those engaged in the removal of equipment and an immense amount of army and navy mail. The plan was for the men to debark at 6.30 o'clock tomorrow morning and proceed at once to Camp Devens where their equipment would have preceded them. Some formalities it was expected would be permitted at the pier in the morning.

Seaplanes Overhead

Castle Island, the site of old Fort Independence, was the most popular point of vantage this afternoon for those watching for the transport. This shore resort probably never had attracted a greater crowd of men, women and children, many of them armed with glasses and speculating on the probability of being able to "pick up" loved ones among the thousands that filled the decks of the former German liner.

Three seaplanes from the station at Chatham, which went out to meet the transport, hovered over her during the reception and succeeded in dropping some messages aboard.

Bedlam of Noise

The Mount Vernon weighed anchor just before 2 o'clock and headed for Commonwealth Pier. The conveying fleet was spread out on either side, some of the smaller craft falling astern. As the transport approached within view from the shore, land whistles and bells were sounded adding to the din begun by all the vessels in the harbor, and the salutes from harbor forts. On all sides shipping was dressed and many of the vessels displayed the "X. D."

Thousands Cheer

As the transport passed Castle Island the watchers on shore had a good view of her as old hundreds perched upon roofs of high buildings. The thousands cheered frantically and waved in the desperate hope of being recognized from the ship. At last as the Mount Vernon approached the pier, the sun smiled for a brief space and half a dozen bands crashed out: "The Yanks Are Coming," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" and other popular tunes. Unable to get near the pier the crowds had to be content with long distance communication but they made the most of endless noisemaking devices to express their joyous emotions.

Docks at Pier

The Mount Vernon drew alongside Commonwealth Pier at 2.30 o'clock. No one was allowed to board her except the newspapermen who had been picked up from the tug down the harbor. Eighty stevedores began at once to discharge the equipment, baggage and mail. The equipment was hurried onto trains that soon were pulling out for Camp Devens.

Still Want Endicott To Arbitrate

LAWRENCE, April 4.—In a statement made public today the general committee representing striking textile workers here urged popular support of their proposal to have Henry B. Endicott, former public safety committee chairman, serve as arbitrator. The statement said that the committee had sufficient funds to carry on the strike for their demands for 64 hours' pay for a 48-hour week, but desired a settlement of the differences in the interests of the community.

Bills against the committee which have been standing for several weeks were paid today. A. J. Muste of Boston, one of the strike leaders recently returned from New York where he said he obtained guarantees of financial support.

GERMAN PROPOSAL TO FUCH ON DANZIG

LONDON, April 4.—A proposal that the Polish troops of General Haller be taken by a land route from Lunceville across Germany to Poland, has been made to Marshal Foch at Spa, by Mathias Erzberger, the head of the German armistice commission, a semi-official message from Berlin says.

Expert on Firearms Witness at the Billerica Murder Trial

Says Bullets Found in Murdered Man's Body Were Fired From Same Type Revolver as Produced by the Prosecution

Capt. William H. Proctor of Swampscott, state police officer, and a qualified expert on firearms, testified this morning at the trial of Francisco Feci and Joseph Cordia, charged with the murder of Louis Fred Soulia, that the slugs taken from the body of the dead man at the time of the autopsy, were fired from a 32 caliber Smith & Wesson cartridge, and that the appearance of these slugs, in his opinion, was consistent with the appearance of the barrel of a revolver on exhibit as evidence and said to have been found in a pocket of a coat in Lawrence, which the commonwealth claims belongs to Francisco Feci.

Capt. Proctor was testifying when the noon recess was taken.

Other witnesses who appeared this morning were Chief of Police O'Brien and Officer Livingston of the Billerica department.

Counsel for Cordia said that he will go on the witness stand to testify in his own behalf, but counsel for Feci have not decided whether or not to put their man on the stand.

All indications point to a long trial. If proceedings go along smoothly the commonwealth believes it will have its evidence in by tomorrow noon, but feel it more probable that it will finish up on Monday. Counsel for the defendants say they have between 20 and 25 witnesses, and as several of these will by necessity need an interpreter, it is not believed that their case will be in before Thursday or Friday. That the trial will consume all of next week is not doubted.

The courtroom was nearly filled this morning when the session opened at 9.45 o'clock. William H. O'Brien, chief of police of Billerica, who was on the witness stand at the time of adjournment yesterday, was recalled this morning.

The district attorney showed the witness an envelope, said to contain bullets, and the latter identified them as those taken from the Savage automatic pistol which he found at the Fantiin house.

"Did you find any other things at the Fantiin house?" asked Mr. Tufts.

"Yes, sir; two knives."

The witness was shown a knife, which he identified as one of the two found. The other he characterized as a bread knife. On questioning by the district attorney, the witness said he also saw the oil can and empty whiskey bottle at the Cordia house. Mr. Tufts showed him a shovel, and the witness said that it had been in his possession ever since Nov. 5, when he received it from Officer Dwyer of the Lowell police department.

"With reference to your further examination of the Cordia house, did you see any other articles there bearing the mark of the Boston & Maine railroad?"

"Not that I remember."

"When did you begin to look for the defendant, Francisco Feci, and his brother, Luigi?"

"On the night of Nov. 5."

"Did you find them on that night?"

"No, sir."

"Did you find them the next day?"

"No, sir."

"What did you do on the next day, the seventh?"

"I found out their right names, as being Feci, and then located Jumbo, or Francisco Feci, in Haverhill, and arrested him there."

"What did you then do?"

"I took him to Lawrence."

"Where in Lawrence?"

"To the house of Feci's sister."

"What did you find there?"

"I didn't find anything, but State Officer Smith found a coat with a revolver in a pocket."

Shown a sack coat by Mr. Tufts, the witness identified it as the coat found. He also identified the revolver. Both were marked as evidence exhibits.

"How many chambers were in this revolver?"

"Six."

"What was the condition of the revolver in regard to ammunition?"

"It was fully loaded."

On being shown the revolver, the witness stated that he had been in error when he said there were six chambers, as there were only five. He identified the revolver, however. He further said it had been recently oiled when found.

"Did you talk with Feci that day?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you say?"

"When we questioned him as to his whereabouts, he said he had spent the entire day and night of Oct. 31 in Lawrence. When we asked him if he had been outside of Lawrence on that day, he said he had not. We asked him when he had last seen Joseph Cordia, and he said on Oct. 28."

Cross-Examination
The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Mack.

"Who were you looking for in Lawrence on the 5th?"

"A man named Naomi."

"And on the sixth?"

"A man named Naomi."

"When did you find out his name was Feci?"

"On the seventh."

"Do you know whether or not the coat in question was found in Francisco Feci's room, or in the room of his brother, Luigi?"

"No sir, not from my own knowledge, but somebody told us it was Frank's room."

"Oh, somebody told you, who was it?"

"Do you want me to tell you?"

"Yes."

"Frank's wife told us it was Frank's room."

"Were you not looking for Luigi at that time, too?"

"We might have been."

"When you talked with Francisco Feci, he told you in an open and frank way where he was on the 31st, didn't he?"

"He told me, but not in an open and frank way."

"Well, he told you of his whereabouts."

WILL BRING BRIDE HOME

If Cupid's Arrow Holds True to Line, Lowell Will Boast Another War Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Desrochers, 129 Aiken street, parents of Priv. Hormisdas Desrochers, who is a member of the A.E.F. and at present stationed in France, believe they will soon have the honor and pleasure of welcoming to their home here as a new daughter-in-law, a beautiful Parisian young lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Desrochers had a letter from their son dated the early part of March. Their expectations of having a new daughter in their family is based on this romantic paragraph taken from Priv. Desrochers' letter to his mother:

"If everything turns out all right, mother, I will be married the latter part of this month. I have met a charming young woman here. She loves me and I love her. Unless she changes her mind I will become a benedict before my next birthday."

This, in substance, is the form of announcement carried to Mr. and Mrs. Desrochers.

Capt. Redmond Blames Government During Debate in House of Commons

Carson Would Delay Question—Devlin Says Carson Indicts Government

LONDON, Thursday, April 3.—The house of commons debated the Irish question this evening. Liberal members endeavoring to elicit some indication of the government's policy. Sir Edward Carson urged a postponement of the question until the end of the war and declared that at present he regarded the question of reconstruction in Ireland, with education, health, housing and similar matters, as far more important than "the raising of old controversies over home rule."

Joseph Devlin, a nationalist leader, said he thought Sir Edward's speech was "the most powerful indictment of British rule in Ireland" Captain William Archer Redmond of Waterford said:

"Ireland is almost on the verge of a revolution and the government is responsible. Let the government say frankly whether it intends to repeal the home rule act."

Sir James MacPherson, making his maiden address as chief secretary for Ireland, replied to the criticism made by members of the house. After indicating that measures were projected to improve educational facilities and housing, he said:

"The political unrest in Ireland is unabated and outrages of the most cruel and unforgivable kind are occurring. That is why it is necessary to have military forces there to maintain order. Ireland is one of the most prosperous countries in the world, but she must be freed from the shackles of terrorism. The menace of Sinn Féinism, with its cruel and wanton oppression, is an enemy of constitutionalism and progress. There can be no self-determination on constitutional lines under Sinn Féin rules."

WOULD INCREASE IRISH REPUBLIC FUND

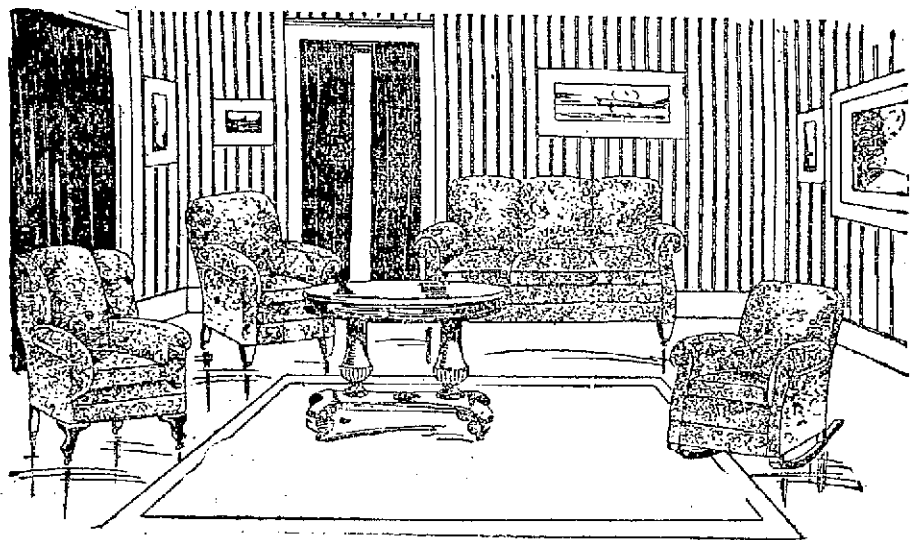

Preliminary plans to raise Lowell's quota of the sum which this country is to contribute to the Irish republic, as pledged at the recent convention in Philadelphia, were discussed last evening at a meeting of the United Irish societies of the city in Hibernian hall.

James O'Sullivan presided and the attendance was unusually large, including a number of women. Lowell's share of the sum to be raised is $1000 but the societies felt that ten times this amount could be secured. Mr. O'Sullivan told of the crucial stage of Ireland's career at the present time when the new republic was being tried out and emphasized the need of generous financial support.

The Catholic clergy of the city have given their full support to the proposed campaign. Precise plans for the waging of the drive are yet in embryo but it has been definitely decided that the formal introduction will be a big mass meeting in Association hall Sunday, April 13, at 2:30 o'clock. A list of able speakers of national reputation will be chosen to start off the drive with the proper "pop."

The Friends of Irish Freedom will meet next Sunday evening in Hibernian hall and the speaker of the occasion will be John P. Salmon, former K. of C. secretary, who will speak on his overseas experiences.

Open an account in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank. The amount of same will begin to draw interest April 5, 1919.

Mrs. John W. Cox, of 11 Mahoney's court, has received a telegram from her son, Private Joseph J. Cox, of Lowell's Battery F, arrived in New York April 2 from overseas.

Four Lowell men were forwarded to Boston by Chief Cary of the local recruiting station today. They were Henry Victor Malo, 145 Broadway, apprentice seaman; Meide Soucy, 563 Middlesex street, apprentice seaman; George Paquette, 321 Allen street, landsman for ship's cook; and George A. Dubuque, 325 Worthen street, apprentice seaman.

Twenty applicants for chauffeurs' licenses were examined at city hall today by Inspectors Hubbell and Halley of the state highway commission.

PLYMOUTH, April 4.—Fleets of motor boats put out from many towns along the South shore today to greet the Mount Vernon as she passed up the bay toward Boston with the vanguard of the 26th Division.

Greek Protest to America

LONDON, April 4.—The Metropolitan of Athens has sent to America a strong protest against what is considered to be a hostile attitude on the part of American missionaries in respect to the rights of Greeks in northern Epirus and Asia Minor, says an Athens despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

LOCAL ENTERTAINERS AT CAMP DEVENS

"The best over" was the manner in which 503 doughboys commented on the entertainment which was given by a group of local song and dance artists who made the trip to the Jewish Welfare hut at Camp Devens last evening and put on a show under the auspices of the Y.W.H.A. and the Jewish Welfare Board of this city.

Following the show informal dancing was in order, and the score or more young women in the party had little difficulty in capturing partners with whom to trip the light fantastic. It was a late hour when the tired but happy party returned to the City of Spindles.

Commissioner "Jimmie" Donnelly, who was one of the entertainers, never sang so many songs in one evening in his life. The more he sang the more they made him sing. And it can be truthfully said that his Scotch repertoire was completely exhausted when his audience finally allowed him a respite.

The Honey Boy quartet was also well received, as were the two Dion sisters, Alice and Bertha, who went "over the top" in several song numbers. Miss Dorothy Leach presided at the piano, and as usual, proved a most acceptable accompanist.

PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE

Patrick J. Reynolds addressed the members of the civics class of the League of Catholic Women yesterday afternoon on "Parliamentary Practice." This was the first of a series of talks to be given by Mr. Reynolds as part of the course in civics planned by the civics committee of the league. The lecturer was perfectly at home with his subject. He told of the origin of parliamentary law, the necessity for it in assemblies and the various authorities on it. He also gave a preliminary lesson on the organization of assemblies and their course of procedure. In the open discussion at the close of the lecture Mr. Reynolds answered many questions pertaining to the subject. Next Thursday afternoon a second lecture on the same subject will be given.

CHANGE OF SENTIMENT IN MEXICO NOTED

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Private and official advices from Mexico City within the last few days are interpreted as indicating a sudden change in sentiment in the republic toward foreign investments in Mexico and that the coming session of congress will clear the atmosphere of much of the hostility shown since the adoption of the 1917 constitution. This apparent change of front is manifested in newspaper editorials and statements by members of the Mexican congress.

American oil interests in Mexico have not receded from the stand originally taken that their vested rights in Mexico must be recognized and that the anti-foreign and confiscatory features of the new constitution must not operate, ex-post facto, against them. The American, British and French governments have protested to the Mexican government against the operation of certain parts of the constitution which are regarded as confiscatory.

The recent visit of Rafael Nieto, acting minister of finance in the Mexican government to New York, where he consulted with international bankers regarding the prospect of a loan to Mexico and the invitation extended by President Carranza to Jose Limantour, who was finance minister under Diaz, are believed to have helped change the stand of the Mexican government.

THE TROUBLES WOMEN HAVE

By L. Maclean, M.D.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is precisely what it was. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. Favorite Prescription is a distinct remedy for women and acts directly upon the organs that characterize the sex. It is not necessary to take a long course of treatment with this standard medicine. A weakly, sickly, backache, headache, nervous, despondent woman, with regular or irregular pains—with female disorders that come in youth or middle age—is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for, and to find it after a very few doses are taken. Why women should allow themselves to stay sick when a very little money spent for this remedy will probably make them well, is something no one can explain.

All women who suffer from feminine disorders are invited to write the Faculty of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential consultation and advice, no charge being made for this high professional service. This will enable every woman to benefit by the advice of the distinguished corps of physicians which Dr. Pierce has gathered about him in his celebrated Buffalo institution.

When constipation is present with feminine disorders, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken along with Favorite Prescription. Try them now!—Adv.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible even or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. Parmit is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—Adv.

New York beyond a measure of consideration of the request when Mexico showed she would accord proper treatment and protection to foreign investors. Limantour must have advised Carranza, officials believe, that it would be impossible to secure financial aid for Mexico so long as the government maintained its hostile attitude toward foreign investors.

A book entitled "Foreign Investments in Mexico" and written by Carlos Diaz Dufon, editor of El Imparcial, had an unprecedented popularity among the reading population of Mexico. He writes: "Mexico needs capital in a degree perhaps not experienced by any other young nation. Every industry demands it, agriculture no less than cattle raising, mining and the oil industry alike." The book then adds that foreigners are the only people who have the necessary capital or who are willing to risk it in hazardous investments.

Practically all the newspapers of Mexico City and many of the provincial papers are reported to be printing interviews and editorially commenting on the problem.

FOR AMERICANIZATION EXTENSION WORK

The first of an important series of Americanization extension work series was held yesterday afternoon in high school hall at 414, when Miss Rose O'Toole of Cambridge addressed an interested audience of school teachers and others engaged in Americanization work on "Phases of Instruction."

Miss O'Toole has done considerable work in the factories of Cambridge in the line of Americanization and is at present employed by the American Rubber Co. of that city. She described in detail her work among the immigrants there in the factory and so pressing did the need of her services become that she was forced to curtail them to some extent. She expressed the opinion that the best way to succeed in Americanization work is to convince the people with whom you are working that you are doing it for their own advancement and development—then the rest is easy.

The speaker considered the factory one of the best avenues of approach in this work and the evening schools another.

Get good clothes quality—it's the only way to save money

The war taught one lesson; that good quality is economy. People had to make their money do more; they found they couldn't afford poor quality; they couldn't take a chance; they bought good stuff because it saved. Don't forget that lesson; it still holds good—buy clothes of good quality; they cost less because they last longer. We back that up with a money-back guarantee.

COMMERCIAL HISTORY'S BIG ROMANCE

BY RICHARD SPILLANE.

Back of the announcement from London that the British government is going into the oil business and has made a close alliance with the Royal Dutch Shell interests is one of the most remarkable romances of commercial history and one of the most important developments of recent times.

The London announcement simply means that the British government is determined to control oil so far as it is possible for them to do so. In carrying out their plans, they will have the services of H. A. W. Deterding, the master spirit of the Royal Dutch Shell, the man who threatens to out-Rockefeller Rockefeller.

Incidentally, Lord Cowdray, who up to the present time has been the leading light in oil circles in the British empire, gets out. His holdings in the Mexican and other fields being taken over by the Royal Dutch Shell.

Deterding is a Dutchman, born in Amsterdam. As a youth, he went to Java. He was clerk in a bank there when an adventurer, who had some oil promotion project in Europe, needing an assistant, hired him.

The promoter died and Deterding, while yet a youth, took over the management of the small property. Deterding is a genius. The Burma oil is not of high quality, but by the most skillful maneuvering Deterding managed to broaden the market for it.

He was without ships and entered into a combination with the Shell Transport Co. After some years, he managed to combine the two properties under the name of the Royal Dutch Shell.

He invaded the Chinese field, which at that time was monopolized by the Standard Oil. Before the Standard people appreciated what they were up against, he had built up a fair trade in the interior of that empire. They tried to drive him out, but did not succeed. He fought the Standard so vigorously that the Rockefeller people finally made peace on a basis of fifty-fifty in China. Deterding, continuing his operations to the interior and the Mexican and other fields being taken coast.

Not content with this progress, Deterding broadened out. He acquired large interests in Russia and Persia and by a combination with the Rothschilds of Paris and the Samuel interests in London he acquired large properties in Rumania and other parts of Europe. Later he branched out so as to take in America.

He has concessions in Venezuela, various valuable properties in Mexico, and in the United States he is represented by the Roxanna Co., a $50,000,000 corporation, which has a pipe line from the Healdton fields in Oklahoma to St. Louis. At St. Louis, he has a monster refinery. At either end of the Panama Canal, he has oil stations. On the Island of Curacao, he has what is said to be the biggest refinery in the world. He has oil stations at either end of the Suez canal.

In the splitting up of the Standard Oil, much of the initiative and aggressiveness of the great American corporation was destroyed. It is apparent from the action of the British in forming a combination with Deterding that in taking over the Cowdray interests they are preparing, so far as possible, to offset their difficulties in relation to coal by promoting their operations with oil to the fullest extent. What effect this will have on America remains to be seen. Oil is coming into larger and larger use in sea transportation. It may take a quarter of a century for oil to supplant coal but with every year oil becomes more and more a factor.

Unless there is some radical change in the situation, it is the confident prediction that Deterding will become a greater oil king within the next 10 or 15 years than Rockefeller was at the height of his power. There are likely to be very big developments in oil within the next few years, and America is deeply concerned in what happens.

Charles Evans of Salem has a little red ticket 35 years old, on which is printed: "Boston and Salem Turnpike. Good for one passage over the turnpike between Lynn and Chelsea for a one-horse wagon, June 1, 1884." In the center of the face of the ticket is a picture of a horse and buggy with the price mark, "10 Cents" on either side. On the back of the ticket is the name "William S. Cleveland, Treasurer."

LOOKING FOR LOWELL'S LARGEST FAMILY

The Sun is trying to find the largest family in Lowell. This may include father, mother and children and grandchildren. There are cities that make considerable boast about large families and the Sun wants to ascertain if there is any city that has anything on Lowell in the large family line. The first reporter to start out in search of Lowell's largest family came back with a story of the descendants of the late George Beauparlant and while the story is an interesting one, it doesn't quite hit the mark, because of the fact that all members of the family are not living here. The Sun's aim is to discover the largest family in Lowell. But, in order not to discourage the reporter who at least made a try at it, we will publish his story and at the same time we want our readers to know that we invite communications having to do with large families.

The story brought in by the reporter in question starts off with the information that a son has been born to Mrs. and Mrs. George Beauparlant, formerly of this city and now of Berlin, N. H. This has a "big Lowell family" story connection inasmuch as the grandfather of the new arrival, George Beauparlant, who died in this city March 18, 1911, was the father of 13 children. He also boasted 91 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren, making a grand total of 123.

Mr. George Beauparlant lived in Lowell for 52 years. He was one of the early French settlers of this city, coming to Lowell even before St. Joseph's church was purchased for a Catholic church. He was born at St. Gabriel, Que., and at the age of 16 married and during the life of his wife was blessed with seven children. At the age of 27 he lost his wife and a year later he was united in marriage to Miss Olive Godin, who gave birth to 11 children. She is still living and is now making her home in Canada.

Mr. Beauparlant was of the old Canadian stock and died at the ripe old age of 75. He was proud of his large family and his hobby was to be with the young children. Every five years or so he would invite all his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren to a family dinner at his home and at the last reunion there were 75 seated around the festive board.

Mr. Beauparlant never believed in race prejudice and according to present indications his sons and daughters as well as grandchildren are of the same opinion as was the father and grandfather, for one of the daughters counts no less than 17 children in her family. She is Mrs. J. B. Chisholm of this city who has 17 children all living. Next comes Mrs. Alexis Wagner and Mrs. Adelard Isabelle, both of this city, who have each 14 children. Mrs. Joseph Martin, who is now making her home in Berlin, N. H., is the mother of ten children, while Mrs. Alexis Isabelle of Shawinigan Falls, Que., gave birth to eight children. George Beauparlant of Berlin, N. H., is the father of seven children, while Mrs. Alfred Marcouiller of Manchester, N. H., is the proud mother of five. Telesphore Beauparlant, a local business man, has seven children. Mrs. Arthur Duchesneau of Grand Mere, Que., has three; Francis Beauparlant of this city has three and Henri Beauparlant of Shawinigan Falls, Que., also has three. Besides the above mentioned there are 16 grandchildren in the Beauparlant family, eleven of whom are living in this city.

Mrs. Chisholm, the leader of the family who, although still in the prime of life, is the mother of 17 children and a grandmother, is enjoying the best of health. She says in her opinion it is just as easy to bring up a family of 17 as it is to take care of four or five. "Of course, there is much more responsibility," she says, "but a mother who is interested in her home and children can enjoy life in a very enjoyable manner with such a surrounding."

"How about the high cost of living?" she was asked.

"Well, of course, that is a very important item, but I never gave it a thought. We always supplied our children with three good square meals every day and always kept them well clothed. On top of that we sent them all to the parochial schools, which meant an additional expense and a big one at that, but, nevertheless, we pulled through. How we did it, I don't know. A few of our children are now working and helping the father to support the other members of the family and, of course, we are a little better off than we were a few years ago. My father was fond of children and there was nothing that pleased him so much as when some one congratulated him on his large family, and we all feel the same way."

TO SOLICIT FUNDS FOR CELEBRATION

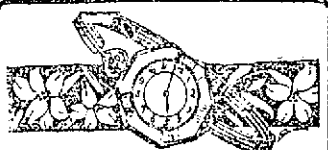

A committee for soliciting funds for the celebration which Centralville is to give her returning soldiers and sailors will begin activities next Monday when it will inaugurate a drive to secure public subscriptions for the affair.

The solicitors have been assigned districts and each contributor will be given a receipt and this method is intended to avoid fraudulent collecting. The list of contributors will be accessible to the public so that there will be no chance for dishonest methods.

The central committee is working hard on plans for the celebration and Mayor Thompson has given his personal sanction to the matter.

The first woman tender in Wall street is Mrs. Helen K. Holmes, who as Helen Kinnery became a broker's telephone switchboard operator eight years ago.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HIGHLAND CLUB

A splendid social event in itself, the annual meeting of the Highland club last evening at the clubhouse in Princeton street, also was productive of satisfying reports of the past and happy predictions for the future. The principal speaker of the evening was Lieut. Vittorio Orlandini of the Italian army, and at the present time attached to the Italian embassy in Washington. Mayor Perry D. Thompson and James P. Ramsay, probator officer of the superior court, also spoke.

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock in the banquet hall, with fully 200 members and guests at the tables. It was a jolly gathering, typical of when "good fellows get together," and all enjoyed the excellent meal. Mayor Thompson spoke first, being introduced by Dr. H. E. Davis. The mayor expressed sincere pleasure in being present and wished the club the best of success. Mr. Ramsay briefly told of several phases of his court work, and was interesting as usual.

The business meeting was not long, but the reports given were entirely satisfactory and re-assuring. The following officers were elected: President, Charles E. Cooke; vice president, John W. Anderson; secretary-treasurer, Virgil G. Barnard; directors, Dr. H. E. Davis, Roger W. Gage, George H. Spillane, Warren O. Winsor, George W. Mansur, Roy P. Lovejoy, Fred G. Leary.

Lieut. Orlandini spoke for an hour, giving a graphic recital of Italy's part in the war—her internal questions and her active participation on the Isonzo line with five and one-half millions of fighters. He said that this huge army was recruited from an eligible population of males totalling only about nine million.

In speaking of the Dalmatian question, the speaker said that Italy would be perfectly satisfied with one-third of Dalmatia and would surrender the other two-thirds to the Jugo-Slavs, although more than half the population is Italian. He said that the few Slavs who will come under Italian control will receive all justice and consideration, and in return, Italy asks only that for her subjects who will fall under the Jugo-Slav regime. Speaking of the Italians in this country, Lieut. Orlandini said that they were loyal to the core to the United States, not only supporting the liberty loans with all available resources, but also being in our armies to the total of 300,000 men.

He characterized the Italian fighting man as "clean and honorable." About the privations of the civil population, he said the bread available was only 20 per cent. flour, the meat ration was only 12 ounces per person per month, that there was no fish except at outrageous prices, that coal sold for $200 a ton and that milk was more than 25 cents a quart. His talk gave an interesting insight into the conditions under which Italy made war, and the hardships she endured without grumbling or whining. The speaker was enthusiastically applauded at the close and was forced to acknowledge the ovation time after time.

UPRISING IN FRANKFORT

Spartan Riots Occurred
of French Army

CORLENZ, Thursday, April 3.—The Spartan uprising in Frankfort, to which German government troops have been ordered, occurred virtually within sight of soldiers of the Tenth French army who occupy western suburbs, but were powerless to act, owing to the fact that Frankfort proper is just over the Main bridgehead lines. So far as known here, no French troops have entered Frankfort, although requests were made that they should do so.

According to American medical officers who have been in Frankfort recently to buy surgical instruments, there has been much misery in the city since the armistice was signed. All the afternoon and far into the night, the cafes have been filled with people who became wealthy because of the war. There has apparently been plenty of food, but prices have been high.

Many all night balls have been held and newspapers have devoted much space to descriptions of "riotous living." Ministers have preached in an endeavor to stem the tide of gaiety which began last November and increased among the wealthy as time went on.

The American surgeons visited Frankfort with the permission of General Mangin, commander of the French forces in the district and entered the city in an automobile which carried the white flag.

BOY SCOUTS' WORK ON EXHIBITION

A most interesting exhibit of Boy Scout work is being displayed in the Central street window of the Chalifoux company and many favorable comments are heard.

All sorts of examples of just what an efficient woodsman, carpenter, and all around Jack of all trades the Lowell Boy Scouts have become are exhibited. Perhaps the most interesting of all is a miniature model of a 60-foot suspension bridge which was constructed entirely by the boys of Troop 17. A signal tower, modeled after one built by Troop 11 makes another interesting feature. The heliograph, with which the boys can signal for miles to each other by means of a mirror and shutter apparatus, is also well worth viewing.

Is the Lowell scout at a loss if he is caught alone in the woods at night? Not so you could notice it. All he needs to do is glance upward at the sky and by picking his course from the stars he will soon be headed in the direction he wishes to go.

How the boys prepare a meal in the woods is also shown. Your scout is an expert at fire making, and could almost give the Indians themselves a few good pointers in this very necessary accomplishment of all good woodsmen.

Taken all together the exhibit, which is made in connection with the Boy Scouts' campaign for funds which opened this week.

ELLIOT CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT
On Wednesday night a supper was given by the ladies of Elliot church. Following this a group of the Girl Scouts gave a short play entitled "How the Story Grew." The parts were taken by Dorothy Whitten, Claire Macaulay, Helen Daly, Mildred Foster, Ernestine Laidlaw, Eleanor Smith, Hazel Hoare, and Mary Dexter. The play was a funny demonstration of the growth of gossip, the parts were well taken and appreciation was shown by the large audience present.

The Boy Scouts gave a play entitled "Wanted—A Confidential Clerk." The boys kept their audience in fine humor, taking their parts in an excellent manner. The characters were: Raymond Babigan as Jonathan Dobbs, the merchant, Walter Jeyes as the Irish comedian servant, Carl Laidlaw as Horatio Lushington, George Plekel as Dick Smart, Herbert Colby as Charles Valentine, the duke, and Alfred Bedell as the one who got the job.

What "Slow" Accounts Mean

"SLOW" ACCOUNTS mean something more than the mere matter of delay in receiving payment of bills.

THEY MEAN DUPLICATION OF EFFORT, the maintenance of records and additional office work that would be unnecessary if such accounts were paid within the reasonable specified time.

BUT MOST OF ALL they mean that effort which might be devoted to necessary tasks essential to the comfort, convenience and efficiency that you derive from your telephone service, is wasted on what should be unnecessary tasks.

INDEPENDENCE FOR FILIPINOS

Sec. Baker Says Pres. Wilson
Believes Time Has Come To Grant Independence

Special Mission of the Philippine Legislature Presents
Case at Washington

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Members of the special mission of the Philippine legislature here seeking immediate independence for the islands were told today by Secretary Baker that he spoke President Wilson's mind when he said he believed the time had come to grant the complete independence desired by the Filipino people.

Secretary Baker also said he believed the mission would be able to carry home word that the American people loved liberty too dearly to deny it to others.

He read a letter left by President Wilson when he went to Europe expressing the hope that the mission would result in "bringing about the desirable ends set forth in the joint resolution of the legislature."

Francis Burton Harrison, governor-general of the Philippines, followed Mr. Baker.

Money deposited on or before Saturday, April 5, 1919, in The Lowell Five Cent Savings bank begins to draw interest from that date.

Many of the large country estates in Great Britain have been closed because of high taxation. Before the war there were nearly 1000 of them, 60 of which might be classed as private palaces for each required a staff of from 200 to 500 servants and attendants.

HUNS APPEAL TO PRES. WILSON

Warn Against Disregard of Principle to Which He Pledged Himself

Claim These Pledges Induced
Germany To Lay Down
Her Arms

BERLIN, Thursday, April 3. (By the Associated Press.)—Leading ethical, philosophical and religious societies of Germany have addressed an appeal to President Wilson, giving warning against a disregard of principles to which he has pledged himself, and which, they claim, induced Germany to lay down her arms. The appeal declares "if the Germans are driven to desperation they would rather become Bolsheviks than slaves." It charges the Czechs and Poles with anticipating the conclusions of the peace conference and violating the Wilsonian principles. It says the allies are "not only condemning the acts of the Czechs and Poles, but are supporting these nations."

It is maintained the allies provoked anarchistic conditions in Germany by refusing to relax the blockade.

In discussing the possibility of a revival of militarism the appeal says:

"Only one thing could again yield the Germans of every state into a warlike power—the continuation of the policy of hate and annihilation that has been pursued by the allies."

President Wilson is warned that the United States "with its great private fortunes and billion dollar trust" is a "fertile field for communism" and it is suggested that wealthy Americans "had better support the League of Nations."

ENTERTAINMENT AT GRACE CHURCH

The Ladies' Alliance of the Grace Universalist church gave a supper and entertainment in the vestry of the church last evening, and both the repast and the sketch were thoroughly appreciated. Mrs. John W. Stott was in charge of the supper, assisted by Mrs. Charles Clement, and the dining-room was in charge of Mrs. Charles N. Woodward.

"Twelve Old Maids" was the title of the sketch, and the generous amount of comedy which the participants injected into the lines, made it a most enjoyable performance. The following people took part in the production: Mrs. F. W. Farnham, Miss Leslie Pulten, Mrs. C. H. Wing, Mrs. Arthur Dion, Mrs. John A. Weinbeck, Mrs. Lillian Hard-Hill, Mrs. E. H. McIntire, Miss Dorothy Leeder, Mrs. H. E. Benton, Mrs. Cora Wilson, Miss Bertha Abbott, Mrs. S. C. Peterson, Mrs. W. G. Spence, Mrs. F. L. Gage.

ILLEGAL DISTILLERY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 4.—Marked increase in illegal distilling in the Appalachian mountain territory was reported here yesterday by members of the Mountain School Workers' organization. They attributed the increase to prohibition.

The demand for whiskey had driven the price up to $18 and $20 a gallon, it was stated.

Chest Colds and Sore Throats

Quick relief comes overnight when you apply Mustarine—the original improvement on the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Mustarine contains true mustard. It cannot blister and there are no disagreeable fumes to irritate the nose and eyes.

It's good for so many ailments—removing congestion and reducing inflammation and swellings so quickly that no home can afford to do without it. One small box proves it. Always comes in yellow box. Be sure to ask for Rezy's Mustarine.—Adv.

No Medicine-Chest Without Its Family Laxative

From the baby to the grandparents a good laxative is the necessary medicine in the little ills. It wards off serious sickness and saves doctor's bills. Many a cold has been prevented from running into grippe and pneumonia by its timely use.

Many a racking headache has been quickly dispelled by it. And it is a laxative rather than a drastic cathartic or purgative that should be in every family medicine-chest, for a laxative can be used at all ages.

Thousands of good American families have for more than a quarter century used a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a laxative-tonic that acts on the bowels and stomach. Infants take it with perfect safety, and it is equally effective for grownups.

Grandparents are now seeing their children give it to their babies. It is excellent for all the family in constipation no matter how chronic, indigestion, wind colic, biliousness, headaches, dyspepsia and similar ills.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

PRICE AS ALWAYS
In spite of greatly increased laboratory costs due to the War, by working profit and absorbing war taxes we have maintained the price at which this family laxative has been sold by druggists for the past 36 years. Two sizes—50c and $1.00.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN
The Perfect Laxative

FREE SAMPLES—If you have never used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin send for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 464 Washington St., Monticello, N. H. If there are babies at home, ask for a copy of Dr. Caldwell's book, "The Care of Baby."

Rheumatism

Disappeared Says Woman

This Maine Resident Endured Great
Agony Until She Tried
This Blood Builder

There are many people today who are suffering from rheumatism who could gain complete restoration to health and freedom from pain by building up the blood.

There are many methods of treating rheumatism but most of them are directed at the symptoms and also chiefly by to soothe the pain. Such remedies are temporary in their effect. A treatment that builds up the blood gives strength to all parts of the body and enables the system to expel the poisons of the disease.

A good example of the successful treatment of a case of rheumatism is that of Mrs. Julia Nason, of No. 8 Porter street, Biddeford, Me.

"I had suffered from rheumatism for the past ten years," says Mrs. Nason, "and nothing seemed to give me any relief. As the attacks continued they became more severe and I was very nervous, especially at night. My limbs pained me constantly and swelled and my feet were numb."

"A newspaper announcement led me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I was surprised to find that I had improved wonderfully after the first box. I slept better nights and seemed to be less nervous. I continued the treatment until the pains and numbness disappeared as well as the swelling. I shall always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for cases of rheumatism caused by poor blood."

The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are for this reason an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after-effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet full of useful information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, fifty cents per box; six boxes for $2.50.—Adv.

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM BILL AMENDED

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 4.—The $1,000,000 memorial auditorium bill was amended in the house yesterday, on motion of Representative Victor Francis Jewett of Lowell, by the insertion of a provision that all acts of the commission must have the approval of a majority of its members.

Section nine of the bill as reported by the committee provides that the commission may "act in any matter in which it has jurisdiction by a majority vote at any meeting at which at least three members are present and of which all members have had reasonable notice or at which, at the time of acting, all the members are present."

Representative Jewett pointed out to the house that under this phraseology, it would be possible for three members of the commission to meet, being a quorum, and that two members, a majority of three, could pass any vote they saw fit, binding the entire commission. He moved to insert after the word "vote" the words "of the commission," thus effectually providing that no action may be taken which is not supported by at least three members of the commission.

There was no opposition and the amendment was adopted on a voice vote, after which the bill was given a final reading.

VERDICT OF $413,390 TWO WOMAN SUFFRAGE AMENDMENTS BEATEN

Award For Damages Arising
Out of Black Tom Island
Explosion

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 4.—A verdict for $413,390 for damages arising out of the Black Tom Island explosion in July, 1916, was given by the supreme court today in favor of R. H. Howell & Co., sugar refiners, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad. The firm lost sugar stored in Lehigh warehouses.

LAND FOR CEMETERIES

The cemetery commissioners have a right, under the law, to purchase additional land for the Edison or West-lawn cemeteries, in the opinion of the city's financial authorities. The land is a necessity, and there is said to be unquestionably enough money, which has accumulated from perpetual care funds and the sale of lots, to meet this expense. Messrs. Franklin F. Devery and William Hawes, of the cemetery commission, have looked over the proposed purchases, which consist of land adjacent to the Edison and the West-lawn cemeteries, and it is expected that the commission, as a whole, accompanied by Mayor Thompson, will view the land again in the next few days.

of six. This was stricken out of the bill on the ground that there was insufficient time for discussion, the vote being 202 to 157.

The second amendment submitted by Louis Andreux provided for the transmission of the right to vote to the next relatives of heads of families without distinction of sex. It was pointed out that it would insure family representation and was needed because many heads of families had been killed during the war. It was defeated by 335 to 124.

President Paul Deschanel ruled that a motion by Maurice Raynaud, former minister of the colonies, asking for a discussion tomorrow of the report of Henry Franklin-Bouillon on the disarmament of Germany was out of order. Mr. Raynaud then withdrew his motion.

Holmes, N. J.—"I live on a farm and am a hard working woman and for weak, rundown, overworked conditions have found nothing that will create an appetite, build me up and make me strong equal to Vinol."—Mrs. Thomas Ellis.

The reason we recommend Vinol for such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy and all of its ingredients are printed on each package which will prove that it is safe and valuable remedy to create strength for weak, rundown, overworked men, women and children. about without hesitation, didn't he?"

"No sir, not without hesitation."

"Well, did he hesitate any more than any man would who cannot talk good English? That is, it was only natural hesitancy?"

"No sir, it was not."

"Do you mean to tell the jury that this man, Francisco Felt, can speak and understand English well?"

"Well, he can understand me and I can understand him."

The witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Donahue, counsel for Cordia.

"You have known Joe Cordia quite a long while, haven't you, Mr. O'Brien?"

"Yes sir, for quite a while."

"And you always knew him as a pleasant little fellow, always smiling, didn't you?"

"Yes, he was always happy, so it seemed."

District Attorney Tufts interrupted Mr. Donahue and asked him to speak a little louder. The latter apologized, saying, "I'm not as young as I used to be, but I'll warm up in a little while."

Mr. Donahue questioned the witness as to the footprints, said to have been found near the grave, and also the distance between the tracks.

"Were these footprints farther apart

than a usual stride?"

"Yes sir."

"How much difference was there?"

"I measured them by my own natural stride."

"How long is your ordinary step, Mr. O'Brien?"

"I never measured it, but I should say about 30 inches."

"Thirty inches. Yes; well how much farther apart were those tracks than your stride?"

"About a foot and a half, I should say."

"A foot and a half? Let's see, that makes about 45 inches. Do you want the jury to believe that there was that much difference?"

"Yes, maybe a little less, or a little more."

"When you were told by Cordia that the people you were looking for were named Naomi, and that one of them was known as Jumbo, you knew who was meant, didn't you?"

"I didn't know the name."

"But you knew who was meant, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"When the Savage automatic revolver was found at the Pantini house in Wamesit and shown to Cordia, he said it was his, didn't he?"

"I don't know."

"Weren't you there?"

"No, sir."

"Were you present when the revolver was taken out of the desk at the Fantini house?"

"Yes."

"How much difference was there?"

"Was the desk locked?"

"Yes, I think it was."

"Who opened the desk?"

"A girl known as Margaret Gray, I think."

"At that time, when the knife also was found, was anything said regarding how long they had been in the desk?"

"I don't know; I didn't."

"Did anyone in your presence?"

"I don't know."

"Your attention was called to the fact that large pieces of junk were going on at the R. & M. car shops, is that not so, Mr. O'Brien?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were there ever any guards placed at the junk hole?"

"Yes sir, one night."

"Where were the guards located around the junk hole?"

"We left them right at the hole."

"About what time?"

"I should say about dusk."

"You were looking for another man, were you not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who was this man?"

"Luigi Felt."

"At whose direction were you looking for him?"

"At the direction of the district attorney."

"Why were you looking for him?"

"In connection with the crime."

"What crime?"

"The murder of Fred Soulla."

"Why didn't you arrest him?"

"I didn't meet him."

"But you were looking for him?"

"Yes."

"And you have looked for him since then?"

"Yes, sir."

"And have never found him?"

"No, sir."

"Mr. O'Brien, did you ever see Joe Cordia smoke a cigarette?"

"Why, yes; I think so."

"Think carefully, have you ever seen him smoking a cigarette?"

"I think so; I've seen him smoke a cigar."

"I didn't ask you that. I asked you if you ever have seen him smoke a cigarette."

"No, I don't think I ever did."

"Did you receive authority to sell Cordia's pigs after his arrest?"

"Yes."

"And he gave you the keys to his house?"

"Yes, sir."

The court took a recess at 11:15 o'clock.

Took Short Recess

After a recess of 20 minutes, Chief O'Brien was recalled and was re-examined briefly by Mr. Tufts. The witness also was again questioned by Mr. Mack.

Referring to the coat which is said to have been taken from the home of Felt's sister in Lawrence, Mr. Mack asked him if he knew whether or not a piece of paper, supposed to be a land deed and made out in the name of Luigi Felt, had been taken from a pocket of the coat. The witness replied that he did not.

Mr. Donahue, again examining, said: "Would you be surprised to learn that Cordia's automobile was being repaired during the week of October 21?"

"I would," replied Mr. O'Brien.

Questioned by Mr. Tufts, the witness said that Cordia had said in his presence that on October 31 he had driven Tom Brown from the car shops to North Billerica postoffice, and afterwards drove to Lowell.

Henry D. Livingston

Henry D. Livingston, of the Billerica police was the next witness called. He was questioned regarding the footprints, said to have been found near the grave, and further said that one of the sets of prints seemed to have

"And of a man running."

"You are familiar with the appearance of the footprints of a man walking; are you not, Mr. Livingston?"

"I am."

"And of a man running?"

"Yes, sir."

"And which were these?"

"Of a man running."

Another Revolver

"While investigating at the Cordia house, did you find any sort of firearms?"

"I did."

"What, please?"

"A revolver."

The witness produced the weapon, an Iver Johnson, calibre 38.

"Did you find anything else?"

"Yes, some ammunition."

The witness then showed some shells of 32 and 38 calibre, which he said he found in a trunk in one of the rooms of the house.

"On Sunday, Nov. 10, when Dr. McGrath visited the Cordia house, were you present at the grave when he examined it?"

"I was."

"Do you remember any signs of cut roots?"

"I do."

"How long have you known Cordia?"

"Five or six years."

"I don't suppose you know whether or not he smoked cigarettes?"

"No, I do not."

Mr. Livingston was cross-examined by Mr. Mack regarding his previous knowledge of footprints and the difference between a man walking and running as shown in the footprints.

Cross-examined by Mr. Donahue, the witness testified that he believed the distance between the footprints was about 3 1/2 or 4 feet.

"Did you find any imprints of smaller shoes near the grave?"

"No, sir; I didn't."

"How far from the grave did you see such an imprint?"

"About 100 feet."

Mr. Donahue also questioned him regarding the latter's investigations at the Cordia house.

Captain Proctor

Captain William H. Proctor, a state police officer living in Swampscott, was the next witness. He was examined by Assistant District Attorney Fosdick. Shown the slugs, said to have been taken from the body of the dead man, Soulla, the witness said they were of 32-calibre, fired from a Smith & Wesson cartridge, centre fire.

The witness was then shown the revolver on exhibit, said to have been found at Lawrence in a pocket of a coat, said to belong to Francisco Felt.

"Can such a revolver fire the kind of cartridges you speak of?" asked Mr. Fosdick.

"Yes, sir."

"Have you any opinion as to what revolver fired those slugs?"

"I have formed the opinion that these slugs came from an H. & R. revolver."

"What do the letters H. & R. stand for?"

"Harrington & Richardson."

"Is this revolver a Harrington & Richardson?"

"Yes, sir."

"Does your opinion take you any farther?"

"I am of the opinion that the appearance of these slugs are consistent with the appearance of the barrel of this revolver."

"Did you examine the revolver, Capt. Proctor?"

"I did."

"What did you find?"

"I found that the last time this revolver was fired, it was shot three times."

"How do you arrive at that conclusion?"

"Because three of the chambers are cleaner than the other two."

The court suspended at this time until 2 o'clock.

HOME-COMING PARADE

Instructions as to Who Can Participate in Parade Now Being Arranged

1. On behalf of the people of New England, the committee of the governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the legislative committee, the committee of the mayor of the city of Boston, and the committee of the city of Lowell, extend a cordial invitation to the following soldiers and sailors of the 26th Division to attend and march in the parade of the 26th Division which will take place in Boston sometime between April 26 and May 6, 1919, provided they can equip themselves with uniforms.

(a) All wounded officers and enlisted men who are still in the army and who now belong or have belonged to the 26th Division.

(b) All officers and enlisted men not wounded who belong now to the 26th Division but are detached therefrom.

(c) All honorably discharged officers and enlisted men of the 26th Division.

This invitation is extended only to those men who belonged to the 26th Division after its entry into the service of the United States and is not extended to those who were in the national guard companies but left them before the entry of the division into the federal service. While it is desired to extend this invitation to all men, it would make the parade entirely too long and is therefore impracticable.

Men who cannot provide their own uniforms cannot march in the parade.

All of the above mentioned men who desire to take part in the parade are requested to address letters at once to:

The Adjutant,
Northeastern Department,
Boston, Mass.

26th Div. Parade.

Each letter to give the following information:

(a) Full name.

(b) Street, town, and state address.

(c) The company and regiment to which the writer belongs, or did belong, and the time he served in the 26th Division.

(d) His rank while in that organization.

(e) State whether or not he served overseas with division. If so, how long.

(f) State whether still in service or discharged.

(g) State whether or not he is wounded.

(h) If wounded, state whether or not he is able to march on foot in the parade.

(i) State whether or not he can pay his railroad fare to Boston and return.

(j) State whether he prefers to be housed with the U. of C., the Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, War Camp Community Service, or Jewish Welfare Board.

The New England division of the American Red Cross will pay for the transportation of all wounded officers and enlisted men still in the army and in New England from their stations to Boston and return. The Red Cross will meet all wounded, whether in service or discharged, at the railroad stations, conduct them in automobiles to the places where they are to stay while in Boston, and return them to the railroad stations in automobiles on their departure.

6. All officers and enlisted men who have been honorably discharged from the army who belonged to the 26th Division, including the wounded who have been discharged, and all officers and enlisted men who still belong to the 26th Division but are on detached service will be required to provide their own transportation to and from Boston, if they can do so.

7. All states in New England have been asked to inform General Edwards at once if they will pay for the transportation to and from Boston of such of these two classes of men as cannot pay for their own transportation. This information has not yet been received.

8. It was stated in New England in forms the Northeastern Department headquarters that it cannot furnish transportation for discharged soldiers, the men from that state who desire to take part in the parade will be so informed and they will have to provide

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this source of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy.

An antacid, such as bicarbonate of soda, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only bicarbonate of soda, which is especially mentioned for the above purpose. their own transportation.

9. The War Camp Community Service, the Knights of Columbus, the Y.M.C.A., the Salvation Army, and the Jewish Welfare Board, working in cooperation with the headquarters of the Northeastern Department, will provide food and sleeping quarters for all these individuals.

10. As soon as each man's letter is received at the headquarters of the Northeastern Department, a reply will be sent him informing him of the following:

(a) Where and how to get his transportation in case he does not provide it himself.

(b) What date to arrive in Boston.

(c) The address of the place he is to sleep while in Boston.

(d) What date he will return home.

11. When each man receives his reply from the Northeastern Department headquarters, he should immediately write a second letter to the department adjutant, acknowledging receipt of the letter from headquarters and should inform the same headquarters the date and hour of his arrival in Boston and at what railroad station, wharf, etc., he will arrive.

12. An information bureau will be established at each railroad station in Boston.

13. As the time is short and it is imperative that the authorities know at once how many men to provide beds and food for, every man is requested to write the department adjutant at once.

14. The expense of transporting these men will be great; therefore it is absolutely necessary that every discharged man and unwounded man still in the service provide his own transportation, if he can do so.

15. At present there is no means of paying the transportation of wounded men still in the service who are not now in New England, discharged men including wounded not now in New England, and all men still of the 26th Division but not now stationed in New England, who desire to take part in the parade.

16. If these men who cannot pay their own transportation will write these headquarters giving the information above asked for, and in addition give the state of New England from which they came, or if not from New England the regiment with which they served, stating the date they left their own transportation, their letters will be sent to the state from which they came or from which the regiment came, requesting that they furnish transportation to and from Boston and to notify the soldier himself of the action taken.

17. In addition, if there is an auxil-

New England has furnished one billion, seven hundred and ninety-six million dollars to carry on the war up to this point. Its men and its treasure have been given freely.

Now we'll finish the Job!

To pay the necessary war bills already incurred, our Government offers the "Victory" Liberty Loan, of which New England's share will be cheerfully forthcoming. These honest, just debts must be paid. When we have paid these bills and provided for maintaining the army and navy, demobilizing men not needed, rebuilding the shattered and wounded, we can look the world straight in the eyes.

So just now our job is to

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH CLUB ENTERTAINS

"Some entertainers" was the verdict of the large audience which journeyed to the First Universalist church and witnessed a patriotic minstrel show last evening, given by the "Heroes" club of the church. Lost a wrong impression be made it should be said that this organization is composed entirely of the fairer sex, and the brand of entertainment which they offered well merited the enthusiastic reception accorded.

The program, which was under the direction of Mrs. Isabelle Dunlap Brown, included a well balanced and varied series of musical numbers, interspersed with witty "exchanges of opinion" by the four ends. A chorus of 25 voices added materially to the success of the event. Former Lieut. Michael Brennan acted as interloper.

and filled the position most acceptably. A feature of the show was the Red Cross costumes of the young ladies, and the large American flag in the background of the stage gave a pleasing military aspect to the ensemble as a whole.

The concert program was as follows:
Opening chorus, entire company; "Beautiful Ohio," Flora and Gladys Long; song, "Dear Old Folks at Home," Grace Douglas; song, "Mississippi," Dorothy Dickinson and Clara Long; song, "Till We Meet Again," Dorothy Dickinson; song and dance, "Over There," a chorus of six girls, the Misses Frances Plafsted, Gladys Long, Abbie Whittey, Viola de Louvain and Clara Long; violin solo, Master Thomas McNiff; song, "Indiana," the Red Cross; "How You Goin' to Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?" the Misses Gladys and Flora Long; song, "Garden of My Dreams," Miss Flora Long; Miss Harriet Manour was accompanist of the evening and was assisted by Thomas McNiff on the violin. The chorus members and principals were: the Misses Flora Long, Dorothy Howard, Josephine Harmon, Abbie Plafsted, and Grace Douglas, Abbie Whittey, Frances Plafsted, Gladys Long, Marion Downes, Clara Price, Aldra Fatherson, Elizabeth Dahlstrom, Marie Louise Venable de Louvain, Irene Dickinson, Mary McNiff, Lena Gordon, Florence Brennan, Alice Campbell, Florence Harrell, Dorothy Dickinson, Edna Adams, Catherine Clapp and Roxie Howard.

RECEPTION TO BOYS OF THE 101ST REGIMENT

Members of the 101st Auxiliary met last evening at the war work headquarters and made plans for receiving the boys of that regiment when they arrive in Boston and also upon their arrival at Camp Devens.

Present plans call for the arrival of the 101st tomorrow afternoon, and the following delegation will be present on the official reception boat: Mrs. Michael Ready, Mrs. George Marshall and Mrs. George Underwood. On another reception boat, that of the 101st Associates, will be Mrs. Elizabeth Spillane, Mrs. William Rex, Mrs. Denis Brunsell, Mrs. Mary Burns, Mrs. Peter Flanagan and James O'Sullivan. Mrs. William H. Merritt, chairman of the auxiliary, will be at Commonwealth pier with the mothers of the division, and will distribute apples to the homecoming heroes.

By next Tuesday afternoon it is expected that the 101st will be at Camp Devens ready to receive visitors, and further plans for the part which the auxiliary is to play in this will be made known later. As matters stand at present, there will be a representation of the auxiliary at the camp in five out apple pies to the men, and a urgent appeal is sent out to the general public to supply these pies. They may be left at the war work headquarters, 119 Merrimack street, all day Monday or up to noon Tuesday.

It was also planned to hold a whist party next Tuesday evening in the rooms of the Knights of Columbus. All members of the auxiliary as well as their friends are invited to be present.

Mrs. Merritt presided at last evening's meeting, and James O'Sullivan, sponsor of the auxiliary, spoke a lengthy and splendid work of the organization and also paid a glowing tribute to the boys of Co. M.

BRISBANE, Australia, April 4.—(Viz) Montreal)—The plant of a labor newspaper here which praised the raising of a red flag by Russian demonstrators, has been attacked by angry crowds and its windows smashed. Russian shops have been damaged. All

Brisbane hotels have been closed until further notice.
Returned soldiers and others have passed strongly worded resolutions demanding the deportation of Bolshevik Russians and sympathizers, including two labor members of parliament. They also urge that the state government change its attitude towards men the resolutions characterize as traitors and that the commonwealth government abandon its "tolerant attitude." Otherwise, they declare, the returned soldiers will take drastic action.

SEC. BAKER REPLIES

Let People Decide Between What War Dept. Did and What Chamberlain Said

WASHINGTON, April 4. Commenting on what he termed "the very intemperate speech" of Senator Chamberlain, retiring chairman of the senate military committee, delivered at Natchez, Miss., in connection with the Ansell-Crowder court-martial controversy, Secretary Baker said yesterday that in three years as secretary of war he could not recall a single instance in which he had received a helpful suggestion from Senator Chamberlain or one which seemed intended to be helpful.

"I am perfectly willing," the secretary added, "to let the people of the country decide between what the war department has done in three years and what Senator Chamberlain has said in three years."

Ansell's Letter Published

Discussion of the controversy involving Lieut. Col. Samuel T. Ansell, formerly acting judge advocate general, and Judge Advocate General Crowder, and their respective views of the necessity for revising the army's system of justice was revived yesterday by Senator Chamberlain's speech and by the publication in a New York newspaper of the letter of Col. Ansell to Secretary Baker, which the secretary recently refused to make public on the ground that it would not be helpful.

As to the appearance of the letter, Mr. Baker said that the "welter of abuse, accusation and violent language about personal differences between officers can only be properly inquired into through the regularly established agencies of the army."

He would make no comment on the personal phase of the controversy pending the report of the inspector-general, who now is making an official investigation.

"The important part of this matter," Mr. Baker continued, "is the question of military justice. Upon that subject the committee of the American Bar Association and various other agencies are at work. I am very anxious to see the local evening newspaper is the paper that reaches the home when the whole family is there to read it. The Sun fills this bill in Lowell.

have every defect of the system discovered and corrected."

Gen. Crowder Attacked

Senator Chamberlain recently demanded that the Ansell letter be given the same publicity as had been given one from Gen. Crowder to Sec. Baker, thereby reinforcing, it now develops, an urgent request made in the letter itself.

Publication of the letter shows that Col. Ansell, replying to statements by Gen. Crowder, bluntly asserted that responsibility for any mal-administration in the office of the judge advocate general must be located first upon the secretary of war. He charged that Gen. Crowder first agreed with him in regard to the powers of his office, but after being taken to task by Sec. Baker said, "Ansell, I had to go back on you. I am sorry, but it was necessary to do it to save my official reputation."

Col. Ansell, reviewing the whole controversy and attacking the statement of Gen. Crowder as a "dexterous effort to divert public attention from the system of injustice which he defends," virtually made the charge recently made by Senator Chamberlain, that Secretary Baker and Gen. Crowder were not acting in good faith when they sent to congress some time ago, a bill to revise courts-martial procedure.

Calls System Unjust

He said the secretary had refused to accept his opinion that power already existed for reviewing sentences and correcting injustices and that the bill sent to congress was not a bona fide proposal to correct existing evils.

Of the present system, the letter said:

"I say the system does not do justice. It does injustice—gross, terrible, spirit-crushing injustice. Evidence of it is on every hand to those who will but see. The records of this office reek with it. The organization of the clemency board now sitting daily and daily recommending clemency in a hundred cases is a confession of it. Clemency, however, can never offset the injustice done. In my judgment the army will never hold the place it ought to hold in the faith and affection of our people until the machinery for doing military justice be humanized."

NO NEW RED ATTACKS ON RUSSIAN FRONTS

ARCHANGEL, Wednesday, April 3.—At allied headquarters this afternoon it was reported that the situation was unchanged on all fronts. The enemy has made no new attacks since being severely repulsed yesterday but the artillery on both sides continues active in the Odozerskaia sector.

After the Bolsheviks had held a position for several hours astride the road between Bolshoi Ozera and Odozerskaia on Sunday afternoon they were driven out and it is reported by prisoners that their losses were extremely heavy. One shell from a Russian battery exploded in the midst of a party of Bolsheviks, killing 15 men. The allied machine gunfire also caused many casualties.

It was while the enemy held this road and was raiding the allies' lines to the rear over a little used trail, through the woods that Bryan K. Royal of Bloomfield, N. J., a Y.M.C.A. secretary, and several soldiers, including two Americans, were taken prisoners. According to a Bolshevik prisoner brought into Archangel today, the American and British prisoners taken in this sector, were removed to a village south of Bolshoi Ozera and were well treated.

The American casualties during the past two weeks of fighting about Bolshoi Ozera include one officer and five men killed and seven wounded. Nine others are reported missing.

$220,000 Offer For Fight a Joke

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 4.—It developed today that the offer of $220,000 for the Willard-Dempsey fight made in a telegram to New York yesterday, was signed "Great Falls Athletic Association" and that it was sent to a local telegraph office by a stranger. As there is no such organization in the city, local sport followers regard the matter as a joke.

TO RELEASE MEMBERS OF NAVAL RESERVE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Because of the failure of congress to enact the naval appropriation bill with its provision for an increased naval personnel, practically all members of the naval reserve forces on active duty must be released immediately upon the declaration of peace.

In making the announcement today the navy department said that because of this fact and of the great need of officers due both to the continuing activities of the navy and the shortage of regular officers, it would be inadvisable generally to accept the resignations of reserve officers.

Many of these officers have asked to be permitted to return to civil life, but attention is called by the department to the fact that they are under obligation to perform active duty with the navy for a period of not later than six months after the termination of the war. Resignations will be accepted, however, as additional officers are appointed in the temporary permanent naval force.

DISCUSS MEANS OF ERADICATING DISEASE AT INTER-ALLIED RED CROSS CONFERENCE

CANNES, France, Thursday, April 3.—At today's session of the first inter-allied Red Cross conference there was a discussion of extra-governmental means of eradicating disease. The view was supported that there is need for Red Cross societies to assist governmental agencies. Dr. Wyckliffe Ross of the Rockefeller Foundation was one of the speakers.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A regular meeting of James A. Garfield Women's Relief corps was held last night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. One application for membership was received and plans were made for the attendance of the officers of the corps at the department convention to be held in Boston April 8 and 9. It was also voted to invite the members of Post 120 at luncheon Memorial day. In the afternoon whist was played and in the early evening supper was served.

Elgin Lodge

Routine business was transacted and interesting reports of their visit to the New Hampshire grand lodge were made by Past Warden Mrs. H. A. Burrows and Mrs. D. A. Chase at the regular meeting of Elgin lodge, 166, N.E. O.P., which was held last evening. The attendance was large.

Socialist Club

The regular meeting of the American branch of the Lowell Socialist club was held last evening. Two new members were initiated and an interesting debate on social conditions took place. The next meeting will be held April 10 at 8 p. m.

MILLS RUNNING FULL CAPACITY

PITTSFIELD, April 4.—Pittsfield textile mills, employing 2000 hands, are running at capacity for the first time since the armistice was signed. The Berkshire Woolen company is to put on a night force next week. The Pontiac Woolen company has already a night force. Managers say prospects are excellent for business for the remainder of the year.

TRADES & LABOR COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

A feature of last evening's meeting of the Trades and Labor council was the election of officers for the ensuing six months, the result being as follows: Francis A. Warnock, president; John B. Curtin, vice president; Charles E. Anderson, secretary; Frank N. Simpson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Annie Reagan, financial secretary; treasurer; Timothy O'Rourke and Mrs. Rachael Campbell, trustees; Michael Kinane, sergeant-at-arms. The following committee was appointed to bring in a list of standing committees for the year: Fred Mosley, Henry O'Donnell, Timothy O'Rourke, Parker H. Murphy and John Casey.

Resolutions were passed advocating mass meetings all over the country in behalf of Thomas Mooney, labor leader, who is now serving a life sentence in California for alleged implication in a bomb plot which resulted in the death of 10 persons. Complete pardon or release is being asked for Mooney. A communication was received from the Central Labor union of Dayton, O. relative to advertisements now appearing in newspapers offering work there.

The communication stated the advertisement system was a scheme to flood the labor market there and advocated that any person going in quest of work to Dayton should take a supply of money with him or it would be the object for a state institution in a short time. Following the passage of the set of resolutions of the Mooney case it was announced that Norman H. Tallentire of San Francisco would be at labor headquarters in Central street Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock to address committees named to hear him, and any person wishing to do so is invited to attend. It was stated the speaker would review the Mooney case from start to finish and would give the inside happenings of what is claimed to have resulted in the unfair trial.

Painters' Union

The members of the Painters' union held their regular meeting last evening with President Robert Moore in the chair. Routine business was transacted and it was announced that the charter would remain open during the month of April, which means that the painters of this city who are not unionized can become members of the organization at half price.

week, be sure and avail yourself of the remaining opportunities today or tomorrow. The soldier boys who "went over the top" for you are immensely entertaining in song and story.

Clay's Brockwell in "The Forbidden Room" is easily one of the best pictures in which this star has ever appeared. It is a story of a being with highly dramatic situations and clever characterizations.

On "Johnny," a great story, with all of the dash and vigor desired, presents Louis Bannison, the most recent star of the screen, in his first picture production. It's a story of a young man meeting eastern scheming and the best man wins. You will like the story and the star as well.

The remainder of the program has many good features, including the latest song hits by Annette Lytle, a comedy, and a very interesting and best of its kind ever offered a local audience.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"When He Came Back," the wonderful, gripping story of a young soldier, returning from France, the most recent stage offering by Vincent Lawrence, is winning genuine favor. This week at the Lowell Opera House, The Emerson All Star Players never appeared in a play that seemed to suit their talent as does this presentation. Julian Nott and Miss Solisbury are scoring heavily and the supporting cast is excellent. Next week "Mary's Antic," a comedy with a good love story, will be given, and this also promises to share with the best presentation of the stock season. Order your tickets early and avoid disappointment. Tel. 224 and have your place placed on the subscription list.

L. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Two funny blackface men are Le-Maire & Hayes, who are at the L. F. Keith Theatre, this week, giving their extraordinarily laughable skits based upon the characters of negro soldiers. They never get anywhere as sailors, but their words and loudness in the minds of all who take in the shows. A real sailor lad is "Sailor" Kelly, whose repertoire of songs is both up-to-date and wonderfully popular. The "Sailor" did a wonderful recruiting stunt during the war, and it is easy to guess why he was so effective. Jeanette Childie, the singing comedienne, is an attractive young woman, whose songs are popular and filled with zest. Wood and Wyck, in musical comedy satire, are effective because their work is so classy. Other acts on the bill are: Nixon & Norris, instrumentalists; Best and David Mann, in character; Buck Brothers, train police performers and the Kinograms.

SOME AFTER JULY FIRST DRINKS

Several new beverages, which are making a bid for public favor after the dry season opens, July 1, have already appeared. Here are some of them: The "Carpet rickety," "Sleeping punch," "Potato fizz" and the "Cuma cocktail." Although these are so

Did you lose that job through a poor skin

There's many a person whose chances in life are limited simply because of a skin that is blotchy and un-presentable. Pimples, rough, red, ugly skins—skins that chap and burn easily—are usually most successfully treated with Resinol Ointment.

The joint use of Resinol Soap with Resinol Ointment usually produces the best results where facial blemishes are concerned, and is equally successful in treating other skin affections on limbs and body.

Resinol

called total abstinence drinks, investigation will show that they have a Missouri rule sidekick for kick.

To begin with, take the case of the "Carpet rickety." This potion is concocted of Jamaica ginger and snuff. It is called a "Carpet rickety" because the imbiber of this mixup hits the carpet before he has time to lift a chair. No chaser can catch this drink. It works too fast. It has more one-round knockouts than Jack Dempsey.

Next we have what is known as the "Sleeping punch." This has a kick like two Missouri mules. It is constructed of cold tea and ether. It looks like whiskey and acts like it, only it does not waste any time on the wind-up. It produces immediate collapse. It knocks them stiffer than a second-hand loaf of bread. A brass band could not wake up the man who has this mixture under his belt. His ears have gone to sleep with the rest of him. It's a killer.

There is next the "Potato fizz." This thing is a awful wallop also. It has to stand for some time. Potatoes have alcohol aboard, and they are sliced up and thrown in the "gine." The molasses coaxes the alcohol out of the potatoes and then the soup waits by and ambushes some customer. Three minutes after he takes on this gray the taker measures off his altitude horizontally. He's through. He can't stand up any better than a fish and he hasn't any more pep than a dish-rag.

The "Cuma cocktail" works quickly, too. It is said to be a simple affair, a glass of warm water and some quinine tablets. It floors them quicker than a black jack.

These and some equally deadly compounds have been tried in isolated cases. With the price of whiskey where it is, the penurious drunks will try most anything once. They will even try these suicide combinations. These cocktails are also crochets.

A peculiar thing about these drinks is that they are not included in the list of intoxicants. They do not, as a rule, contain intoxicants, strictly speaking. But do they work—oh, boy!

JAPAN LEADER TALKS

Tells Why Japan Insists on Keeping Pacific Isles Occupied During War

Written for The Sun
BY K. K. KAWAKAMI
(Former Japanese publisher in America and author of the following standard books on the Orient: "American Japanese Relations," "Asia at the Door," and "Japan in World Politics.")

"The Japanese have a great pride in their achievements in the Pacific, and feel that they should be permitted to extend their culture and civilization to the two groups of islands which are inhabited by undeveloped peoples."

This is an official view expressed by a member of the Japanese peace mission, in explaining Japan's interest in the South Pacific islands, the Marshall, Caroline and Ladrones groups, formerly German possessions, occupied by Japan during the war.

Fear Bottling Up

It does not represent the popular sentiment. The plain people of Japan do not base their claim for the Pacific islands upon such pretensions as abstract arguments.

They do not beat around the bush like diplomats, but plainly assert that they want to keep those islands because they need them more badly than any other nation.

This Japanese claim proceeds from the instinctive fear of the Japanese that they will be eventually smothered to death if they are permanently bottled up in their own small archipelago.

It is like a drowning man clinging to anything that may come within his reach. He does not stop to think whether the thing he is going to catch will keep him afloat. To understand this point of view, we must know something of Japan's population question.

Population Is Key

During the past 50 years the Japanese population has been increasing at the rate of 100,000 per year. Where there were 32,000,000 Japanese 50 years ago, there are today 52,000,000. As Japan's total area is about 118,756 square miles, the density is about 236 per square mile. If we leave out of consideration Hokkaido, the north island, the density increases to 351.

True, Belgium, Holland and Great Britain are more densely populated than Japan. Belgium, with its 6459 inhabitants to the square mile, is the most thickly populated. Holland, with 571 population per square mile, and England, 570, come next, followed by Japan's 256. Italy's 316, and Germany's 310. China has only 79 people to the square mile.

But the European countries, which are more congested than Japan, have the advantage of unrestricted emigration as well as of the vast colonies they have acquired. The Japanese, on the other hand, have no colonies, and are, by agreement among western powers, forbidden to emigrate.

England's colonies have a total area of 12,521,125 square miles, having only 31 people to the square mile. From these colonies the Japanese and other Asiatics are strictly excluded.

Belgium has colonies totaling 1,000,000 square miles. Holland's colonies are even greater in area than those of Belgium. Even Germany had, before the war, more than a million square miles of colonies.

The Potash Supply

Japan also may be said to have colonies in Korea and Formosa, measuring some 35,000 square miles, but these colonies are already thickly populated.

and even no opportunity for Japanese emigrants.

In the peculiar condition of Japan, which we have above noted, the main reason for the Japanese demand to retain the Pacific Islands and to develop what resources they may have there. The islands are, of course, small for settlement purposes, but they have certain raw materials which can be used to the great advantage of Japan.

Chief among such materials are potash deposits found in large quantities in the Marshall Islands. As Japan is not naturally rich in potash, and is made potash-free only by artificial means and by the most painstaking cultivation, these potash deposits will be of great value in the agricultural development of the country.

Potash is especially valuable in the culture of rice, the staple food of the Japanese. As the Japanese have raised rice on the same land for many centuries, the soil must inevitably diminish in fertility. Fertilizer is liberally applied. With the rapid growth of her population, Japan's crop of rice is hard to come by, even demands.

The war is one of the causes of the rice that in the summer of 1917, suffering in many deaths, and the destruction of valuable property. If the Japanese are forbidden to leave their country and immigrate into territories which offer greater opportunities, they will find some means to increase the productivity of their soil.

Before the war Japan was dependent upon the German potash trust for the supply of the fertilizer essential to rice culture. The German trust, with the aid of the Standard and Atlantic potash deposits, has practically controlled the output of this commodity.

Land Dots Mean Wealth

If Japan has at her command the potash deposits of the Marshall Islands, her suffering from land shortage and overpopulation will be alleviated to a degree.

Moreover, the Pacific Islands are rich with copra and other tropical products. The Japanese, having never had free access to tropical lands, are naturally anxious to possess those islands, even though they are but dots of land.

Japan has agreed to place the islands under the League of Nations, but will undoubtedly be appointed the mandatory for them. Under the Japanese mandate, not only will the resources of the islands be fully developed, but the native population will receive the benefit of an efficient administration.

BOYLE BEATS THOMAS LONDOS AND LEMLE
ALL SET FOR BOUT

Lowell Boxer Completely Outclassed Quaker at C.A.A.—Other Bouts

Phinney Boyle of Lowell completely outclassed and decisively defeated Charlie (Kid) Thomas of Philadelphia in the main bout at the Crescent rink on last Wednesday night. Boyle piled up a big lead, having the advantage in all but one round—the last—and the decision of Referee Flaherty in his favor was the only one possible.

The Lowell boy was physically fit for Thomas and he had to be for the Philadelphia boxer to stay in the ring, and he was careful to prevent the "Kid" from landing. Boyle has his man well "doped" and he boxed, sidestepped, jumped and swung like a champion. He hit Thomas with everything but the water bucket, subduing the Quaker to a terrible bombardment all the way. Thomas with his dangerous valiant, calmly stood there and assimilated all Boyle had, but was ever ready to slip over a haymaker if given half a chance. Many times did he swing in an attempt to stop Boyle, but the Lowell boy was always on the alert and ducked or blocked the steep producing blow.

Thomas had a weight advantage on Boyle, and several times he used his additional poundage to advantage. When Boyle would tie him up, he would attempt to wrestle in order to get away and escape a Boyle fusillade. But just as soon as he would shake off the local lad, Boyle would emulate the kangaroo and jump in and let go a series of blows that would rock his opponent. Thomas' face proved a regular target for Boyle and after the bout it showed the effects of the terrible peppering administered.

Never, however, did Thomas back away, but on the contrary he always came back for more; he got it in good measure and as the bout progressed, and he remained right there taking "em like the polo cubs receive the drive from "Pop" Hart. Fans could not help but admire his gameness.

Rarely has Boyle given a better exhibition. He appeared like a shadow before the bewildered Quaker and his speed, aggressiveness, hitting and sidestepping would do credit to the title holder. He showed wonderful improvement over his last performance here and a continuance of faithful training and careful boxing is bound to send him up the ladder. Boyle's many friends were elated over his splendid work and applauded him to the echo as he left the ring.

Thomas, too, received a good hand as he crawled through the ropes, for his gameness brought him friends and before the bout he sang a song in good voice which went big with the fans. Billy Woods of Manchester won from Tom Moore of Providence in the semi-final of eight rounds. It was a fine bout, with Woods earning the award. Cal Diamond won from Ray Shuster in four rounds in the first preliminary and Jim Crilly put Young Melloy of Lowell away in the second round of their six-round number.

With articles signed and forfeits posted, Carl Lemle, the "perfect man," and Jim Londos, the famous Canton, Ohio, Greek, are all set for their wrestling bout to be staged at the Crescent rink on next Wednesday night. Londos agreed when here before to meet any man in the country and left a good sized check to guarantee his good faith and to insure his appearance. Many of the leading grapplers in the country were sought to tackle Londos, but it was not until Lemle sent on a hefty accompanied by a check that a capable opponent was secured. Lemle is a giant, yet he is a fast and clever mat artist. He has met many of the good ones and has always given satisfaction. He weighs about 200 pounds, and has had great experience at the game. He feels confident that he will be able to pin the Greek's shoulders to the mat. The men have agreed to wrestle to a finish, pin falls only to count, with the struggle held barred.

YOKEL LOSTS TITLE

BOSTON, April 4.—Boston wrestling fans saw the most sensational battle of the year, last night, and Mike Yokel, the world's middleweight champion, got the surprise of his career, up at the Grand Opera House when he was defeated for his title by Waino Keronen, the Finn. It was a whirlwind scrap all the way between two masters.

Keronen opened the melee by tossing Yokel in two minutes and 40 seconds, with a double armlock, after they had been called to the scratch. It was about the quickest fall ever scored over a man of class in this city and came with a suddenness that made the audience and vanquished gasp. Yokel won the second fall after a desperate fight of 52 minutes, 15 seconds, but was again toppled in the third in 15 minutes, 48 seconds with a head chancery and body scissors, losing the match and his title.

The new champion was challenged by John Kilonis and the def. accepted, the men to mix on the mat here next Thursday night.

POLO NOTES

The rival Lawrence team, not Worcester as previously announced, will play Lowell at the Crescent rink tonight.

With the season nearing its completion, many requests are being received for novel games after the race is decided. Some propose an intercity series between the winners and the runners-up. Others argue that we should do as they did not west. That is, to render the pennant winners a benefit. Others propose that two out-of-town teams meet on the local rink. This could be an innovation and many of the followers of the game aver that it would make a big hit. All the suggestions are being considered by the league officials.

Salem is right at Lowell's heels and the Harkins crew must keep traveling at the great pace it has maintained for the past month to be out in front when the bell rings.

AMATEUR BASEBALL
The Erie A.C. has reorganized for the coming season, and will play its first game next Saturday with the Holy Cross as opponents. The game will be played on the North common at 2 p. m. for two quarter balls. Players are requested to report for practice at 1 p. m. The Erie A.C. would like to challenge any 12 or 14 year old team in the city. For games please write to Manager Edward Harrington, 218

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

"If I hadn't given her a clout, she would have fired another flatiron at me," was the defense of one Daniel J. Murphy, when he was called before Judge Fisher in police court today on a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Winifred Ridal.

According to Murphy's story, Mrs. Ridal had dropped in at his house the other day and started an argument. He got sick of talking with her, and ordered her from the house. She refused to go, and he attempted to put her out. This did not meet with the woman's approval and she gave vent to her feelings by picking up one of three flatirons from the stove and throwing it at him. Although her aim was poor, Murphy decided not to take any chances on what her next attempt might accomplish in the way of injuries to his upper story, and brought the affair to an abrupt termination by giving her "a clout in the jaw."

He was ordered to pay a fine of $20 after being found guilty by the court. "If you were a single man I would impose a jail sentence," said the court. "Well, your Honor," replied defendant, "if I hadn't done it the other flatiron would have come." "That's all," said the liner. And so the case of Murphy and the flatiron was closed.

Pleaded Guilty
Mary E. Austin and James C. Burns pleaded guilty to a statutory offense, and the man was ordered to pay a fine of $50. The woman was sentenced to two months in jail.

Other Cases
The usual gathering of youthful offenders were present in the juvenile session, and in some cases were placed on probation after restitution had been made. Several other cases were continued for a week.

Strike at Wurttemberg Collapses

BERLIN, Thursday, April 3. (By the Associated Press.)—The government of Wurttemberg has announced that the strike in that section of Germany has suddenly collapsed, according to a telegram from Stuttgart, and has requested bourgeois counter strikers to resume work. Farmers joined in the counter strike and Stuttgart was almost without milk today, receiving only eighty litres instead of 8000, the usual amount.

Eight thousand striking workmen at Duisburg, Rhenish Prussia, have refused to resume their labors until adequate food has been provided.

"DEAN OF POILUS," AGED 80, MUSTERED OUT

PARIS, Thursday, March 27.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—After serving four years and a half in dugouts and billets as a sapper in an engineer regiment, Lieut. Surigne, 80 years old, was mustered out of service a few weeks ago. In 1914 he volunteered for the duration of the war and during the conflict earned the sobriquet of "the dean of the poilus."

After being accepted in the army, he served in a training camp learning the manual of the rifle and bayonet. When he had sufficiently advanced, he was immediately sent to the front and during the war, passed most of the time near Somme, where shells fell with constant regularity.

He is in fine health and tuned to continue the campaign, should occasion demand it.

"Monsieur Clemenceau is not, as stated by Mr. Lloyd George, 'the grand young man of France' says L. Liberte. 'This title belongs incontestably to Lieutenant Surigne. Our premier can grant it to him; there is indeed, enough of most glorious honor for him!'"

Billerica Murder Case

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Horton returned to the witness stand as yesterday's afternoon session began. Practically every available seat for spectators was taken. Mr. Donahue resumed his cross-examination.

"You said you noticed some marks of foot prints near the grave, did you not, Mr. Horton?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you measure them?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Now, as to the distance between these footprints, did you measure it?"

"No, sir."

"Was the distance between the prints much more than your ordinary stride?"

"Yes, I should say so, perhaps about 15 inches in all."

"Did you notice particularly any footprints made by small, pointed shoes?"

"Yes, sir, I did."

"Where did they point to?"

"Toward a little path."

Mr. Sawyer then took up the cross-examination.

"You said that the junk owned by the Boston & Maine railroad is sometimes sold, did you not, Mr. Horton?"

"Yes."

"It is not beyond reason is it, to imagine that this brass might have been sold in the usual manner?"

"To my personal knowledge, no."

George E. Byron

George E. Byron of Cambridge, general storekeeper for the Boston & Maine railroad, was the next witness.

"Have you any knowledge of any large quantities of junk from cars at the B. & M. car shops?"

"I knew of it in one instance, from a car going from Billerica to Concord, N. H., but it was not successfully traced."

Mr. Byron also told of going to the Resorts, Atlantic City, N. J.

Junk hole with Mr. Brown, Mr. Horton and Mr. Pringle. In speaking of the automobile tracks found near the hole, the witness said that there were signs as if somebody had tried to obliterate the tracks. He was not sure as to the distance between the junk hole and the tracks.

"Did you walk around the vicinity somewhat?"

"Yes, we walked around some looking for more holes."

"Oh, you were looking for more holes? Well, you walked up and down quite a little, didn't you?"

"Yes, quite a little."

"You wear rather small shoes, don't you?"

"Well, they are No. 6."

"No. 6? Would you mind showing your foot to the jury? Thank you."

"How many men were with you when you went looking for other holes?"

"Three—Brown, Horton and Pringle."

"How large were some of the pieces of junk you saw in the junk hole?"

"I think the largest pieces might have weighed 40 or 50 pounds."

"Did you see any marks on the ground which might have been caused by a man dropping such a large piece of junk?"

"Not that I remember."

The witness was re-examined by Mr. Tuffs. Referring to the map, he asked the witness to show the jury where the further search for other holes led him, and if the search had taken the party anywhere near the spot on the map which it is alleged marks the location of the grave.

"Nowhere near that spot," replied the witness.

Picking up a shoe, which is on exhibit as evidence, Mr. Tuffs asked Mr. Byron if the latter had ever worn a sharp pointed shoe, or one similar to the one being shown. The witness said he had not.

Harry C. Pringle

Harry C. Pringle, connected with the reclamation department of the B. & M. shops, was the next witness. He told of going to the vicinity of the blood clot and finding a pair of glasses there which he gave to Officer O'Brien. He said that he noticed no indications of a struggle, but did notice signs of something having been dragged.

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Mack and Mr. Donahue, concerning his trips to the junk hole and grave.

George E. Newcomb

George E. Newcomb of Medford, another employee of the Boston & Maine railroad, was the next witness. He testified to being a member of the searching party which found the pool of blood and Soulia's hat buried in a pile, and afterwards was at the grave when the body of Soulia was found.

The witness also stated that he noticed some footprints about the grave but not acutely enough to tell whether or not they were made by a man running.

Mr. Newcomb also testified to visiting the Cordia house, and what he found there. He also testified that he found a Zira cigar box a few feet from the grave, another box about six feet from the junk hole, and several similar boxes at the Cordia house.

"Mr. Newcomb, were you present at the Lowell police station after Cordia was arrested when I asked him where he was on the night of October 31?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did he say?"

"He said that he quit work at 4.10 o'clock and drove his supervisor, Thomas Brown to the postoffice. After that he said he went to Lowell and went to a fruit store and afterwards to a saloon where he bought a half pint of whiskey. He then said he went to a house in Wamesit, where his children were and that he and the man of the house drank the whiskey."

"Did he say he slept there that night?"

"Yes, sir, he said he went to bed there at half past eight."

"Do you remember what Cordia said when I asked him if he had recently had any dealings with a junkman?"

"Yes, sir; he said he had not."

"Do you recall what he said when I asked him if he knew a man called Jumbo, or his brother?"

"He called them by the name of Marino, I think, and referred to one of them as 'big da smush'."

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Donahue.

"At any time that you have seen Cordia, have you ever seen him smoking either a pipe or a cigarette?"

"I am a detective."

"How long have you been a detective?"

"Eleven years."

"How much investigation of the footprints near the grave did you make?"

"I didn't investigate them at all."

"What were you doing?"

"I was looking for some implement

"Do you remember what Cordia said when I asked him if he had recently had any dealings with a junkman?"

"Yes, sir; he said he had not."

"Do you recall what he said when I asked him if he knew a man called Jumbo, or his brother?"

"He called them by the name of Marino, I think, and referred to one of them as 'big da smush'."

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Donahue.

"At any time that you have seen Cordia, have you ever seen him smoking either a pipe or a cigarette?"

"I am a detective."

"How long have you been a detective?"

"Eleven years."

"How much investigation of the footprints near the grave did you make?"

"I didn't investigate them at all."

"What were you doing?"

"I was looking for some implement with which the crime might have been committed."

"While you were at the grave, how much time elapsed?"

"I should say about an hour and a half."

"What were you doing during that time?"

"Digging in the grave some of the time."

"About how long?"

"I should say half an hour."

"While you were not digging, were you sitting down?"

"No."

"I suppose you moved around the place somewhat, didn't you?"

"No, we stayed right there."

"Who was with you?"

"Mr. Horton."

"And you didn't move or walk around any?"

"No, sir; we stayed right there."

"That is a small clump of pine trees, is it not?"

"Yes, I think so."

"And you want the jury to believe that you did not go beyond the realm of the trees during this hour and a half?"

"Yes, sir."

"Mr. Donahue, also questioned the witness regarding Cordia's arrest and the interview at the Lowell police station."

"Was Cordia told at that time that he was under arrest on the charge of murder?"

"He was told that he was under arrest for some crime and could talk or not as he wished."

"Have you heard of anybody who heard any shots in North Billerica on the night of Oct. 31, or any other?"

"Well, I investigated one case of people who lived near Soulia's house, who, it was said, had heard an outcry at about 1 p. m."

"While at the police station at the time Cordia was arrested, did you hear him called a 'liar'?"

"No, sir."

Interpreter Called

Joseph Castilucci of Somerville was the next witness.

"Were you at the Cambridge jail on Nov. 3, last, in the capacity of an interpreter when I talked with Francisco Peeli?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you truthfully interpret from English to Italian and from Italian to English all that was said?"

"I did."

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Mack.

Chief of Police O'Brien

William S. O'Brien, chief of the Billerica police, was the next witness called. He told of finding the body of Soulia in the grave, and the finding of the hat and hat, said to have been Soulia's. He also said that he saw footprints near the grave, some pointing in the direction of Cordia's house and some toward Peeli. He said he put some sticks around the large footprints, but did not see any shoes fitted into them.

The witness stated that he arrested Cordia and was present when he was questioned by the district attorney. He further told of the story told Mr. Tuffs by Cordia, as to the latter's whereabouts on the night of Oct. 31, and that he was practically identical with that told by previous witnesses.

Chief O'Brien was on the stand when the court adjourned at 5.15 o'clock.

Fully 300 people were outside the courthouse, in Gorham street, when the afternoon session ended, and waited until the prisoners came out to be taken back to the jail.

WHEN BUYING ASPIRIN ALWAYS SAY "BAYER"

Ask for "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a Bayer package—marked with "Bayer Cross"

Don't buy Aspirin tablets in a pill box. Insist on getting the Bayer package with the safety "Bayer Cross" on both package and on tablets. No other way!

You must say "Bayer." Never ask for merely Aspirin tablets. The name "Bayer" means you are getting the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," proven safe by millions of people.

Beware of counterfeits! Only recently a Brooklyn manufacturer was sent to the penitentiary for flooding the country with talcum powder tablets which he claimed to be Aspirin.

In the Bayer package are proper directions and the dose for Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Colds, Grippe, Influenza-Colds, Neuritis and pain generally.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," American-made and owned, are sold in vest-pocket boxes of 12 tablets, which cost only a few cents, also in bottles of 24 and bottles of 100—also capsules. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing Co. of Monaca, Germany. Salicylic acid.—Adv.

GOOD TIME AT LAKEVIEW AVENUE SCHOOL

At the Lakeview avenue school Wednesday evening, the members of the two Americanization classes, their teachers and the regular teachers of the school met for what proved to be an evening of rare pleasure. Over seventy people, including guests of the pupils as well as of the teachers, mingled in games, sang together popular and patriotic songs and in other ways enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content.

The evening's entertainment opened with the singing of America by the entire assembly. Then a little girl in a pretty Polish costume recited "Rochymysie" in her native tongue and in English lines descriptive of her homeland. This little girl is the daughter of Mrs. Panas, to whom much of the success of the classes is due.

Miss Kirkpatrick, a charming little Armenian child, expressed in Armenian her affection for the land of her father and later surprised her hearers by singing in a perfectly true voice, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

In "The Flower of Liberty" Stanislas Jankowski displayed a fine knowledge of the English language, her enunciation being almost perfect. Master Edward Symanski, a young violinist of much promise, was next heard in a number of Polish and English songs and Mary Kapala and Amelia Banks gave pleasure in their recitation of "The Civic Creed." Miss Olga Truskeyewicz led the singing of the adults in the newer Polish songs as well as in the older songs dear to the heart of her people.

Teddy Konekko was color bearer during the singing of the patriotic songs.

During a brief intermission refreshments were served; then games were in order and enjoyed until the lateness of the hour brought the meeting to a close with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Till We Meet Again."

Among the guests who entertained were Misses Mary O'Neil and Miss Flynn, Mrs. Rose Coughlin, Miss Katherine Monahan, Misses Gertrude Reardon and Marion Reedy, Margaret Griffin, Margaret and Helen Loftus, Rose Deth, Mary Carey, Winnie Hart, and a number of other singers. Misses Marie O'Donnell, Angela O'Brien and Irene Lawler accompanied much of the singing on violin and piano.

SCOUTS TO SIGNAL FROM SUN BUILDING

If you see some Boy Scouts zig-zagging like mad from the top of The Sun building about 4.30 tomorrow afternoon, don't think that the Boieseviks are coming or the war is on again. The semaphore corps of the scouts are going to signal a message to another group, who will be waiting for it from a perch on the top of the Five Cent Savings bank.

The four scout districts of the city are to be represented in a relay race from Rogers park to the Concord bridge tomorrow afternoon and each boy carries a sealed message. The first boy to get his message through to the signal corps who will be waiting for it at the bridge will "shoot it" through to the boys on the roof of The Sun building. From there it will go via the semaphore system to another group on the bank, and from there to the Wier building. The boys at this point will signal it to the walk in front of city hall, and the first boy to get the message through will be acclaimed the winner.

Reduction of Wages For Miners

LEADVILLE, Colo., April 4.—Announcement of a reduction of metal miners' wages of $1 a day, effective May 1, was made today by the Iron-Silver Mining Co., operating several properties in this district, and by the Yak mines of the American Smelting & Refining Co. About 1000 men will be affected. Demoralization of the metal market was given as the reason for the reduction.

THE TRANSPORT AMERICA DUE TOMORROW

Desrochers telling of their son's forthcoming nuptials—his contribution to making the "entente cordiale" stronger. This letter was written in Paris and Mrs. Desrochers says she has now every reason to believe Hormisdas had led the Parisienne to the altar of the Church of the Madeleine and made her his wife. News of this effect is expected daily at the Desrochers home.

The young lady's name, Private Desrochers stated in his letter, was Mademoiselle Yvonne Chaumail. Her home is in Paris where she lives with her parents. The young soldier wounded while on duty in the trenches, was transferred to the Chemical Warfare service and ordered to Paris. There he

Why Spring Brings Out Freckles and Eruptions

The sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or the lines at the corners of the eyes at this season is attributed by scientists to the "actinic ray," which is unusually active during the spring months. Where the skin is so affected by this influence, if one will procure an ounce of common mercurized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, minute flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or two, with all its defects. No freckles could so effectively remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.—Adv.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

became acquainted with the young lady he announced he was to marry, and in the year that they have been acquainted, their friendship has developed into a love affair.

Included in the letter sent by Private Desrochers to his mother, was a paragraph written by him included in which she said she had to take that way of becoming acquainted with the parents of her future husband. It was stated that Private Desrochers hoped he could start for America with his war bride in a couple of months.

In the message sent to the parents of her American soldier, the French girl said that although wounded and at times in much distress, everything possible had been done to help Private Desrochers and he was receiving the best of care and comfort. She concluded by saying she was longing for the day when she and her American could start for America as husband and wife and begin their new life here. She sent her kindest regards to Mr. and Mrs. Desrochers. The latter expressed great satisfaction that their son is to evidently bring home a war bride and they say she will be given a warm and loving welcome.

If this marriage takes place and Mademoiselle Chaumail becomes Madam Desrochers, it will mark the coming to Lowell of the third war bride. One of the other two brides was an English girl and the second war bride was a French girl.

Private Hormisdas Desrochers will be 25 years of age April 11. He enlisted in old Company G in May, 1917, and spent several months in the trenches in France. He was severely wounded on April 12, 1918, but fortunately recuperated and when he was able to return to his military duties after leaving the hospital he was transferred to the chemical warfare service and sent to Paris, where he has been ever since. Prior to his enlistment in the national guard he served four years in the regular army, the greater part of which was spent in Honolulu, where he took part in many encounters but was never wounded. He has several brothers and sisters living in this city.

three and four stories respectively, located at 177 to 183 Dutton street and 292 to 298 Market street, as well as a three-story wooden structure at 181 Worthen street. The land area is 5100 square feet and the entire property is assessed for about $40,000.

The property was purchased by the First Trinitarian church in 1906 from the Bates estate, which had owned it for a great many years. About a year ago the First Trinitarian church and the First Congregational church amalgamated and since that time services have been conducted in the First Congregational church in Merrimack street. A few weeks ago the Trinitarian church building in Dutton street was taken over by the Lowell War Camp Community service and work on improvements in the interior and exterior of the building was immediately started. It is the intention of the War Camp Community service to make the building a typical community center for this city and accordingly about $17,000 will be expended on the improvements.

The building will be equipped with an assembly hall, reading rooms, recreation rooms, dormitories, shower baths, etc. A new roof will be put on and the large stained glass windows will be removed and replaced by modern plain glass windows. It is believed the building will be ready to occupancy in a couple of months. Shortly after the church building was taken over by the War Camp Community service the remainder of the church property was placed on the market. Messrs. Gayette and Potter being appointed sales agents. The deal was put through with Mr. Marin a few days ago, but the final papers were not signed until today. The three-story brick building in Dutton street has a store on the street floor, while the other stories are being occupied as a manufacturing plant by the T. C. Entwistle Co. The building adjoining, which is a four-story brick structure also has a large store on the street floor, the other three floors being utilized by the Entwistle Co. The wooden building in Worthen street contains a store on the street floor, the other floors being used for storage purposes. Mr. Marin has not yet stated what his plans are, but it is believed he is planning considerable alterations and improvements to the three buildings.

DEATHS

BAXTER—Andrew Baxter, a former resident of Lowell, died Monday March 31, at his home in Moscow, Idaho. Baxter was born in Lowell and received his early education in the public schools of this city. He left Lowell about ten years ago and located finally at Moscow where he conducted a large and prosperous farm up to the time of his death. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife Josephine (McNort) Baxter, also formerly of Lowell, five sons and one daughter, all of Moscow, Idaho; two sisters, Mrs. Arthur P. Pearson and Miss Katherine Baxter of Brooklyn, Mass.; a brother-in-law, Mr. Philip Riley and several nieces and grand-nephews also. He was a brother of ex-Congressman Patrick J. Baxter of old ward 3. Mr. Baxter visited Lowell about eight years ago and renewed acquaintances with many of his old friends.

BULLETINLeague of Nations

April 4, 1919.
Discussions too readily follow wrong lines; wires get crossed with the result that the sparks fly and heat develops.

What we all want is a true opinion on the fundamentals for a League of Nations and one of those, in fact, the first and all important one, is an agreement under which all will unite.

The spirit so far shown by the nations organizing through their representatives points to a readiness and earnest desire to sing differences and special interests for the sake of accomplishing this first and all important step.

Nothing should be allowed to jeopardize the unanimity. The League of Nations must include all. If the amendments to the Covenant and Constitution can be accepted without disrupting or preventing the participation of all and for all, then so much the better. We can all suggest amendments and fair criticism will help, but beware of interference that might breed irreconcilable discord and separate the nations of the world again.

The foundation is the main thing, and the U.S.A. can be and should be one of the corner stones, if not the keystone. The League of Nations is the logical outcome of the war. Without it we shall have rumors of wars and the peoples will have to carry insupportable burdens.
